KEEPING DOWN FRUIT DISEASES

White on the watch for some more menacing fruit pest, the orchardist should not forget the many lesser troubles that are universal and appear in all orchards unless care is used in guarding against them. There is a story told of a city in the southern part of the United States, where an epidemic of yellow fever was feared. It was in the day when the first frost was welcome signal for those, who possessed the means to get away to the hills in summertime, to return to their city domiciles. Yellow fever was a bugaboo, the mention of which caused babies to shriek and men to turn gray haired. The cause of the disease had not been discovered and eliminated.

In this particular city, yellow fever threatened. The host of doctors issued proclamations and practiced on the population with all remedies known to the science. But all of their attention was turned toward yellow fever, and by the time the first frost had fallen and before the people, themselves, and the physicians knew what was happening, a scourge of seven year itch broke out over the land.

And so fruit growers should beware lest they devote too much of their time, time and attention to novel pests, else the old, well known ones may muster their hosts and steal a march on them.

ANOTHER ROAD BOOST

The expressions of the party who returned last week from Lost Lake as to the construction of a highway by the side of the Lake and through the Bull Run forest reserve should be of cheer to the people of the Hood River Valley who are interested in seeing the scenic highway promoted. It is another evidence of the fact that those who have visited the ground, even though they are not in the least biased in the matter, fully recognize that the contentions of the Portland Water Board, who claim that a highway will cause pollution, are without practical foundation. Highway experts and water works experts who have visited the country over which the road will pass can see no reason for pollution. All grow enthusiastic over the proposed highway.

Oregon's United States Senators and Representative Lafferty have aided in the introduction of a bill into Congress for the blocking of the highway. They, of course, have been influenced by the contentions of the Portland Water Board. However, Representative N. J. Sinnott, who has been over the country and who fully understands the situation from a practical standpoint, has used his endeavors to set the matter right.

We think that the highway from the southwestern portion of the Hood River Valley to the headwaters of the Sandy river, will be built. Let more of Portland people see the scenic attractions it will open up. Let the members of the Portland Water Board, themselves, come take a look before gritting their teeth and taking decisive steps.

Aged in wooden barrels and tanks, Hood River Apple Vinegar may become as famous as the product of the Kentucky stills and Hood River canned goods may sell in great quantities, aided by the advertising that the apple has already had. Growers have an opportunity to assist in the enlargement of the by-products plant by payments in their cull apples. Not to take advantage of the opportunity will be a case of neglect; for the increased capacity of the plant, enabling it to handle the entire cull product of the Valley will be a boon to the community.

"Circumstances alter cases," and C. W. Hill, who says he has always been a supporter of a lenient prison policy, but who was a victim of Tuesday night's holdup declares that the young men who held up the Soo-Spokane train should meet with a speedy punishment, if captured. Stringent laws for criminal offenses, and swift law enforcement of the same will to a great extent prevent crime. And an ounce of preventive is worth a pound of cure.

Camas Prairie is to have a bit farm. Some one of the neighboring districts that desires an influx of new comers plant numerous corn patches, set a few stills on the hillside, and then extend a general invitation to Kentucky Colonels to wend their way hitherward.

What sport is so rare as that of fishing on a stream full of trout? Help the Fish Commission and increase the possibilities for your own pleasure by taking a few cans of the fry that will be brought here to the streams.

Mere babes are looting Hood River houses, it is reported. The babes are in the spoiling we think and the best advice we can think of offer is that of the very powerful use of the rod applied by the parents of the babes.

California orange growers are daring the elements. Citrus men are ordering orchard heaters by the thousands.

HUMANE SOCIETY HAS ACTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the board of directors of the Hood River Humane Society was held at the Commercial Club rooms Friday, August 15. In the absence of the president, Mr. Stranahan, E. H. Hartwig presided. Among the many subjects coming up for discussion was the leaving of horses for hours at a time on the streets, unfed and uncared for, and it was unanimously moved that the City Marshal be made an honorary member of this society and that he be instructed to take charge of any animals thus neglected, placing them in a feed barn, and so forth, the owner to redeem them upon payment of the stable charge. A notice is hereby given to careless owners that such action will be taken.

Report was also made regarding the overloading of teams on the grades, especially those drawing stumps for street improvement, and a committee was appointed to confer with the drivers.

Discussion regarding a means of getting the work of the society more widely known in this community was held, and, at the suggestion of Rev. Mr. MacDonald, it was decided to ask that the Home and School Association give one evening during the winter to a discussion of "humane" ideas, and it was also ordered that the secretary purchase for distribution the leaflets and other publications of the Humane Society. For this letter, and also for the sending of an officer to the country to investigate reported acts of neglect and cruelty, some funds are necessary and the society would greatly appreciate it if the members would send their dues for the last year to the secretary, or to the treasurer, Leslie Butler. These dues are small—only one dollar a year—but funds are absolutely necessary if the society is to do effective work.

Harriet MacDonald, Secretary.

FRUIT PROSPECTS FOR ALL WEST GOOD

High prices for delicious fruit in eastern markets and a bumper yield in the Northwest have combined to make prospect exceedingly bright for farmers in Oregon and Washington. Shipments from California have brought from $100 to $200 per acre, with an estimated yield of 14,000 cars to be shipped from the State. On the basis of present prices the revenue from these 14,000 cars will be $2,500,000. Taking this as an index, Oregon and Washington crops should also yield a sum which will go a long way to keep the wheels of prosperity turning.

The Southern Pacific company reports the movement over its lines eastward of 120 cars during three days of this month and states that shipments are now going forward at the rate of from 40 to 60 cars daily. The season is two weeks earlier this year than last, and the yield is heavier. Plums are most important in quantity, but will soon be replaced at the head of the list by pears. Next in order come peaches, together with the last of the cherries and apricots. Shipping began a month ago and will continue until November, the maximum being reached when the grape crop is at its height in October.

Railroad companies are calling upon shippers to co-operate that they may have a full supply of cars. If cars are loaded and unloaded promptly, there will be plenty to go around, but only prompt release of cars once loaded will allow the crop to move easily and rapidly. An especial appeal is made at this time to prevent congestion and it is believed that users of railroad equipment will respond.

ACTIVITY DISPLAYED IN AUTO BUSINESS

A renewed activity is being displayed in the Automobile business here. The Columbia Auto & Machine Co. during the past week has made two sales of cars and has received a new 1914 model of the Cadillac, which is one of the most handsome machines ever seen in the city. The lines of the body of the car are graceful and the effect of the upholstery gives it a look of elegance. The machine has six speeds forward and is a two speed rear axle car. Frank Cary, formerly with the sales department of the Michigan Automobile Co. in Portland, has come here to take charge of the sales end of the Columbia Auto & Machine Co.

The company will receive the latter part of this week a carload of Ford machines. They are also handling the Studebaker machines. "We are going to make things hum along," says Mr. Cary, "and we are ready at any time to answer the questions of patrons and prospective purchasers. We are at their service and are always glad to demonstrate the cars."

Those who have purchased cars during the past week are Dr. F. C. Brusius and J. E. Hall, Jr. Dr. Brusius has bought a Studebaker 25, a handsome five passenger car. Mr. Hall purchased a Ford runabout.

KIDDIES TO FROLIC ON COURT HOUSE GREEN

On the afternoon of Thursday, August 28, a party of about 70 of the children of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society home in Portland, who will come here aboard the Bailey Gatzert as the guests of J. H. Young, president of the S. P. & S. Railroad Co., will be entertained at luncheon by the women of the local Woman's club and members of the different church societies.

The luncheon will be spread on the court house green, after which Truman Butler and other automobilists will conduct the party through the Valley in their cars.

Mrs. Chas. H. Castner, president of the Aid societies will meet at the Commercial club rooms Saturday afternoon and confer as to plans for the entertainment of the visiting tots.

Returning with a party of Portland business men who had accompanied the Central Oregon region, Secretary of the Interior Lane passed through the city Monday afternoon. A delegation from the Commercial Club met Mr. Lane at the train and invited him to stop over for about twenty minutes, in order to get a glimpse of the Valley. However, the train stopped for only a few minutes and the Secretary was unable to accept the invitation.

SULZER APPLE PACKING LAW

(Effective July 1, 1913.) Sec. 1.—Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the standard barrel for apples shall be of the following dimensions when measured without distention of its parts: Length of stave, twenty-eight and one-half inches; diameter of head, seventeen and one-eighth inches; distance between heads, twenty-six inches; circumference of bulge, sixty-four inches outside measurement, representing as nearly as possible seven thousand and eight hundred cubic inches provided that steel barrel containing the interior dimensions provided for in this Section shall be construed as a compliance therewith.

Sec. 2.—That the standard grades for apples, when packed in barrels which shall be shipped or delivered for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce, or which shall be held or offered for sale within the District of Columbia or the Territories of the United States, shall be as follows: Apples of one variety, which are well-grown specimens, hand picked, of good color for the variety, normal size, practically free from insect and fungus injury, bruises, and other defects except such as are necessarily caused in the operation of packing; or apples of one variety which are not more than ten per centum below the foregoing specifications, shall be "Standard Grade minimum size two and one-half inches," if the minimum size of the apples is two and one-fourth inches, in transverse diameter; or "Standard Grade minimum size two inches," if the minimum size of the apples is two inches in transverse diameter.

Sec. 3.—That the barrels in which apples are packed in accordance with the provisions of this Act, may be branded in accordance with Section two of this Act. Sec. 4.—That all barrels packed with apples shall be deemed to be below standard if the barrel bears any statement, design or device, indicating that the barrel is a standard barrel of apples, as herein defined, and the capacity of the barrel is less than the capacity prescribed by Section one of this Act, unless the barrel is plainly marked on end and side with words or figures showing the fractional relation which the actual capacity of the barrel bears to the capacity prescribed by Section one of this Act. The marking required by this paragraph shall be in block letters of size not less than seventy-two point one inch gothic.

Sec. 5.—The barrels packed with apples shall be deemed to be misbranded within the meaning of this Act: First—If the barrel bears any statement, design or device indicating that the apples contained are "Standard Grade," and the apples, when packed, do not conform to the requirements prescribed by Section two of this Act. Second—If the barrel bears any statement, design or device indicating that the apples are "Standard Grade," and the barrel fails to bear also a statement of the name of the variety, the name of the locality where grown and the name of the packer or the person by whose authority the apples were packed and the barrel marked.

The Cost of Orchard Heating This is the subject of some elaborate statistics by J. C. Alter, in the Monthly Weather Review, partially answering the question "Does frost fighting pay in Utah?" Assuming 30 degrees as the temperature below which heating is necessary, he finds that for the five-degree-12, to heat from 10 to 30 degrees—the cost is 60 cents per acre per hour, while with a further fall of temperature the cost increases 40 cents per degree per acre per hour. Thus to heat the orchard to the safety mark with a temperature of 20 degrees the cost is $4.20 per acre per hour. It is also assumed that if the temperature falls below 20 degrees, the crop cannot be saved; and this may happen after a large amount of fuel has been expended. Again, the business of firing presents many chances for small leaks of one sort or another, and such unnecessary firing is apt to be done in the attempt to err, if at all, on the safe side. Finally, there is the question whether the soot-laden and smoke-covered pollen can continue its work of fertilization. Some of the growers who in the past have "successfully" fired their orchards have now abandoned the practice. On the whole, Mr. Alter's deductions are discouraging, so far as his observations in Utah extend, but of course do not, necessarily, apply to other parts of the country, where frosts are less frequent and severe, or where fuel and labor are less expensive.

"MACE" BALDWIN WEDS PARKDALE GIRL

L. M. Baldwin, "Mace," as he is known to his many friends, was married Wednesday of last week to Miss Alda M. Pully. Rev. Van Nuys, of Parkdale, performing the ceremony. The wedding came as a surprise to Mr. Baldwin's many friends and to his associates in the First National bank, where he is a member of that institution's forces. Mr. Baldwin left here on Sunday, August 11, with the party that climbed Mount Hood, he guiding the party. The first news of his intentions to wed were received when it was learned that he had purchased a license. Mr. Baldwin will make his home in the city. At present he and Mrs. Baldwin and a number of friends are camping on Lost Lake.

Two Suspects Held

While it is considered doubtful that they are the right parties, the Portland authorities have captured two men who are being held as suspects of the Sullivan Gulch hold-up. P. A. Hudson, who was aboard the train and who left yesterday for his home at Dec, advances the theory that the robbers never left the train but travelled out of Portland with the other passengers. Mr. Hudson declares that several suspicious looking men were seen to pass from the rear of the train to the front soon after the holdup.
