STRUBLE URGES IM-PROVING OF CHANNEL

(Delivered recently by Wallace R. Strubble, secretary Washington-Idaho Development League, before Portland Ad Club)

I want to say to you, gentlemen of the Ad Club of Portland (and through you to the citizens of Portland, if you will advertise the fact), that the message of the Inland Empire to the city of Portland, and to Astoria, too, for that matter, is "Oh, hell! take the cork out of the bottle, and let the commerce run down the Columbia river." (Applause.) What you need to do, as you know, emphatically and at once, you know, emphatically and at once, without losing any time, is to open the mouth of the Columbia river, in order that the great ships of commerce which are to plough the Pacific, as we predict, and are continuing to prophesy and predicate, and so forth, upon the completion of the Panama canal, may get the habit of coming into the Co-lumbia river. I am not misinformed, I think, when I state that the relative proportion—the relative difficulty to overcome in transferring an established trade to a new institution is as 95 to 5; that is to say, where it costs $5 for one man to build up a trade, it costs an-other man $95 to take that trade away from him and transfer it to himself; from him and transfer it to himself; and that is the handicap which will prevail in the city of Portland and the tributary territory of the Columbia river harbor if this trade is ever per-mitted to get into the habit of going somewhere cise. Get it to coming into somewhere else. Get it to coming into the Columbia river, and you will have it established where it rightfully belongs, according to foreordination from the beginning of the world.

My friends, this is a great work. The Columbia river is a great river; the Inland Empire is a great empire. It is worthy of a great port; and nature has established at the mouth of the Cloumbia river the greatest fresh water harbor on earth, without question. (Applause) All it needs is improvement, and the time is not voluminous; you haven't a great amount of duration in which to do this work of duration in which to do this work of essential emminence. We are told that the Panama canal will probably allow ships to go through this fall yet, and in 1914 vessels may be transacting commerce through that great avenue, and trade lines will be established; so there are no days to be lost. I am glad to notice the tremendous organization that has been effected through Dr. Al-fred Kinney and other citizens of Astoria, and prominent citizens of Portterritory, for the opening out of this Columbia river harbor and the deepening of the bar channel. I do not think that Portland citizens ought to hesi tate for a moment in investing $750,-000, if need be, in a dredge brought from Liverpool, or anywhere else, that will do the business of digging a 40-foot channel over the bar. It is an investment that will be really worth the making in anticipation of the rich returns of the future.

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Hood River Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak

Way."
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.
Local evidence prove their merit.
W. H. Root, rancher, Thirteenth and State Sts., Hood River Ore., says: "I believe a cold started kidney trouble in my case. Irregular action of my kidneys annoyed me 'day and night and sometimes I was unable to sleep. The passages of the kidney secretions were attended with a burning pain. If I tried to stoop, I had sharp twinges in the small of my back. I felt weak, tired and languid and often I got dizzy.
Nothing helped me nntil I took Doan's Kidney Pills on a friend's advice. In less than a month I felt like a'different man and four boxes made me well. The pains went away and the kidney weakness became a thing of the past. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills after they belped me so greatly and I willingly confirm my former testimonial. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills off and on, when I catch cold in my kidneys and they always help me."

taken from a poem once familiar to lovers of the bucolic, and is reproduced because it shows a condition now greatly changed:

"Red, and russet, and yellow,
Lying here in a heap—
Pippins, rounded and mellow;
Greenings, for winter keep;
Seek-no-furthers, whose blushing
The soul of a saint would try,
Till his face showed the crimson,

The cheek of a Northern Spy." There is only one distinctly apple region in the world, and that is the Hood River valley, in Oreogn. The lines above quoted bear the same relation to Hood River that the lonely shoemaker on the bench bears to the Z. C. M. I. shoe factory up Main

In the far-away days you might have seen apples in heaps under the apple trees, but you cannot see it now—not where the apple business is reduced to a science, as every business must be to avoid a loss.

These times the orchardist cultivates These times the orchardist cultivates the soil about his trees until that soil is as mellow and responsive as the old-time kitchen garden beds were. The trees are sprayed in the fall—notice to quit, served on the parasite pests that would otherwise make their winter homes and breeding places in cozy corners of bark and branch. They are sprayed again in the spring, and two or three times in the early summer, and neither worm nor scale can establish residence. The orchardist goes through the orchard as summer days develop the fruit, and thins where vigor has forced an undue number of apples into ed an undue number of apples into life, sending the ripening currents of the tree into the perfect fruit remaining.

And in the time of apple harvest the careful pickers go up on ladders and earefully pick each apple, laying it tenderly in canvas pails, carrying it as carefully to the boxes, and sending it with utmost concern to the packing house. Only the culls, the refuse apples, ever are seen "red, russet and yellow, lying here in a heap."

There may have been a day when apples could be shaken from the trees, rounded into piles on the ground and thumped into bins in the cellar for winter use. But the day is past, for there is money in apples; and the fruit now accorded value have never a blemish on them, never a bruised spot, never a scale nor a speck nor a flaw. They are perfect from core to skin. And the color is as reliable in its promise as the quality is sure in its fulfillment.
