PORTLAND MEN PRAISE ROAD WORK

Public opinion, as voiced by the expressions of business men of Portland standing high in their varied branches of commerce, paid a great tribute last Thursday to the work being done by Multnomah county authorities on that part of the Columbia river highway which begins at Rooster Rock and continues to the Hood River county boundary beyond Onesto's gorge. These opinions were given to an Oregonian reporter after a highly interesting day's trip over that part of the route where the work is now under way.

The trip itself was the outcome of an invitation extended by County Commissioner Holman. The work is in charge of S. C. Lancaster, assistant state highway engineer, who has surveyed the whole route, changing what was in some places a nine per cent grade to one which at no place exceeds five per cent. His plans call for a 24-foot highway in the place of a 20-foot with a maximum of 16 degrees on the curves.

The beauties of the road are so many and so incredibly superb and above all within 35 miles of the heart of the city, that one can be forgiven for boasting that when this road is completed Portland will have a road grander by far than the Yosemite Valley. The road is a masterpiece of engineering, a hundred feet high with but a few yards separating them; mountain peaks, towering rocks, luxuriant foliage and tropical verdure, the magnificent winding river ever in view, with the sun shining on the multicolored shore beyond, the wonderful combination of evergreen and deciduous trees, all combine to offer attractions unsurpassed.

This, in effect, was a composite of the views expressed by the various members of the party. At the conclusion of the outing each member of the party was asked to criticize, to say exactly what he felt, in the interests of the taxpayers. Their remarks were as follows:

A. S. Benson - Lancaster's great work insures permanency and solidity. The working organization is good, the road is a mighty good investment, and built by 1915 it will probably pay for its cost entirely in the year. The securing of Robert Brooke is a great thing, as I have seen much of his work, while Mr. Holman's work is worthy of the highest praise. The camp is comfortable, sanitary, clean to a degree and the labor could not be secured at a lower price.

J. A. Currey, Trussed Concrete Steel Company - As a member of the American Society of Engineers, I was interested in an engineering standpoint, owing to complex problems relative to grades, and peculiar formation of ground. It is really a revelation of road building skill. Construction is accomplished along modern and scientific lines, the work is permanent and the road a monument. Mr. Lancaster is peculiarly fitted, because in addition to his engineering skill he possesses an artistic sense of preserving beauty spots and vistas that present themselves to the attention of visitors from all over the world. The good is an asset to Portland not to be measured in dollars and cents. The camp work is economical and well arranged, with an abundance of good water. The county is not providing something of the favored few, but of pedestrians as well as those who ride in vehicles of any description.

Samuel Hill, president Home Telephone Company - The county is getting full value for every dollar spent. I am familiar with the road from the Cascades to Portland, having walked it more than once, and I approve heartily of all the work that is being done. E. Hofer - I have traveled over the United States and I am conversant with the work and policies of the county boards of my own county. The work is economical, is being done energetically and well. The beauties of the road will compare more than favorably with anything that either hemisphere can offer.

M. G. Winstock - From the methods that are being employed, from the plans outlined and from the work already accomplished, can see that the taxpayer is getting full value for his money and the support of every man should be given wholeheartedly to Mr. Holman in the work that he is doing along these lines. J. B. Yeon - All roads must be built substantially with a view to the future. This is the greatest scenic road I have ever seen, and it is being built economically, the organization is good, the men are working all the time and I can only say that if I had enough money I would offer to guarantee the whole expense of construction with the promise that if the county did not think the money well spent, it would not need to pay a dollar. It is a project of which the advantages cannot be measured today.

HISTORY WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The Workmen's Compensation Act, one of the four measures to be submitted to the people at the special referendum election to be held November 4, was drafted by a commission composed of A. T. Huxton, H. G. Starkweather and B. G. Lee, representing the Grange; J. A. Madsen, William A. Marshall and R. A. Harris, representing labor, and Geo. M. Cornwall, Amodeo M. Smith, and James B. Kerr, representing the employers. The bill drafted by this commission was passed by the legislature by an almost unanimous vote, was promptly approved by Governor West, and would have gone into effect June 3, 1912, had it not been held up by a referendum petition, which was filed by W. E. Farrell, of the firm of Davis & Farrell, a Portland law firm with a large personal injury practice.

The act applies to all employers and workmen engaged in hazardous occupations, unless they elect in writing not to come under its operation. The act provides that any employe of any employer subject to the Act, or his dependents in case of death, shall be held up by a referendum petition, which was filed by W. E. Farrell, of the firm of Davis & Farrell, a Portland law firm with a large personal injury practice.

The advantages of this plan to the workman and his family will be apparent when it is realized that under the employers' liability method, now in vogue, only about one workman out of eight has a legal claim for damages. The compensation provided by the act is exclusive and neither the workman nor his dependents have any claim against the employer, unless the employer has refused after demand to pay his required contribution to the fund, or unless the commission entrusted with the administration of the act determines that the employer has violated the general statutes of the state with respect to some safety appliance and the injury has resulted from such violation.

The fund from which compensation is to be paid, is made up from the following sources: Three-fourths to be paid by the employer, one-eighth by the state, and one-eighth by the workman. For a short period, and until a surplus required for the necessary fund is provided, all employers pay at the same rate, but thereafter the payments depend upon the care exercised by each employer and the number and extent of the accidents occurring in his plant or works.

The Family Cough Medicine In every home there should be a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, ready for immediate use when any member of the family contracts a cold or cough. Prompt use will stop the spread of sickness. S. A. Stiel of Mason, Mich., writes: "My whole family depends upon Dr. King's New Discovery as the best cough and cold medicine in the world. Two 50c bottles cured me of pneumonia." Thousands of other families have been equally benefited and depend entirely upon Dr. King's New Discovery to cure their coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. Every dose helps. Price 50c and $1.00. All druggists. H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.

UPPER VALLEY HARVEST OVER LAST WEEK

The picking of Upper Valley apples was practically completed last week, the last fruit to be harvested being the Baldwins. The foliage of the trees of the Upper Valley has turned faster than that of the Lower Valley orchards, and nearly all of the orchards there are now yellow. There is a great demand for Upper Valley Gravensteins. This variety is considered one of the best of the district. The fruit matures later than the Gravenstein of the Lower Valley, and although it retains all of its juiciness and flavor it keeps like a winter apple. After one has once eaten an Upper Valley Gravenstein it is considered one of the most excellent of all varieties for eating.

Taking Toll of Babies Each season of the year takes its toll of the babies, and to watch and safeguard from common colds and coughs is a matter of importance to their parents. To keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house and use it promptly is to save the little ones from the serious effects of these colds, to ward off croup, bronchial coughs, hoarseness, stuffy spells, wheezing and violent coughing whistles. It is absolutely free of opiates and may be given to the little ones with no fear of harmful results. Refuse substitutes. For sale by Chas. N. Clarke.

Would Stop Paid Petition Hawkers Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., would stop the paid circulation of petitions for the initiative, referendum, direct primary or recall. He has drafted a bill containing such provisions. Ex-Senator Bourne says:

The most serious preserve impaired the right of petition. But preservation of the right of petition does not require continuance of the practice of employing paid circulators any more than preservation of the right to vote requires continuance of the former practice of paying men to go the polls. All that is necessary is free opportunity for preparing, circulating and filing petitions.

Checking in the throat, hoarseness, loss of voice, indicate the need of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It eases the lungs, quiets the cough and restores health in the bronchial tubes. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Chas. N. Clarke.

Horses to Have Apple Day Working horses of Chicago will have an "apple day" tomorrow under the auspices of the Anti-Cruelty Society. Ten barrels of juicy apples will be distributed to the horses when they approach the various drinking fountains. Accompanying each apple will be a copy of "The Horse's Prayer," which will be handed to the driver by society women who have volunteered their services.

"Apple Day" for horses will be an annual event, according to the officers of the society.

When your food does not digest well and you feel "blue," tired and discouraged, you should use a little Herbine at bedtime. It opens the bowels, purifies the system, d restores a fine feeling of health and energy. Price 50c. Sold by Chas. N. Clarke.
