MRS. WEATHERED SAYS, USE CARE

Among the visitors in Hood River last week was Edyth Tozier-Weathered, who is campaigning the state in interest of patronizing home industries. While here she gave valuable suggestions as how best to advertise Hood River county at the Panama Pacific exposition. Mrs. Weathered was commissioner from this state to the international expositions held at Omaha, Buffalo and Charleston, St. Louis, Portland and Seattle. She in part said:

There will be all sorts of freak plans presented to the different counties by those who seek to get hold of county money, and by these with no sentiment or idea of practical results for the outlay. People must remember that a county is only a small unit in an exhibit where the industrial, educational, social, civic and all other conditions of the world are presented, covering acres and acres of space.

While we must have a certain amount of fruit well selected and placed attractively—yet the most important, and in fact, the only real practical and far-reaching means of publicity, is an intelligent conversationist to be constantly on hand, explaining real facts and conditions without a lot of "hot air" to give it high lights. Then, too, send those who will work for the best interests of the state and not for their own alone. Do not consider those who are willing to go "just for expense," in order to have the trip. Select those who know how to earn their salary.

Another important factor is neat appearance. A state is often judged, for or against, by the appearance of attendants. (Janitors are furnished by the exposition.) Those in charge of exhibits are the hosts for the state, among themselves and the members take part in social functions of the expositions. Oregon's representatives want to be those who can be a "man among men," and given places on committees, etc., those never having been connected with "these fairs" can hardly realize the many opportunities to put a state or county in the line light. A bright and capable person with the glad hand goes a long way toward a state's publicity.

Sending people to expositions, or appointing on account of giving kindred or neighbor a job—or a trip—is a very expensive way of spending tax-payers' money.

Along this line also follows the freak publicity. During my experiences at expositions I have learned that one of the very best ways of interesting the farmers, and others too, is the reading room in connection with a county exhibit, where visitors can rest and read a county paper. Many times a visitor has told me—they read and consider the columns of a paper, when they throw a circular on the floor. During my work at Buffalo and Charleston the Oregon editors mailed me a paper each week, not all did this, but many of them. These were given out to those eager to have them. Then, too, in several counties I had arranged for the school teachers to have their pupils write compositions on resources of their respective counties. About 5000 were received at Buffalo and were given out during the National Educational Association convention. The New York papers had quite thoroughly advertised the fact of my going to give out these compositions and the demand was so great I could have delivered thousands more. So many said, "The words of the children relative to that western land will be read with confidence."

There are numerous ways of giving publicity to a community which do not require a great outlay of money. And yet, it will be greatly effective. Let me impress a most important factor. Do not let any man represent you unless he knows how to extend the glad hand to visitors. A cold and unkind disposition does not invite close inspection of an exhibit.

Before any part of Oregon closes up deals with "supposed" publicity cranks and their freak methods, the commissioners should study well into its practical results and see if the taxpayers' money is giving some one a "side show" instead of a dignified and educational exhibit.

Mrs. Weathered has been invited to give a talk in Hood River in the near future relative to what the women and children can do toward the Hood River county exhibit.

Swellings of the flesh caused by inflammation, cold, fractures of the bone, toothache, neuralgia or rheumatism can be relieved by applying BAL-KIDNEY SNOW LINIMENT. It should be well rubbed in over the part affected. Its great healing and penetrating power eases the pain, reduces swelling and restores natural conditions. Price 25c. 30c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Chas. S. Clarke.

Annual Meeting Riverside Church
Riverside Congregational church enjoyed another of its annual banquets and business meetings last Wednesday night when a goodly number sat about the festive table and later reviewed the work of the past year. Notwithstanding the difficulties encountered, the year was seen to be one of progress. The pastor announced that an extra thousand dollars was assured by the building society of the church to facilitate the clearing of the church from debt. An active campaign to this end will be instituted in the near future.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of Arthur Lewis and Carl Vaughan as trustees; James H. Hazlett, treasurer; Mrs. C. K. Marshall, deaconess and the re-election of W. H. McClain as Sunday school superintendent; A. C. Buck as deacon and I. R. Acheson, as clerk.

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY FIGHTS FIRE BLIGHT

The following article, taken from the Ashland Record, shows what the Rogue River valley is doing to stamp out fire blight.

County Fruit Inspector J. W. Myers and ten regular and special deputies have started in to clean up the orchards of Ashland. Their work is in pursuance of the orchard cleanup campaign recently inaugurated by the county court. The crew has been down below Medford last had to postpone work there on account of the foggy weather and the muddy condition of the orchards.

The crew is making a tree tree inspection of each orchard as they go into it. They are provided with red ribbon flags two feet long and an inch or more wide. When they find a tree diseased with blight they tie a flag to a link so that the owner can readily find it. The crew is ready to teach the owners how to cut the diseased parts of the tree, but do not cutting themselves except to illustrate. In the event a tree is found so badly diseased that there is a risk to try to save it by cutting out the diseased parts it is condemned and two red flags are tied to it. The owner must at his own expense cut down and destroy the same within the time limited by the inspector.

Owners of orchards on request of the deputies are expected to give a description of the land on which their orchard stands—section, township and range—together with fractional subdivisions of the same. When inspection is complete and trees are found diseased with blight, the inspector or his deputy serves notice of disinfection on the agent, owner or lessee. The notice contains the proper remedies and ways to eradicate the blight in the trees and specifies the time in which the owner must cut out and abate the same.

In the event any owner ignores in any particular the details as to the abatement of the blight found in his orchard, or uses anything for sterilizing the tools in cutting out the blight other than is mentioned in the notice, it is the duty of the inspector or his deputies to summarily condemn the diseased trees and destroy them. In this event the expense becomes a lien upon the land.

This campaign is expected to eradicate blight so far as it now exists but there is plenty of liability of a recurrence. A. H. Carson—commissioner of the third district—says it will be up to the owners of the orchards of Jackson county and all other counties of the third district to be alert, and personally inspect their orchards for blight, and on the first indication of twig blight to cut the same out, or else they are liable to lose many dollars.

He says there is not an owner of an orchard in the Rogue River valley but can identify blight, and it will be up to him to care for his interest and investment in his orchard. If any orchard is neglected to do so, thereby endangering the property interests of his neighbor—the inspectors will summarily condemn and destroy the trees found diseased. The apple and pear growers of the beautiful Rogue River valley must not lose the valuable groves that are only coming into bearing and produced this year a million dollars.
