Should the land owner have no use for the water assigned to him, he may sell it to another in the District who wants it. The board will assist in bringing such parties together. This method of assessment and collection differs from that in the West Side District, because that district, by reason of having bonds outstanding when the new law passed, must operate under the old or former law.

Explanation of District Assessment

Hood River, Ore., Feb. 24, 1914. To the Editor: In explanation of the tax levied by the East Fork Irrigation District, and now being collected by the county tax collector: Under the law of 1913 the board of directors in September of each year must prepare a budget of expenses for all purposes for the ensuing year and levy and assess that budget equally upon every acre of irrigable land within the District, whether the land be cleared, improved, tilled, or not, and make up a tax roll of such assessment, certify it to the county clerk, who must spread it upon the county tax roll, and it is collected by the county tax collector in the same manner and at the same time as other state, county and school taxes. Under this law the East Fork board fixed their budget at $15,000 for 1914 for all purposes, including maintenance, water toll, bond interest, etc., and assessed that amount upon the irrigable acreage of the District is fixed at 11,153.30 acres, or at the equal pro rata of $1.3442 per acre. This is now being collected together with the owner's other taxes. There will be nothing further to pay by the land owners of the District for any purpose until the collection of taxes for this tax each owner is entitled to receive that proportion of the District's available water supply which his tax bears to the entire tax roll. This quantity will be figured and announced on the opening of the canals this spring. Should the land owner have no use for the water assigned to him, he may sell it to another in the District who wants it. The board will assist in bringing such parties together. This method of assessment and collection differs from that in the West Side District, because that district, by reason of having bonds outstanding when the new law passed, must operate under the old or former law.

FIRST NATIONAL BUYS EAST FORK BONDS

The East Fork Bonded Irrigation district, yesterday afternoon sold to the First National bank of this city $71,400 worth of its advertised bond issue of $150,000 at 90 cents, the bonds to bear six per cent interest. In accordance with an option entered into last year the district purchased from the East Fork Irrigation Co. its system. The purchase price, paid in bonds at par value, bearing an interest of six per cent, was $49,283.83. The indebtedness of the old system, amounting to $52,000, which was assumed by the district in the transaction, has already been paid out of the proceeds of the bond sale. The Lumberman's Trust Co., of Portland, made a bid of 90 cents for the entire issue. However, offering to take only the sum of $50,000 at the present time, specifying that $100,000 be placed in escrow until the settlement of the litigation between the district and the Oregon Lumber Co. over the waters of the East Fork of the Hood river. "The suit brought by the lumber company will probably come on for a hearing this summer," says Geo. R. Wilbur, attorney and secretary of the district. At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday, the offices of the city water department and the recorder were consolidated. Recorder Howe will have charge of both works, and will be allowed a deputy, Miss Lucille Johnson, former water clerk, receiving this position. Writer Urges Timber Tax

Mount Hood, Ore., Feb. 24, 1914. Editor Glacier: Why not issue bonds enough to build good roads in all parts of the county? Why not have all standing timber cruised and taxed as in other counties? Standing timber increases from seven to 10 per cent per year in value but pays no taxes. Land it grows on pays a nominal tax because there are no roads penetrating it. The timber goes free until shipped out of the county to enrich foreign corporations. Orchardists pay a tax on every tree they plant. A stumpage tax as in other counties would build lots of roads as well as improve undeveloped country. It would increase county valuation and place a share of the tax where it belongs. Would not a stumpage tax bring enough money without issuing bonds? The natural wealth that we find on the land should help develop the land and build roads. Think about it. Would Be Road Builder.
