Mrs. Louise Boyden, Miss Hazel Stanton, Prof. Hans Hoerlein. Admission 25 cents, children 10 cents. Edward Hill left Tuesday to attend the private view exhibition being held at that city by the art club of which Mr. Hill is a member. Mr. Hill has several of his pictures in the exhibit, which began yesterday and will last for two weeks. The exhibit is given for the club members with their invited guests. The wedding of Wayne W. Blagdon, of Harbor, Ore., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Blagdon, of this city, and Miss Frieda G. Dow, of Davenport, Wash., was solemnized on Tuesday, April 28. They have not as yet decided as to the private view exhibition, but will probably reside on Mr. Blagdon's ranch near Harbor. Mayor Ward, of Goldendale, was in the city on business last week. Mr. Ward, who owns property in Duks Valley, was shown over the new county library while here by E. L. Smith. The city of Goldendale is now interested in securing an appropriation from the Carnegie corporation for the construction of a building in that city. Mr. H. L. Wilson and little son, "Jimmy," who have been here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Weber, left last Thursday for Salem, where they will join Mr. Wilson and make their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have been living in Portland. Mr. Wilson is an electrician in the employ of the O. W. R. & N. Co. B. R. Richter and B. R. Crumb, ranchers of the Trout Lake district, were in the city last week visiting friends and attending to business. They were taken for a tour of the valley by E. O. Blanchard. Mr. Richter has been making numerous improvements on his large Trout Lake valley ranch. W. A. Lockman undoubtedly holds the rat catching record for the valley. One day last week Mr. Lockman made soundings around the burrow of what he supposed was one rat. The lay of the land looked adapted to his purpose, and he set a steel trap. In a short time he visited the trap, finding his victim, squealing in frenzy. Its mate was watching the agony of the entrapped rodent, and Mr. Lockman again placed the trap in place. Rat followed rat to the slaughter until at the end of the day Mr. Lockman, counting up, found that he had caught just six big fellows.

Idol Woodworth Dean

Idol Woodworth Dean was born in Wasco county, Oregon on Sept. 23, 1886. She spent her girlhood days there until her fourteenth year when she, with her parents, moved to Hood River, Oregon. Here she graduated from the Frankfort school. Later the family moved from the ranch into town, where she won a host of friends who will always treasure her memory. On October 9, 1912, she was married to Roy F. Dean, who had formerly lived in the east and had taken her city as his western home. They moved directly to Los Angeles for their new home, 3402 Larissa Drive. On account of Mrs. Dean's failing health they were operating for empyema, in hopes of her ultimate recovery. Thinking she was doing nicely, as well as could be expected, at the end of three weeks she was taken to her city home, all looking for well days again, when she would be strong as heart could desire. Her last days were quietly spent with her mother and husband. All three fought to conquer death to the very end, which came Tuesday, April 28. Mrs. Dean bore her suffering so patiently and sweetly with a wonderful spirit through all her sickness. She was a devoted wife, as well as the loving daughter. All who ever met her in this life recognized a woman of sterling qualities, culture and innate refinement, one who always had that rare and valuable gift of making friends wherever she happened to be. To know her was to love her. To mourn her death are left her husband, Roy F. Dean, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Woodworth, a sister, Ethel Woodworth, of Junction, Alaska, and a brother, Roy N. Woodworth, of London, Oregon. The funeral services were held at the Resolida cemetery chapel in Los Angeles, following which the remains were cremated. Rev. J. A. Eby, of the United Brethren church, conducted the services.

Grangers Hold All Day Meeting

Pine Grove grange held their regular meeting Saturday. Owing to the busy season there was not a very large attendance, but what we lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm and good feeling. A thorough report was given, showing the work of the grange during the past week. It was decided to hold our regular meeting on the 6th, but to have an adjourned meeting on Tuesday, May 19, at 2 p. m., when a big time is promised. All members are earnestly requested to come and bring their baskets well filled. Supper will be served after which there are many important topics to be considered. Surely we can all spare one big day for our enjoyment and forget for that time the work and care of the busy season. In a hundred years from now this little old hall day will never be missed, so come along and bring your family out for a good time where you can mingle with your friends and neighbors and enjoy yourselves. Remember the baskets and the day, Tuesday, May 19, at 2 p. m. at Pine Grove grange hall. Granger.

Rose Blossom Will Soon Be Riotous

Hood River will soon be a city of roses. A riot of big buds, of all colors and varieties, is already bursting. No residents of the city take greater delight in their rose garden than Mrs. W. F. Laraway. From the first of May until winter has fairly begun, one or both of them may be seen with scissors in hand cutting a bouquet for some friend. "We grow them to cut them," says Mrs. Laraway. "They give pleasure then to our friends as much as to ourselves." Mr. and Mrs. Laraway take special pride in their huge Scotch Neil vine that clammers in a protected spot, over their back porch. On the front of their house is a Beauty of Glazenwood that has bloom laden runners 24 feet in length. Their garden also contains large handsome Galt roses, bushes, which have produced roses nine inches across.

Knights Entertain Pythian Sisters

Declared by all present to be one of the most pleasant events they had ever attended, Waucoma Lodge of Knights of Pythias entertained the members of the Pythian Sisters and their friends Tuesday evening at the K of P. hall. The following program was rendered: Piano duet, Mrs. Andrew Kern and Mrs. T. D. Waldie; reading in Chinook argon, Jasper Wickham; vocal solo, Earle Spaulding; reading, Mrs. H. Garbrant; vocal solo, J. K. Carson, Jr.; piano trio, Mrs. Andrew Kern, Mrs. T. D. Waldie and Mrs. Arthur Howell; reading, Earle Spaulding; excerpts from a newspaper, "The Home Use Special," J. K. Carson, Jr.; piano duet, Mrs. Arthur Howell and Mrs. Andrew Kern. Delicious refreshments were served and old fashioned games were enjoyed.

Masonic Bodies Denounce Fake

W. F. Laraway has received from Grand Secretary Robinson, of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Oregon, a communication calling attention to an article in Sunday's Oregonian exposing a spurious organization in Portland. Mr. Robinson asked that the matter be called to the attention of local citizens to prevent anyone from being duped by the "Clandestine Masons," as they have been termed. "While the exposure of the fake is commendable," says Mr. Laraway, "we think it would have had sliding in Hood River, where true Masonry is fully understood." Convictions of the parties at the head of the lodges have been made in Vancouver, B. C., on the charge of securing money under false pretense.

Endeavor Societies Meet

The Hood River local union of Christian Endeavor societies met in their first social and get-together service Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Christian church. About 125 of the young people of the city were in attendance. These young people represented the societies of four of the churches of Hood River, the Methodist, United Brethren, Congregational and Christian churches. Paul Treiber was master of ceremonies, and you may leave it to Paul to see that things move along about right. After a short program the time was occupied by various methods of getting everybody acquainted with everybody else. The evening closed with a delicious luncheon at 10 o'clock.

Butler Donation Buys Books

A large number of volumes of fiction by standard writers has been added to the county library, the new books having been purchased with the fund of $50 donated by Leslie Butler.

Supervisor's Removal Asked

A petition signed by 70 citizens of the Mount Hood road district has been presented to the county court asking for the removal of W. B. Davidson as road supervisor and the appointment in his stead of Robert Lassure. The petitioners allege that Mr. Davidson has discriminated against citizens of the district, using teams and men from other sections, and that the men employed on road work have not labored as ardently as men employed by private individuals.

Calkins Has First Strawberries

The honor of producing the first box of strawberries for the season falls to T. D. Calkins, who operates the Partry Dairy on the Morton ranch west of the city. Mr. Calkins yesterday brought to the Glacier office a box of large sized, deep red berries. No fruit has appeared in the market equals the berries for looks or flavor. It was a kind of an appetizer for the shortsake and berry and cream days that loom near.

Mrs. Pratt Buried in Iowa

According to a letter received here by Mrs. B. L. Dumble from her brother, Rev. L. M. Idleman, of Los Angeles the funeral of Mrs. C. G. Pratt was held in that city Tuesday of last week. Rev. Idleman conducted the services. Mr. Pratt, accompanied by his son, Robert W. Pratt, left immediately for Anamosa, Ia., with the body for interment.

Thompson Distributes Seeds

County School Superintendent Thompson is distributing seed from thousands of native grown plants to the school children of the county, the recipients promising to exhibit at the industrial school fair a head of the product. He is also distributing 100 pounds of O. W. R. & N. seed corn on the same basis, the children offering to exhibit 10 ears at the fair.

Perkins-Peterson

The wedding of Clyde W. Perkins, an Upper Valley rancher, to Mrs. Mattie E. Peterson, was solemnized Friday at the Baptist parsonage on the Heights. Rev. Robert Gray officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Polk, who recently came here from Arkansas. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins will make their home in the Upper Valley.

W. E. Colby, of the firm of Bailey & Colby, who for the past six months has been in Marshfield and Bandon engaged in writing a number of building contracts, including the new Irving Block, and the Chandler hotel annex in Marshfield, and the First National Bank building in Bandon, returned home Tuesday.

Mr. Colby states that J. M. Wright, formerly mayor of this city, is doing well in Marshfield. "While business is quiet in the coast city at the present time," says Mr. Colby, "work is laid out that will cause things to pick up very fast here."

B. F. Gray, who travels for a Portland firm through the greater portion of eastern Oregon, was here over the week end with Mr. Gray inspecting their ranch property in the Upper Valley. Mr. Gray states that he finds he prospects the best in 25 years for a large wheat crop in all eastern Oregon districts.

Christian Church

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day and we will have a suitable program, of which the following is a synopsis: After the communion service the messages of 12 governors will be given, on the day, responsive Scripture reading by the minister and Elder Cash; responsive reading entitled, "Their Mothers"; a beautiful reading, entitled, "Mother"; a special song, "My Mothers' Photograph"; some recitations by children, and other special. All mothers will be given a beautiful white flower. All who are not mothers are requested to honor their mothers, if living, by wearing a bright colored flower, those whose mothers are gone wearing a white flower of some kind. In the evening Rev. J. B. Parsons, of the U. B. church will exchange pulpits with the pastor. Our subject will be, "Why I love Jesus Christ to be Divine." Our Endeavor service will begin at 8:45. We are ahead in the contest. The minister expects to give a pretty souvenir to each one attending our Mothers' Day service. H. C. Clark, Minister.

Baptist Church

Mothers Day will be observed next Sunday both morning and evening with a program of music, recitations and readings at both services. In the evening the Sunday school will give the program and in the evening the following will take part: Piano solo, Ruth Howell; recitation, Mrs. Carson; duet, Elizabeth Carson and Jewel Taylor; reading, Mrs. Carmichael; instrumental music, Zeils Brothers; recitation, Alice Hall; solo, Mrs. Evinger; recitation, Alice Taylor; solo, Maude Melton.
