At the last meeting of the grange a building committee was appointed and this committee will investigate and report at the next meeting. Genuine regret will follow this announcement if Odell is thinking first of self for we think there is no one whose absence would be felt more than hers, but we realize that she is peculiarly fitted for the work she has chosen and she now enters a broader field of usefulness. Her steadfast Christian character and many womanly accomplishments leave their influence with those with whom she has been associated and will prove valuable to hear and those with whom she engages in the calling she has chosen.

Hull and Miss Eva Boyd, who arranged the program and directed rehearsals. Mrs. E. O. Dutro rendered valuable assistance.
