News has just reached this city of the wedding in Indianapolis of Fred W. Wasson, a wealthy young business man of that city, and Miss Belle Layman. Mr. and Mrs. Wasson, according to the report that has been received here, are en route to the Hood River valley to spend their honeymoon on Mr. Wasson's ranch.

Anderson Packs Hogs

J. B. Anderson has begun to pack pork and cure bacon at the packing plant leased by him west of the city. A large increase in the production of hogs has taken place in the valley, and Mr. Anderson hopes to pack a large percentage of the bacon and meat to be used by local people. He has already cured meat that shows the quality of the largest packing plant.

Mr. Anderson states that he will be ready to pay the top price for local hogs, and his plant will be a convenient place for the farmer to dispose of his hogs conveniently. Heretofore, it has been necessary for ranchers to butcher their hogs and dispose of the meat in small portions to the meat shops or neighbors.

Creamery Site Selected

The directors of the cooperative creamery have secured a site for their proposed building from W. S. Chapman. The location is at the foot of First street just opposite the Mount Hood station. Negotiations to secure an approach from the O. W. R. & N. railway company are now in progress. The greater portion of the cream will be brought down from Odell and Parkdale, and will be transferred from the Mount Hood station by hand trucks, while the valley cream will be transported, according to present plans, by motor trucks.

One-Armed Orchestra Plays

With the precision of skilled two-armed musicians, an orchestra composed of five one-armed men, gave a concert at the Electric theatre Sunday afternoon and evening. The musicians played the following instruments: Two violins, a guitar, cornet and bass viol. Their renditions were enjoyed by the Electric's patrons.

On Tuesday the Electric presented pictures of Col. Roosevelt's trip through South America.

Correction

In order to correct erroneous reports that were circulated shortly after the drowning of young Glenn Goodall last week to the effect that it was not known that he was in swimming, his mother, Mrs. M. E. Woodburn, states that he secured permission before he left for the river. "He always says me before going to the river," says Mrs. Woodburn.

White Enlarges Force

From one to four has been the increase of the cigar factory operated in the Smith building by F. M. White, who began work last December. When Mr. White opened his factory he was able to supply the trade himself, he now has three additional workers. The cigars produced by Mr. White appeal to the trade, and sales are made as fast as the goods can be made.

Importance of Pure Milk

Diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid, sore throat, influenza, tuberculosis and numerous other diseases are transmitted through milk.

50% of the absorbed odors from a cow stable are soluble, and therefore absorbed by the milk. The largest part of the infection of milk is immediately after it is drawn. Manure particles, fodder, molds, cow hairs, human hairs, fungi, parts of insects, particles of skin, down from birds, bits of wood, woolen and cotton threads and soil particles have been found in milk.

The most critical period of handling milk is immediately after it is drawn. Aeration and cooling is employed to get rid of the carbonic gas, which is replaced by air.

We handle our milk by modern methods and in a sanitary manner.

Pioneer Tells of Reunion

Hood River, Ore., June 20, 1914.

Editor Glacier: I attended the Pioneers' reunion at Portland on the 18th and I want to tell you we had a high old time. Those from Hood River whom I remember meeting there were J. L. Carter, president of the association during the year just past, Rev. Troy Shelley and J. P. Lucas. The meeting of old friends that one has not seen for 50 or 60 years, the recounting of the deeds, the trials, the privations and the triumphs of the years gone by; many of the incidents of a pathetic nature, and many of a lively and jocular nature, constitute the great incentive to take a few days off once a year and make this visit. The ranks of the pioneers are rapidly thinning, the youngest of them are 55 years of age and soon the last of these state builders will have passed on to their reward, and while a few met us with a shrug of contempt, the great majority of the people of Portland received us quite royally and entertained us munificently for which we were truly grateful.

Carson C. Masiker.

Congregational Church
