LARGE NUMBER LEARNS TO PACK

INSPECTORS ARE THE INSTRUCTORS

Association Holds Annual School—Daily Free Lecture on Grading Rules An Added Feature

A glance at the cards they are studying might lead one in these days of war news to think that the students at the Apple Growers Association packing school were studying army tactics. But the diagrams of the placards do not represent the possible maneuvers of battalions and army corps. The charts show the methods of packing apples. Men and women seeking instruction in this wholesome and remunerative art have mobilized from all parts of the Hood River valley. They have come from Underwood and White Salmon, and the Willamette valley and Portland are represented.

One of the sections of the storage house of the Apple Growers Association, temporarily a school room, was presented a busy scene since Monday, when the packing school opened for registration. Apple laden packing tables have been arranged conveniently in the room, and about them are grouped the boxes of the students. It is an interesting sight to view the intent faces of the beginners, men, women, boys and girls. Instructors hover about the working groups ready to demonstrate a method of packing the fruit. A smile of satisfaction lights up the face of a beginner. He has finished his first box of fruit and regards it with pride. But the inspector comes and deftly lifts an apple from the rows of the pack, showing that a larger one or perhaps a smaller one should have been placed there. And so the work continues.

The school is being attended by growers, many of whom are taking the lessons in packing. They are attracted by the daily lectures on the rules of grading. An effort is being made to thoroughly instruct all interested in the fruit industry in the grading rules, which will be maintained this year strictly according to letter.

Lectures are being delivered by E. H. Shepard, H. P. Davidson, E. T. Folts and different inspectors. Mr. Folts is the chief inspector of the association this year.

The field inspectors are: West Side, John Stranahan; East Side, Charles Stranahan; Odell, Peter J. Mohr; Upper Valley, C. Gunn. The following have been appointed house inspectors: H. D. Emrey, Odell; Marsh Isenberg, Pordham Kimball and Ed Baker have been assisting the inspectors in instructing the packing classes.

The following have registered at the packing school: Gus Miller, W. B. Adams, P. W. Teaschout, Sherman J. Frank, Charles Fisher, F. M. Nelson, M. A. Shultz, G. E. Beaton, H. F. Beckman, Alphonse Kollas, C. P. Saltzman, P. E. Horn, Mart Horn, Ida W. Sifton, Douglas Lockman, Mrs. L. Wandling, J. F. Worst and L. B. Worst, Lyle; H. A. Russell, Mrs. L. F. Hill, M. M. VINEGAR CO. ADDS AN EVAPORATOR

1,000 POUNDS THE DAILY CAPACITY

Plant Will Handle the Usual Tonnage of Matured Apples—Fruit Will Be Received September 15

For the past several weeks, indeed, since the European war burst suddenly upon the world, those located in the fruit districts have heard urged the need of evaporators, and a bit of asset that will be of the utmost importance to local growers this week is the announcement of the Hood River Apple Vinegar Co. that an evaporator will be constructed to handle about 1,000 tons of the local fruit this season. Charles J. Calkins, manager of the vinegar factory, says the new plant will be composed of two kilns, which will handle about 1,000 pounds of fruit per day.

A lot just south of the vinegar factory on the opposite side of Railroad street, has been purchased, and the new plant will be located there. The lot is 8x100 feet, and is large enough for the construction of more than 20 kilns.

"We expect to enlarge the evaporating business just as we have done the vinegar end of our plant," said Mr. Calkins, "and if we find markets and meet with cooperation from growers, we, in a few years, can handle more than 20,000 tons of fruit with the evaporator."

The addition of the evaporator at the vinegar plant will increase the employees of the company to a number of eight or ten. The apples will be pared on the second floor of the vinegar plant and will be taken to the kilns by an overhead trussed runway.

Rumors have been current in the valley to the effect that the vinegar plant would not operate. "These are absolutely erroneous," says Mr. Calkins. "Last year we used about 2,200 tons of fruit in the manufacture of vinegar. We expect to use the same amount this year. We shall be ready to receive mature apples by September 15.

"We have made every effort to work for the interest of the growers, at the same time advancing our own interests. We expect to continue this policy and hope, with the aid of the growers, to bring the new industry to as successful a point as has been developed in the manufacture of vinegar."

CHAS. H. CASTNER IS NEW CITY FATHER

Communications from the Hood River Corset band and the Commercial club asking for street privileges for carnivals to be held here were referred to the judiciary committee with power to act. The band will have a carnival company here the latter part of this week and next Monday. The Commercial club will present the Rose City Carnival Co. October 15-17, inclusive.

WILLOW FLAT MAN GROWS FINE PRODUCTS

In Willow Flat on the ranch of Mrs. Flora Hartley may be seen products of which any farming community would be proud. W. R. Gibson has charge of the ranch. Mr. Gibson is a practical farmer, and on every hand the visitor sees evidences of his energy. On an eight acre tract, between the tree rows of a young orchard, Mr. Gibson will harvest a record yield of potatoes. It is estimated that he will have between 700 and 1000 sacks of tubers.

There is an atmosphere of thrift about the place, and the visitor is impressed with the productive fields and barnyard. Mr. Gibson has a drove of 55 young pigs and seven or eight old hogs. With the price of pork soaring, the owner of such flocks has nothing to be worried about.

Mr. Gibson has about 10 acres of as fine corn as has ever been seen in the valley.

WITH BOND VALID ROAD WORK TO BEGIN

The news that the supreme court had sustained the decision of Judge Bradshaw and had declared the $75,000 Columbia highway bond issue valid, despite the alleged defects in the proceedings, was received here with general joy.

On account of the emergency the supreme court made special efforts to decide the case. Judge Derby, county court, spent last week in Portland preparing his brief. The case was argued by him and Attorney Lynn Coover, of Portland, last Friday.

Campuses have already been located by the Newport Land & Construction Co., the successful bidder on the contract, which will begin work at once.

Hazlett Announces Appointments

J. H. Hazlett, chairman of the Hood River County Central Democratic committee, has filed by appointment vacancies existing among the district committeemen. Mr. Hazlett announces the complete list of precinct committeemen as follows:

East Hood River, J. H. Koberg; West Hood River, M. R. Noble; Waucoma, J. M. Culbertson; Heights, Geo. B. Wilbur; Center, A. D. Ramsey; South Hood River, E. W. Sweeney; Pine Grove, V. Winchell; Odell, L. A. E. Clark; Parkdale, H. S. Crouse; Dee, A. B. Billings; Baldwin, J. B. Duggett; Falls, John R. Cates.

Macrum Visits City

Dr. C. A. Macrum, of Mosier, who was recently appointed Horticultural Commissioner for the eastern Oregon district, was in the city Tuesday conferring with County Judge Stanton. Dr. Macrum succeeds R. H. Weber, of The Dalles, who recently resigned from the commission. Dr. Macrum, who formerly was a practicing physician in Portland, now resides in his 40-acre orchard tract at Mosier.

Electric Installs New Machine

A new moving picture machine was installed the latter part of last week at the Electric theatre. The new apparatus projects steady pictures that are not tiring to the eyes of the spectator. Enclosed in fire proof metal, it makes the show safe from fire. It has devices that enable the operator to adjust its lenses and to work it with ease.

COURT PROMISES HIGHWAY SURVEY

According to plans of last week, when the Upper Valley Good Roads committee met with the county court, a delegation of citizens of that district met the court at the old Toll bridge and proceeded with them over the route of the proposed survey for a loop highway to lead into the Upper Valley from the East Side and to pass down from Parkdale to Dee and thence to connect with the West Side macadam.

The county court has assured the Upper Valley citizens that they will order a survey made for an Upper Valley trunk line, but have asked that before action is taken that before presented with a general petition from the citizens of the Upper and Lower Valleys.

The road inspection party from Hood River was as follows: Truman Butler, Murray Kay, J. O. Hannum, Ed Hawkes, L. E. Kellogg, R. F. Marquis, L. Silverstein and R. Q. Marquis. Mr. Silverstein was here from Portland visiting Judge Stanton.

They were met by Chas. Steinhauser, Geo. Monroe, J. K. Barroll, Jr., W. C. Smullin, A. R. Nickels and Ralph Root.

Lunch was prepared for the party at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Candee. "I have never enjoyed a better meal in my life," says Judge Stanton. "Mr. Hannum, our Upper Valley commissioner, has often told me of the good things they have to eat in that district. His stories of the feasts that have been provided were not in the least exaggerated. Twelve of us sat down at the meal and the thirteenth came before we had ended. Fried chicken formed the piece de resistance."

National Song Celebration

On next Thursday at noon all students of the public schools of the county will sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Thursday will be the anniversary of the composition of the national song.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Gibson opened the doors and put out the "welcome" door-mats at the high school last Monday morning. The assembly room was so crowded by students wishing to engage in the pursuit of knowledge that it was necessary to put chairs in the library, gymnasium and in the auditorium. Prof. Gibson, who will be the training teacher, opened for business at the high school annex, formerly the Dark carpenter shop, which is now, with the added equipment, a first-class manual training department. Prof. J. W. Critch has been fitted out with a recitation room and laboratory in the old manual training room in the basement.

Gladys Reavis, '12, of last season's Whitman College Girls' Glee Club, was at the high school Monday morning by special request and sang as part of the program.

Nine of the would-be teachers in the 1914 pedagogy class secured schools. The other six could have had schools. Gertrude Stanton and Nell Tolman will teach near Condon, Ore. Florence Brosius, Leita Bowerman and Irene Williams have schools in the Willamette valley. Gertrude Nickelsen will preside over an emporium of learning near Dufur. Della Smith, Elsie Moore and Ella Oxborow will teach in Gilliam, Wasco and Crook counties respectively. The latter pedagogy, Ella Oxborow, took the teachers' training course while a junior last year and when it was found necessary for her to graduate before she could obtain a teacher's certificate, she studied during the summer and got her high school diploma. There are ten signed up for pedagogy so far this year.

An incomplete list of those of last year's graduating class who will go to college is as follows: Olive Richards, Nell Blowers, Frances E. Baker and Elizabeth Carson to U. of O. Eugene; Marion Howe and Esther Husbands, O. A. C. at Corvallis; Allen and Ruth Harris, Pacific University; Forest Grove, Ore.; and Thurston Laramy will attend business college at Portland.

Conrad Jacobsen, '12, last Tuesday for University of Washington at Seattle, where he will enroll the coming year.

The total number of pupils enrolled in the city schools is 610. The enrollment in the grade schools of the city is 440 and in the high school 170. The enrollment at the high school will probably total 200 before the end of September.

A calamity befell the senior class of H. R. H. S. last Tuesday when four prominent male members of that class who have come up all the way from the freshman class with them were requested to remove to the junior room because they lacked so many credits that they would be unable to graduate this year.

The H. R. H. S. 1915 football team will start practicing tomorrow night after school. Capt. Frederick Cosbow, of last year's team, will captain the team until the student body election. Five of last season's team still remain in school. The o'd timers are Capt. Cosbow, George Bragg, Rud Imholz, Julius Jacobsen and Donald Cochran.

An incomplete list of contestants out for the teams are Hasbrouck, Von der Ahe, Porter, O. Jones, Cooper, Loftis, Blackman, Button, Lancaster and Berry. Herr Fritz wants enough hopefuls to game up two teams. The team this year will have return games with the Hill Military Academy, and Columbia University teams of Portland and will probably have a series of games with Gronewall's pets of The Dalles. The D. H. S. team was fighting their faculty during football season last year and the local team could not arrange games with them.
