TOMORROW'S MEETING

So important is the apple growers' meeting of tomorrow afternoon that every grower in the Hood River valley should be present.

The main task of the proposed board of control will be that of regulating the selling price of apples. Its members will not be under the dominancy of any agency.

At tomorrow's meeting it is proposed to name seven delegates from the Hood River valley. It is deemed most advisable by those who have studied the situation most thoroughly that the Apple Growers Association, the Hood River Apple & Storage Co. and the Fruit Growers Exchange each have a representative delegate.

PROFITS FOR THE REAL FARMER

Whatever the status of general financial conditions, the real, frugal farmer is usually found in an independent state. Sometimes he is too independent for his own good.

Our readers may come to think that cows and hogs are fetich words with us. Indeed, they are, for we believe that every apple ranch in the valley should have its cow and as many pigs as can be profitably cared for.

If it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The price of feed went up amid a groan from swine raisers who did not have sufficient feed for their animals.

No doubt many ranchers who formerly had strawberry tractors wish they had their berries now instead of so many apple trees.

Hood River apples cannot be beaten. The Cooper & Laraway Jonathans, although two years old almost, would take prizes over fresh apples in some communities.

The prophecy of the ground hog seems to be coming true locally. Another day of this good weather and the birds will not await St. Valentine's Day for their mating.

Chas. N. Clarke should have searched more carefully in other crevices in his former drugstore. He might have discovered a Mona Lisa.

A team of Pegasus could not have done better than the animals drawing the Connaway Mercantile Co. delivery wagon last week.

It is not what a new court house would be, but the new court room is, indeed, an improvement.

Hog and harmony are subjects on which all fruit growers seem to be talking now.

We wonder if the Allies and the Germans will exchange valentines.

Spring poets and new automobiles are making their debuts.

BUTLER WORKS FOR HYGIENE SOCIETY

Leslie Butler was in Salem this week having gone before the joint ways and means committee of the senate and house with a number of prominent Portland men seeking an appropriation of $31,000 for the State Hygiene Society for the coming two years.

PRUNED BILL CAUSES COURT TO BE SUED

H. A. Moser, who was here the latter part of last year auditing the books of the county for the State Insurance Commission under the law providing for systematic accounting of county business, through his attorney, E. C. Smith, last week filed a suit against the county court for the recovery of $100.00, alleged to be due for services of auditing.

Mosier Wants Dock Road

At a recent enthusiastic regular meeting of the Commercial club a number of questions were discussed, but the most important one for Mosier at this time was the building of the road to the boat landing, says the Mosier Bulletin.

Through the efforts of the grange the county court appropriated $500 for the road, and at this week's session of the court the question was discussed of allowing $350 additional. The city of Mosier has voted $200, and may give more, road districts No. 9 and 10 will appropriate more or less, and individual subscriptions will swell the fund sufficiently to warrant the immediate beginning of the work.

W. C. Stone, superintendent of the rock crusher, has offered to build the road with the steam shovel for $1200, a sum far below what it would cost to do it in any other way. There will be some work to be done by hand and team, but the main job will be done by steam. We may consider ourselves most fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Stone and the steam shovel, and should certainly appreciate the generous offer of the Pacific Bridge Co., in doing the work for the sum mentioned. In fact, we could never raise the amount necessary to build the road by hand and team work.

Knights Enjoy Wasco Trip

Twenty-four Knights of Pythias enjoyed a visit to Wasco last Friday night by special train over the O.-W.R. & N. line to attend the annual district convention. The local men were joined by a large delegation from The Dalles. The annual convention is one of the most enjoyable events of the year for the Knights.

Dorothy Epping Honored

According to a dispatch received by the Oregonian from Berkeley, Calif., Monday evening, Miss Dorothy Epping, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Epping was chosen Monday for the most important part in the annual masque or "Parthenia" at the University of California, where she is a member of the sophomore class. Miss Epping will be "The Ideal Spirit" and leading dancer.

Glacier Explodes

A dispatch from Fairbanks, Alaska, tells of the explosion of a glacier in that vicinity. The dog team of a freighter was overturned and his goods hauled into the air. The stream of water that gushed from the ice was two feet in diameter.

Such glacial geysers have often been seen by those who live in the Upper Valley. Several years ago Col. and Mrs. Tucker saw a column of water and spray burst from Eliot glacier. Summer before last the guests at Cloud Cap Inn watched with interest a similar phenomenon.

White Salmon Cannery Stock Increased

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Columbia River Cooperative Cannery at White Salmon Saturday, the old board of directors, J. K. McCracken, of Portland, president, was reelected. Some bylaws relative to handling the coming season's crop were adopted and it was decided to make an increase of $15,000 in the capital stock. A large share of this was subscribed at the meeting.

Meeting of Park Grange

McALISTER WRITES MORE ABOUT HOGS

C. M. McAlister, of the Portland Union Stock Yards, who was here several weeks ago and delivered an address on swine raising, states that he has recently been reading extensively to determine what kinds of products may be raised here for hog food. His letter follows:

Since visiting your city I have investigated and read up on the subject of cheaper feed that might be grown in your section to offset the present high price of grain. I find that field peas, corn and artichokes have been grown successfully in western Oregon and Washington. One of your prominent farmers, F. E. Batten, has demonstrated very fully that corn can be grown and matured in your valley.

I am still of the opinion that this is the small farmer's opportunity and trust they will not dispose of their hogs until they have given the above crops a trial. I am fully convinced that along with the alfalfa, vetch and clover and other forage crops they can raise there that they can successfully raise and fatten the hogs at a profit.

It is a pleasure to meet newspaper men like yourself, who are progressive and willing to boost those things that have merit; and you and I know that diversified farming is the greatest of these.

Miss Scott's Engagement Announced

(From the Portland Journal) At a luncheon Thursday afternoon given for the pleasure of Miss Lois Scott, bride-elect, by Miss Greata Butterfield, the date of Miss Scott's marriage to Willard Sumner Smith, of Hood River, was announced for March 4. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Scott, 841 East Salmon street, and will be an exceptionally pretty home wedding. Miss Butterfield will be the maid of honor, the bridesmaids will be Miss Dorris Clark and Miss Harriet Allen, and Miss Dorothy Munsell, of Hood River, will act as flower girl. The young people will make their home at Hood River on an apple ranch.

A color scheme of pink and blue is planned for the wedding and the luncheon was also arranged in those colors. The table was centered with a cluster of pink hyacinths with pink tulle and dainty hand painted cards in blue and pink marked covers for eight, including Miss Scott, Miss Dorris Clark, Miss Sadie Noyes, Miss Helen Platt, Mrs. Mason Whittenberg, Mrs. Herbert Scott, Mrs. Jacob Gray Kamm and the hostess, Mrs. A. E. Butterfield assisted her daughter in receiving her guests.

The announcement came as a great surprise, as Miss Scott's engagement had not been formally announced, only a few close friends having been told. She is a charming and talented girl with a host of friends and her coming wedding will doubtless be the inspiration for many smart affairs.

FINNS, FURS AND FEATHERS

J. K. Carson received a letter from an old time friend in Kentucky the other day that caused him to grow reminiscent. When Mr. Carson, who now preaches sermons to recalcitrant tramps who desire to linger too long around Hood River, was a boy the dramatic temperament was strong within him. The friend's letter caused him to remember a memorable day, when he and a number of boy friends killed a large gray hawk. The majestic bird lying cold and still in death on the blue grass of the Kentucky pasture caused the blood lust of the young hunters to turn to pity. Out of the boughs of a red cedar they formed a bier and bore the big bird away to a little natural amphitheater formed by limestone boulders. Mr. Carson was delegated to preach the funeral oration, and there in the land of corn whiskey, beautiful women and best footed thoroughbred horses, was sounded forth one of the most touching funeral service sermons. Mr. Carson declares that that was his masterpiece.

The report of the county court for the February meeting shows that six bob cats were killed, at least twenty were paid on that number, during the month of January. Two coyotes were killed in the county.

If the city council would levy a tax or a license on cats, it is very probable that enough revenue could be collected to care for a good portion of city expenses; that is, if the tax could be collected. It would either bring in a nice return or lead to an extermination of cats. A census of the Hood River cat population would show astounding figures, judging by the sing feat the felines often hold in the evenings.

Pollution of various streams in which salmon and other fishes are wont to spawn and propagate is to be prevented by a bill passed by the house Monday. The following rivers are thus protected: Willowa, Grand Ronde, Umatilla, John Day, Hood, Molalla, Santiam, McKenzie, Umpqua and Rogue.

It is reported that scarcely a day passes that Governor Withycombe does not receive letters from people of eastern Oregon demanding that he be prevented from leaving the state for a tour of inspection. The following is a specimen of the letters, showing the sentiment among the ranchers of the prairie districts:

I respectfully submit to you the following statements relative to the prevention of mad dogs and coyotes in the vicinity of Dry Lake. It is reported that a dog bitten by a mad coyote bit his owner, who was cut with the dog after cows. The dog bit the boy several times. Later the dog went into town and bit 12 persons. The boy is already dead, and doubtless other deaths will follow. It is an every day occurrence for stock to be bitten in this section, and many have died, and the infection seems to be on the increase. In fact, it is no longer safe to travel without a gun, and even then, if you wish to visit a neighbor who has dogs, you are taking great risk. The writer himself has narrowly escaped being bitten by dogs, several times, since people seem to have no inclination to keep their dogs muzzled.
