BETTER BABIES CAMPAIGN IS NOW ON

April 7, 1915.

Editor Glacier: At an enthusiastic meeting of interested mothers in the county library Saturday, April 3, definite steps were taken towards arranging a Better Babies contest and health exhibit for Hood River in connection with the school children's industrial fair. A preliminary meeting was held some weeks ago. At last Saturday's meeting Mrs. E. O. Dutro was unanimously elected manager because of her interest in starting the movement here, and her experience gained as a member of the state hygiene committee of the Mothers' Congress. Mrs. C. D. Hoyt was in the same manner elected her assistant. Five of the Parent-Teacher and Mothers' clubs of the valley were represented. It is sincerely hoped that when the next meeting is announced all will send at least some members. In fact, every mother in city or valley who is interested in the movement is urged to come.

It was decided that two committees, the hygiene and visiting committees, should be appointed by the president of each Parent-Teacher Association. The duty of the hygiene committee is to see that the literature concerning the movement be posted in the school and information regarding it be made general. The visiting committee will try to make personal canvases of all the mothers of eligible babies in all city and valley, explaining to them the purpose and value of such a contest and registering as many applicants as possible.

Children up to the age of five years are eligible. A motion to request five dollars apiece, or as near that amount as possible, from the different associations, was unanimously carried.

This fund will be used to defray the necessary expenses. Hood River doubtless needs no enlightenment on this movement, which has done so much to improve the children throughout our country, but to be reminded that it is not a contest of beauty, or cuteness, or fatness in our babies, but a scientific action to learn how nearly physically and mentally perfect our children may be, and if not perfect what their shortcomings are, most important, how to correct them.

The health exhibit will be interesting to all mothers. Proper implements for the entire feeding and care of the baby would send sewing to the fair might make one or more of the little garments necessary for a properly clothed baby. In like manner boy carpenters might display homemade beds and other little articles for the babies' better health and comfort.

It is to be concluded that the soil and intelligence that can produce the best apples in the world ought to do much more vitally, namely, their children.

PIG PICTURES WILL BE HERE SOON

The moving pictures taken Saturday, March 27, when the Portland Union Stockyards distributed 17 young sows among the school children of the county, by a representative of Pathe Weekly, will be shown at the Gem theatre on Friday and Saturday, April 16 and 17. A letter was received yesterday by the Glacier from O. M. Plummer, secretary and treasurer of the stockyards company, who was here when the swine were being distributed, offering the local people the privilege of seeing the film. Arrangements were immediately made with the Gem to have the pictures shown on the dates above mentioned, when it will be most convenient for the boys and girls of the county to see the moving pictures.

A portion of Mr. Plummer's letter follows: "The moving picture film is a splendid piece of photography. There is about 150 feet of it and if you would like I could send it up to you to be run in your picture house any time after next Sunday. After you have had it at Hood River it will be sent to San Francisco. The original film was sent to the little people at New York to be used in their weekly. "I am looking forward to the time, and that very shortly, when Hood River will be as famous for its hog production as for that of apples and I believe this will be brought about without any reduction in the apple crop; rather the reverse. "I was quite pleased early Monday morning to receive a telephone from White Salmon saying that the school children over there wanted to make application for 25 sows."

Scott Says Weather is Normal

The weather of the present March has been in no way very unusual from that of the March of the past three years, according to R. E. Scott, acting secretary of the Commercial Club. "I have kept a daily record of the weather for that period of time," says Mr. Scott, "and it shows that last year we had 22 days of fairly warm and clear weather during March. It rained on the first day of March, and then the dry weather began. Some of the days were very warm, too."

"UNIVERSAL PEACE" IS THE SUBJECT

EVANGELIST YOREX

Evangelist A. A. Yorex, of Portland, Ore., will give his lecture on the subject of "Universal Peace," next Sunday, April 11, at 3 p. m. at Heilbronner hall. In his examination of this all important subject, Mr. Yorex is said to develop matters of very great interest in view of the present distressing situation world wide.

His deductions are said to be the product of a careful study of the scriptures as well as the secular political aspect of the present situation. Many are perplexed as to the solution of the present war situation and just how peace will be established. Mr. Yorex assures us that the Bible and the Bible alone gives us the satisfactory solution. The lecture is free and all are cordially invited to attend.

Corrected

Last week the Hood River News and the Hood River Glacier published the recommendations of the good roads committee of the Commercial Club and their method of having the people of the valley vote thereon, and in said articles it appears that said matters were talked over with myself, and a number of people have asked me regarding the same, and I wish to say that it was just merely mentioned some time ago, but I was not consulted regarding said recommendations or the method of voting thereon, and the first that I knew of the nature thereof was when I read it in the News.

Dated April 5, 1915.

An Apology

Editor Glacier: It appears from trustworthy information that Professor Thompson at both the February and March hearings in the Frankton district division case voted against a division of the district.

Now, if I have accused him wrongfully, through being misinformed, and it seems that I have, I want to make this voluntary retraction and apology to him for that part of my letter, and to do so in the same public way in which, through a misunderstanding, the accusations were made, and regardless of the unfavorable light in which it places me.

Notice of Street Improvement

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Ordinance No. 528, passed by the Common Council of the City of Hood River, Ore., and approved by the Mayor April 6, 1915, providing for the improvement of Sherman Avenue, in said City, between the west line of Sixth street, west to the east line of Twelfth street by grading, filling, curbing and paving, all in accordance with certain plans and specifications on file in the office of the City Recorder, that sealed bids will be received by the undersigned City Recorder up to 5 o'clock P. M., May 20, 1915, for the improvement of said street as set forth above, except in front of such property as permits for the improvement of such street under Ordinance No. 528 shall have been issued.

The Common Council will at its next regular meeting after the completion of the publication of this notice, to-wit: on the 3rd day of May, 1915, proceed to open and consider all bids for said work, which is ordered by the Common Council by said Ordinance No. 528, as above specified; that the improvement will be let in one contract, and will be required to be completed within 30 days from the date of the awarding of the same to the successful bidder, who will be required to furnish a bond to the City of Hood River, in the amount of not less than 25 per cent of the estimated cost of the contract, and to insure the safe return thereof; that complete specifications are on file in my office covering the improvements for which bids are called for, and may be examined by prospective bidders upon application or copies thereof will be furnished upon payment of $5.00 to insure the safe return thereof to the City of Hood River after the awarding of the contract, and said contract will be awarded to the lowest and best bidder upon said specifications.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to waive any defects therein for the benefit of the City of Hood River. The terms of the specifications shall be notice to the prospective bidders of the requirements demanded by said City in the performance of said work.

Property owners affected by said Ordinance No. 528 may at any time within one week after the approval of this Ordinance by the Mayor apply to the Street Committee for permission to do the work in front of their property, which permit shall be required to be completed within the time provided for completion, in accordance with the provisions of Ordinance No. 528. This notice is published in the Hood River Glacier for two consecutive issues thereof, the date of the first publication thereof being the 10th day of April, 1915.

The Witch of the Cascades

Copyright by Geo. L. Slocock

The late John Muir once wrote: "There stood Mount Hood in all the glory of the Alpen glow, looming immensely high, beaming with intelligence. It seemed neither far nor near." The whole mountain appeared as one glorious manifestation of divine power, enthusiastic and benevolent, glowing like a countenance with ineffable repose and beauty, before which we could gaze with devout and lowly admiration.

The Indians sometimes called Mount Hood "The Witch Mountain." Indeed, today, it seems ghost like at times. When the air is misty the snowy peak seems far away, a mere haze just a bit more material than the gray fogged atmosphere. But on the clear, sunshiny days of early spring and late autumn it looms close, towering over all western Oregon, its glacial sides and snowfields as clear cut as an exquisite cameo.

Mount Hood has become a part of the lives of the people of western Oregon. They look for it on arising in the morning, and in the evening they watch the shadows creep from the base toward the summit. And at nighttime, when a silvery moonlight floods the ice and snowfields, when all the intervening space is hidden in darkness, then, indeed, as John Muir has said, the spectator feels that he stands in front of the glorious manifestation of a divine power.

In Indian legend Mount Hood is Wiyacast, a great Indian chief of the west, who loved Loowit, a beautiful maiden who had charge of the first fire at the Bridge of the Gods. Klickekat, a chief of the north, was also in love with Loowit. The two chiefs quarreled over the maiden, and to punish them Saghalie, the chief of the gods, put them to death, but they had been so beautiful in life that he decided to make them beautiful in death. Wiyacast was transformed into Mount Hood; Klickekat, Mount Adams; and Loowit, Mount St. Helens.

Ferryman Is Successful Boatbuilder

Above is shown an illustration of the ferry sidewheeler, the Bear, of the Hood River-Underwood ferry system, operated by Capt. Otis D. Treiber. No stancher craft is to be found the length of the Columbia. The boat is so built that it has a very light draft and can navigate exceedingly shallow water. Immediately the spring rise of the Columbia begins Capt. Treiber enters the slough north of the city and lands during the high water at the foot of First street within a stone's throw of the O. W. R. & N. station.

The Bear was designed and built by Capt. Treiber himself. Indeed, the local river man is gaining a widespread reputation as a ferry boat builder.

Last year he constructed at Port Anegles on the Puget Sound a boat very similar to the Hood River ferry, and again this spring building a very much larger ferry boat on the Puget Sound. Capt. Treiber is a Hood River booster and never fails to put down a peg in behalf of a local wharf.

In the absence of the Hood River-Underwood ferry owner, the system is being operated by Bert Kent. In addition to the Bear, the gasoline launches, the Otter and the Seal, are always in commission. Mr. Kent states that the river is rising very rapidly and that by the end of the week he is expecting to be landing at the point just north of the slough.

DO INSPIRATIONS EVER COME EASY?

SURE, WHEN I'VE GOT THE REAL TOBACCO, CHEW

THE GOOD JUDGE LEARNS FROM THE ARTIST

TOBACCO satisfaction—a chew of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew.

The comforting taste of rich, mellow, sappy tobacco comes—and it lasts. Made of ripe, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

"Right-Cut" goes twice as far as any other tobacco for the same money. Get a pouch and see for yourself.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shreds so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

The Wise Housewife Does Spring Cleaning

While we are boosting the proposed clean up week, we also want to call the attention of ranchers and orchardists to the need of our services. As the housewife cleans up so should the rancher take an inventory of his implements, plows and discs. Let us repair those implements and sharpen those discs. You can then start the season with much ginger and get as good results as though they were new.
