TWO LITTLE GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH

No happening in Hood River valley has ever been more horrible than the burning of the home of Robert Robertson, of the Pine Grove district, last Friday night, when his two little daughters, Ruth, aged seven, and Violet, aged 14, lost their lives in the flames. The little girls were general favorites in the community, and news of the fire and its attendant horror was a shock to the neighborhood and cast a spell of gloom over the entire valley.

"I have never seen the telephone system busier," says D. H. Drewery. "Lines penetrating all parts of the valley were busy, people asking news of the fire."

Mr. Robertson and his young son were sleeping in the barn in order to care for a newly born colt. An older brother was away from home for the night. The girls were sleeping alone in a room of the second story of the house. The flames were first noticed by near-by neighbors who rushed to the scene and aroused the father and young son. However, the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to rescue the bodies of the children, much less save their lives. Their forms were burned to unrecognizable masses.

The reflection of the flames, seen by several other neighbors, caused no alarm, it being thought they were from burning brush heaps or piles of apple tree prunings. It is the custom of many to burn their prunings on still nights.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. It is thought that perhaps one of the girls arose after retiring and struck a match, which may have been tossed into a pile of papers on the floor. All of the contents of the house had been put into the lantern for use at the barn.

The pupils of the Pine Grove school attended the funeral, held Sunday morning at the Pine Grove church, in a body. The little girls carried floral offerings, which were laid on the bier. On the way to the cemetery both the little boys and girls marched in the funeral procession. Rev. G. E. Heinreich preached the funeral sermon.

The following six little girls were pall bearers: Misses Jessie Lewis, May Bales, Ray Bales, Helen Brosi, Esther Krossow and Beatrice Bratz.

WODECKI PRAISES HOOD RIVER APPLES

During the past year Carl Wodecki, a fruit market man of The Dalles, has handled a good quantity of Hood River apples. "When I want good apples," says Mr. Wodecki, "I go to Hood River and specify the variety, quality and quantity to the Apple Growers Association. I get what I want. I have handled the Hood River product with success."

Mr. Wodecki for two seasons past has figured prominently in the Hood River cherry deal and shall probably be in the market this season for Royal Annes and Bings. He has built up an enviable business in the neighboring city.

When here last week Mr. Wodecki declared that the fruit growers of The Dalles, the product of most of whom is cherries, are jubilant. Already 500 tons have been contracted to the big new Libby cannery now in course of construction, for four cents a pound. California preservers have bought 300 tons at the same figure.

Mr. Wodecki says the cannery of The Dalles will be ready to take Hood River pears at $22 per ton.

FISS, FURS AND FEATHERS

During the course of the season local people and their visitors, while on fishing excursions and when hunting in the mountains, have many interesting experiences. The Glacier will be very glad to have fishermen and hunters to give an account of their experiences in this column of the paper. If you hear a story or a good joke, report it.

CITIZENS DISCUSS LAND VALUATIONS

With County Assessor Wickham presiding, a meeting was held last Thursday afternoon at the Commercial club, where matters of taxation and the valuation of real estate were discussed. State Tax Commissioner Eaton was present and addressed the meeting, explaining methods used by the Commission in arriving at their valuations, their ratios of county taxation and the sums assessed the different counties. Mr. Eaton suggested that a meeting nominate a number of men owning property in different parts of the valley to sit with him and cooperate in setting a proper valuation on Hood River real estate.

The following men were named: C. Dethman, J. C. Porter, J. J. Gibbons, H. F. Davidson, J. O. Hannum, J. H. Heilbronner, J. E. Robertson and C. T. Early. A meeting was held immediately after the conclusion of the discussion, and a committee was named with the state commissioner and the advisory committee selected.

It is the hope of local citizens that the valuations of local property may be reduced. It is declared that the orchard places for the past several years have not been producing an income in excess of wheat land, the valuation of which is much lower.

COLUMBIA STREET IMPROVEMENTS SEEN

Numerous residents along the Columbia street in the west end of the city are making or have completed improvements on their homes. W. H. McClain has improved his lawn and is now engaged in building a porch to his home. Kay W. Sinclair has added to the neatness of his residence by new paint. W. N. Winter has built a new garage for his recently purchased Dodge Bros. motor car. C. D. Hinrichs is completing the addition of a sleeping porch to his residence. James E. Robertson has erected an addition to his home and laid hardwood floors in his home.

A. C. Lofts, who recently sold his home just opposite his recent purchase, is improving the lot just bought from Mrs. C. A. Bell at the corner of tenth and Columbia streets. Mr. Lofts, however, has decided to postpone the building of a residence.

OUT OF STREAM WITH SELF-STARTER

Henry Kennedy, formerly a citizen of Owensburg, Ky., and later manager of the Studebaker branch at Oklahoma City, recently had a rabbit hunting experience in Australia, which, strange as it may seem, tested the efficiency of the Studebaker starter. Kennedy, who is now managing director of the Studebaker distributing house at Sidney, started out with four companions to hunt rabbits, using a Studebaker Six.

In attempting to ford a hollow during a rain, a carburetor became submerged in water which was going through so swiftly that none of the occupants dared get out of the car. The water kept rising inch by inch until the party feared they would be washed away. During a lull in the storm Kennedy put the car into low gear, threw on the self starter and was able to pull out of the deep hole. The carburetor was then drained and the engine immediately fired evenly, taking the party back to Sidney without further mishap.

Praise for the Big Apple

Praise for the big red apple now on display at the Panama-Pacific International exposition continues to be heard here. John Otten recently when arrived from having spent the winter in California, while visiting at the Hood River State bank, stated that he had viewed the apple with interest.

"I don't know who put the apple there nor who is paying for it," said Mr. Otten, "but it is one of the best things Hood River ever did."

S. A. Mitchell, formerly in the banking business in Rock Valley, Ia., has just received a letter from J. A. Huestegge, formerly employed by the bank with which Mr. Mitchell was connected and now cashier of a bank in Rock Valley, who says that Oregon, and especially Hood River have certainly done themselves proud in their exhibits at the big fair.

Whooping Cough

Well—everyone knows the effect of pine forests on coughs. Dr. Bell's Pine Tar-Honey is a remedy which brings quick relief for whooping cough, loosens the mucus, soothes the lining of the throat and lungs, and makes the coughing spells less severe. A family with growing children should not be without it. Keep it handy for all coughs and colds. 25c at your druggist.

L. N. BLOWERS SELLS WASCO WHEAT RANCH

L. N. Blowers last Thursday sold to Geo. W. Kaseburg, a rancher of the Wasco district of Sherman county, a tract of wheat land consisting of 320 acres situated near Wasco. The consideration for the deal was $8,500. Mr. Kaseburg, who was here to close the deal with Mr. Blowers, is a brother-in-law of William Jackson, of the East side.

CONSUMPTION TAKES 350 PEOPLE DAILY

Over 350 people succumb to consumption every day in the United States. Science proves that the germs only thrive when the system is weakened from colds or sneezes, overwork, confining duties or when general weakness exists.

The best physicians point out that during changing seasons the blood should be made rich and pure and active by taking Scott's Emulsion after meals. The cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion warms the body by enriching the blood; it peculiarly strengthens the lungs and throat, while it upbuilds the resistive forces of the body to avoid colds and prevent consumption.

If you work indoors, are easily fatigued or nervous, Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known. It is totally free from alcohol or any stupefying drug. Avoid substitutes.
