Best Diarrhoea Remedy.

If you have ever used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy you know that it is a success. Sam F. Guib, Whatley, Ala., writes, "I had cholera and was not caught out in the rain, and it settled in my stomach and bowels I had an awful time, and had it not been for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not possibly have lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy, I am well and strong." For sale by all dealers.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale

By virtue of an execution in forcible sale issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Hood River County, Oregon, dated the 12th day of June, 1915, in a certain suit in said Circuit Court, wherein George W. Combs, was plaintiff, and William J. Helmer, Esther L. Helmer, Sarah A. Helmer, and Mary Graton, were defendants, the same being Case No. 22, and wherein on the 17th day of June, 1915, said plaintiff recovered a judgment and decree against said William J. Helmer and Esther L. Helmer, for the sum of $100.00, with interest thereon at 8 per cent until paid and for the further sum of $100.00 as attorney's fees, and the sum of $20.00 costs and disbursements taxed in said suit. And in which said suit the defendant, Mary J. Graton, on the 19th day of June, 1915, recovered a judgment and decree against the defendant, Sarah A. Helmer, for the sum of $100.00, with interest at the rate of 7 per cent until paid, together with the sum of $100.00 as attorney's fees, and the sum of $20.00—costs and disbursements taxed in said suit, and which said execution is against and directed, that the herein said real property be sold to satisfy said sums of money for which judgment rendered and the costs and expenses of sale.

Notice is hereby given that I will, on the 17th day of July, 1915, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Hood River, Hood River County, State of Oregon, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said date, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the following described real property situated in the County of Hood River, State of Oregon, to-wit:

The Northeast quarter of the Northeast quarter of Section 28, Township 1, North Range 10 E., W. 1/2, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Hood River, Oregon, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgments, and the sums due thereon to the plaintiff, George W. Combs, and in favor of said Mary J. Graton, against said defendant, William J. Helmer, et al., or so much thereof as will satisfy said judgments, interest and costs, together with all costs and expenses which may accrue on this writ.

Dated this 12th day of June, 1915.
JULIUS THOMAS, Sheriff of Hood River County, Oregon.

MRS. E. H. SHEPARD HAS FINE PEONIES

A marvel of beauty in the early summer is the Brookside Drive country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Shepard. The drive leading to the residence, set in a grove of trees back from the road, is bordered with more than 125 plants of various colored and rare peonies. Mrs. Shepard attends to the flowers of the place and made the selection of rare varieties, many of which were imported from foreign countries. The blossoming period for peonies is about six weeks. The sides of the drive at the Shepard place are a vivid mass of color where the plants are in bloom.

Mr. Shepard, too, is a fancier of flowers, and takes great pride in the beautiful peonies. He may often be seen bringing bouquets of the flowers to friends. Through his magazine, Better Fruit, he often creates an interest in the planting of more shrubs and flowers around country homes.

Peonies are easily grown. Insects and other pests that make it necessary to carefully watch rose bushes do no harm peonies. When the blooming season is over the foliage of the plants make handsome borders for drives.

DR. WAUGH DISCUSSES PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH

No small amount of interest was created among the medical profession week before last by the words of Dr. J. M. Waugh, who participated in the discussion of a paper read by Dr. Polak, a noted physician of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the convention of the American Medical Association at San Francisco. Dispatches to the northwestern papers gave the speech of Dr. Waugh, which touched on proposed methods of bringing about painless childbirth, wide publicity.

The methods suggested by the local physician combine the principles of the so-called "Twilight sleep," put into practice at a maternity hospital in Germany with the use of nitrous oxide oxygen analgesia. Dr. Waugh states that the use of the latter drugs for killing pain is especially commendable, because of the fact that a physician can in a very short time bring his patient back to consciousness and from under the influence of them.

The Linchpin Wagon

(Written by Carson C. Masiker and sung by the Veteran Quartet at the recent reunion of the Oregon Pioneers at Portland, June, "Wait for the Wagon.")

Oh, the linchpin wagon
What memories it recalls
Of the days when I gazed
On the mountains afar,
As it ground through the sand
And the alkali dust—
The linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
Wait for the wagon,
The linchpin wagon,
The linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

How the smell of that tar
In my nostrils still lingers;
How softly, yet firmly,
It struck to my fingers;
How jolting that wagon,
How tiresome its jar—
That linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
When the hot sun beat down
On the glittering sand,
And the dust fog'd around us
In every hand,
How the heat seemed to gather
In my ear
Of that linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
When the red men attack'd us
And fired on the train,
It made us a breastwork
Again and again.
'Twas a bedroom at night
And a refuge in war—
That linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
A cough for the sick,
The halt and the lame—
It carried our grub
And blankets and game.
Our women and children
It brought from afar,
That linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
The bed of this wagon
A ferry boat made,
In the heat of the day
It was sought for its shade;
But now 'tis replaced
By an "auto-bile" car—
This linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
To life's latest hour
We never shall fail
To remember the loved ones
We left on the trail,
Their sad, lonely graves
On that journey so far,
We made in that wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus:
The old pioneers
Will remember the test
That this wagon withstood
In their journey out West;
And always will love it,
Their sad, lonely graves
On that journey so far,
We made in that wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Frozen Waterpipe Worries

"What in the world have you shut off our water for?" was the question asked by Pat Lindsay of Water Commissioner Morse last Saturday. Water would not run through the pipes at Mr. Lindsay's tobacco and confectionery store. Nor did the water superintendent know what the trouble was until after an investigation it was discovered that ice packed in the cooling system of the soda water fountain had frozen the pipes. A pretty good record for Fourth of July weather.

Cured of Indigestion

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana, Pa., was bothered with indigestion. "My stomach pained me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headaches and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and they did her so much good that she gave me a few doses of them and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done." For sale by all dealers.

PEACHMEN'S ACTIVITIES TO BENEFIT

The difficulties that seemed to form a barrier for any beneficial accomplishments by the Northwestern Fruit Growers' Council and the Shippers' League, were eliminated the first of last week at a meeting held at Yakima by the executive committee of the Growers Council and the board of governors of the Shippers' League, according to H. F. Davidson, president of the latter organization. It had formerly been proposed by the Growers Council to regulate the price to be set on apples. However, W. H. Paulhamus, after conferring with the office of the United States attorney general, was informed that such regulation would be considered an infringement of the rules of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"The department of agriculture," says Mr. Davidson, "has made some suggestions that we will follow up. It is clear that no price can be put there is nothing that will prevent the growers and shippers from conferring together and arriving at what is considered a correct value for their product."

Mr. Davidson states that Mr. Paulhamus is now busily engaged with various shipping organizations in the different fruit districts for such daily information as will enable him to exercise a guiding influence over sales distributions of the year's fruit crops. Mr. Davidson thinks the most important action of the meeting of fruit men the first of last week was that of adopting resolutions with regard to general market plans, among which the most important provided that all members refrain from open consignments of apples. Consignments of small fruits will be limited to certain auction markets.

"Both the shippers at the producing end and the buyers and receivers at the purchasing end feel that such a method will place the business on a more stable basis," says Mr. Davidson. "Such consignments are eliminated a definite price, i. e., either at the shipping end or the receiving end, will be maintained."

"The department of markets for the benefit of cantaloupe growers, has been maintaining an office in the Imperial Valley, Calif. The expert market men of this station will be transferred at once to the Yakima valley to assist the peach growers who will ship this season from 2000 to 2500 cars of fruit. And the other northwestern districts combined will ship an equal amount."

"The cooperative spirit that is being manifested by the Yakima peach growers and shippers, if carried through to the end of the season, will be a boon to the fruit industry. The Yakima shippers number 37, and W. H. Davidson has half as many. The former are already pretty well organized, and the latter are getting in line. We are expecting maximum results in the peach districts. We found that last year the peach market was ruined before a single box of fruit was shipped. The price was cut in cases as much as 15 cents by cut throat competitive tricks."

Mr. Davidson, who has been requested to take charge of Washington peaches, says that he has not yet accepted the offer.

A FAIR PRICE FOR A REASONABLE PROFIT

"We have no desire to charge you more than is necessary to make a fair profit; therefore we want to impress upon you that when a picture is advertised at 15 cents our personal guarantee goes with that particular feature, and if you feel that the picture is not worth that much our instructions to the cashier are to refund your admission money. We want your confidence as well as your money, and we know that to obtain both we must provide worth while amusement, which we are at all times striving to do."

"We are catering to all classes and walks of life and if you will look over our scheduled list you will find an assortment of consistent, good entertainments which the majority will always say 'worth while.'"

When Hot Weather Oppresses

When you suffer from a feeling of oppression, when a naturally keen and alert brain seems dull and stupid, when bodily strength seems lacking and you are inert and languid—do not blame it altogether on hot weather. The hot sun will not effect you half so much if the bowels are regular and the liver active and healthy. Foley's Cathartic Tablets are the ideal remedy for indigestion and constipation. They give stout persons prompt relief from that uncomfortable bloated and congested feeling. For sale by Chas. N. Clarke.

Bartness Moves Chapel

S. E. Bartness, who has occupied a portion of the building on Oak street owned by E. O. Blanchard and J. H. Heilbronner as a chapel for the past five and a half years, has removed to the reading room of the United Brethren church. All of Mr. Bartness' undervalued stock has also been removed to the church building.
