WYETH

Glen Gorton has been sick for the past two weeks. Colon Merrill has been in Portland. The school was closed last week on account of bad weather and poor attendance.

Everyone is enjoying melting the snow and carrying water, for the pipe lines have been frozen. The tie plant may be closed down until spring, for the Japs won't work in cold weather.

The bridge on Gorton creek has not been repaired. It is very inconvenient for the people. Road Supervisor Trotter says: "It has been too cold to work."

The U. S. government has sent G. W. Stokoe three sacks of wheat to feed the birds. The birds are all starving and freezing to death.

Charles Gray and family are enjoying sleighing. Dave Merrill has returned to work after a few weeks' lay off. He has had boils all over his arms.

George Stokoe bought the McCormack telephone line of Central Oregon. He expects to leave for Bend in a few days. School began this morning after a week's vacation on account of bad weather and poor attendance.

Mrs. Earl Noble is in Hood River visiting relatives. George Stokoe has gone to Bend. E. W. Hall, road master on the O. W. R. & N., has been here on business for the past week.

The tie plant is now running again. A Leap Year dance will be given next Saturday night by Mrs. C. F. Morgan and Mrs. A. C. Pestal at Elliott's hall. G. H. Carl was in Hood River on business last Saturday.

HEIGHTS NEWS

The young people of the Baptist church had a party at its church Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gill received a letter from their daughter, Edyth, who has been a government nurse the past three years and was recently ordered to Honolulu. Miss Gill arrived safely and is delighted with the place.

The ladies of the Baptist Aid Society were given a treat last week when W. T. Fony came in with a big sleigh and took them out to his home to spend the day. It was the regular meeting day of the society.

Mrs. J. D. Wall has been on the sick list but is better now. The Heights Literary Society met last Friday night in regular session with debate and program. The question for debate was, "Resolved, That the Indian has suffered more abuse at the hands of the white man than the negro." The affirmative was supported by Lon Stevens, J. Payne and Mark Taylor; negative by Frank Davenport, J. P. Holman and E. M. Holman. The affirmative won. The remainder of the program was as follows: Recitation, Lon Stevens; talk on social and literary work, E. J. Shutz; recitation, Vivian Miller; song, Winifred and Irene Taylor; reading, Glendine Lay; recitation, Lowell Taylor; song, Edna Holman; recitation, Helen Chambers; song, Thurston Lay; recitation, Harry Burrows; and song, Edward Sager.

Mrs. J. F. Volteroff is improving from a recent attack of grip. Miss Nettie Buck returned to Portland Sunday. The question for the next debate at the Heights Literary Society is "Resolved, that Labor and Capital Should be Compelled to Settle their Disputes through Equally Constituted Boards of Arbitration." The affirmative will be upheld by E. J. Shutz and G. H. Barton; the negative by Fred Taylor and Robert Hill.

MOUNT HOOD. Mrs. Smullen and Mrs. Curtis entertained the "Home Talents" at the J. D. Smullen home Friday night. The evening was spent in playing games, after which a delightful supper was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mullen, Mrs. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Doggett and children, Misses Florence Pifer, Florence Rod, Florence Everson, Eva Gunn, Alma Kitchel, Elsie McConn, Katherine Harrington, Messrs. Harry Rod, Clifford Kitchel and Charlie Gunn.

A hard time social will be given at the Mt. Hood hall Friday, Jan. 28, by the P. T. Association. Come dressed in your poverty garb or a fine will be imposed upon you.

U. S. Deputy Marshall Jackson, of Portland, was a business caller at Mt. Hood Monday. W. B. Davidson has sent his mules to Eastern Oregon for the remainder of the winter. A. M. Kelly was a Hood River visitor last Wednesday. Mrs. D. Cooper spent a day last week with her son, John and family, at Parkdale. A. C. Jordan finished putting in the new windows at the school house Monday.

The Parent-Teacher Association met at the school house Friday afternoon to discuss the subject of home discipline. "Bill" Edick has been spending the week as a guide on the slopes of Mt. Hood for the Snow Shoe club. The water in the farmers' irrigation ditch was turned off part of last week on account of the water freezing in the flume, causing an overflow on the orchard of Wm. Langille. Who will be teacher of the Bible class next Sunday?

TROUT LAKE.

Miss Bessie Coate has been visiting her brother in Portland for a few weeks. The deep snow the past week made it difficult for the stage to get through; and Rev. E. M. Landis was unable to fill the pulpit in Glenwood last Sunday, as planned. Mrs. B. R. Richter returned the first of last week from her visit in Hood River, Lyle and White Salmon. Notices are out that Dr. Andrus, dentist, from Woodland, is here this week. Mr. Exon, who has lately purchased the Nickelsen place, is here but will not move his family until spring. It is understood that Mr. Exon will bring in a number of full blood Jersey stock that he is now wintering on his farm near Portland.

W. E. C. Meeting Planned
The Woman's Relief Corps will hold one of its old time socials at the home of Mrs. Henry L. Howe, 509 Montello avenue this Thursday evening. Come and bring a friend. Jennie C. Bentley, press correspondent.

AT NEW ELECTRIC

Today
"The beautiful Anita Stewart in chapters 5 and 6 of "The Goddess."
Friday
"Brother Officers," a Paramount four reel dramatic military romance.

Saturday
Not since her memorable and astounding triumph in "Tess of the Storm Country" as "Little Mary" Pickford, the worshipped star of the famous Players Film Co., had such an opportunity, or rather such a number of opportunities, for the exhibition of her amazing talents in the Famous Players latest production.

The delicate touches with which the noted woman playwright adorned a beautiful idea, the tenderness with which she suggested something half philosophy, half theory, and two-thirds intense drama, if such a fractional division is possible. The story, founded on a love and trust that knows no fear, comes close to you and warms your heart. It tells a pathetic story, behind which is a shadow of spiritual purpose, and its influence cannot be other than uplifting and edifying. Best of all, it reveals the inimitable Mary Pickford in a character of the very essence of which is womanly nobility even intensified because the character is clothed in rage.

Sunday
"Guarding Old Glory," a set of pictures that sweeps you along with an outburst of patriotism.

AT THE GEM TODAY
An Essanay six part picture, "The Man Trail," with Richard Travers playing the lead. This is more thrilling than "The Spoilers."

Friday and Saturday
Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow in "The Silent Voice," a six part Metro wonder play.

Sunday and Monday
George Probert, Fania Marranoff and Margaret Green in George Barr McCutcheon's "Nedra."

Tuesday
"Neal of the Navy," two comedies, Pathe Weekly and Ford Weekly.

Wednesday and Thursday
"The Eagles Nest." Before starting West as an emigrant, Philip Dane gives deeds of all his property to his friend Geoffrey Milford, for he has to take papers with him. Milford gives Mrs. Dane peculiarly carved whip as a farewell present. On the way West the travelers are massacred by Indians. Mrs. Dane's little boy being the only survivor. The boy is found and adopted by the Silsbees, who build a home in the mountains which they call "Eagle's Nest," because of the big eagle's nest in the rocks over their heads. In the meantime Milford hears of the massacre, and, believing all dead, appropriates the Dane deeds. Silsbee, later dies, and the Dane boy, known as Jack Trail, is the idol of his foster mother.

Twenty years pass and Milford and Robert Blasedon, who are located in Sacramento, are wealthy. Blasedon discovers that Milford has forged the Dane papers, but remains silent as he hopes to wed Milford's daughter, Rose. On a trip to the mountains, Milford, Blasedon and Rose meet with an accident, and Jack Trail rescues them and takes them to "Eagle's Nest." Milford continues on his journey alone, leaving the Dane papers with Rose. Jack and Rose fall in love. One day, Blasedon, angry at the rebuff, attacks the girl. Mrs. Silsbee runs to the rescue, and Blasedon, seizing Jack's gun, kills the widow.

Jack is arrested for the crime, but is saved by Dibeey, a lawyer whom Jack has befriended. Rose is taken to the cabin of Sierra Suze. Blasedon, with the aid of two outlaws, traces Rose to the cabin, where he forces the girl to marry him, and then, after setting fire to the cabin, escapes with her. The Dane papers that Blasedon takes with him from the cabin are merely blank papers; Dibeey, the lawyer, having secured possession of the real ones. Blasedon burries with Rose to the Milford home, thinking he can bring Milford to terms. Jack follows him there.

When Blasedon finds the papers he has are blank sheets, he hastily disappears, fearing he will be accused of murder. Rose and Jack go to Sierra Suze's cabin to recover the original deeds, and as Dibeey starts to nand them over, Blasedon rushes from hiding and grabs them. Jack, after a struggle manages to get them, and Blasedon, in attempting to escape, falls from a high bridge and is killed in the ravine below. Later, Rose finds the peculiarly carved whip, and Milford recognizes it as the one he gave to Mrs. Dane years before. This identifies Jack Trail as Philip Dane's son. Milford tells them the story of the Indian massacre, restores the Dane property to Jack and joyfully gives his daughter to him.

The Gist of It
"Last December I had a very severe cold and was nearly down sick in bed. I bought two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was only a very few days until I was completely restored to health," writes O. J. Metcalf, Weatherby, Mo. If you would know the value of this remedy, ask any one who has used it. Obtainable everywhere.
