ANNUAL INSTITUTE IS HELD

PINE GROVE PEOPLE PARTICIPATE

Third Mid-Winter Chautauqua Draws Large Crowds Despite Inclement Weather and is Big Success

The members of the Pine Grove Methodist Episcopal church have adopted a plan whereby they may pass pleasantly and profitably some of the afternoons and long evenings of mid-winter. During the period of cold weather the orchardist enjoys more leisure moments than at any other season of the year, and three winters ago the fruitgrowers and church-goers of Pine Grove conceived the idea that a kind of wintertime chautauqua would be a beneficial diversion. The success of the first institute was so marked that the event has been made annual, and the third Annual Pine Grove Community Institute was brought to an end with religious services Sunday evening.

But one should not gather the idea that the institute, because it is held under the auspices of the church, is entirely for the spiritual well being of the Pine Grove orchardists. Problems of every activity of the progressive community are touched upon. The Grange, the orchardist, the school, the Sunday school and the church, all are granted places on the program. And while the church is one of Methodist denomination, no narrowness prevails in religious belief of Pine Grove folk. It is the purpose of the annual institute to broaden the viewpoint of the rural residents.

The institute has in fact outgrown the bounds of the Pine Grove district, and despite the snow-covered earth and unusually cold weather sleigh-loads of the residents of other rural sections as the city were in daily attendance.

The lectures were a drawing card to the women as well as the men of the section. The first meeting was held Friday afternoon at the Grange hall under the auspices of the Pine Grove Grange. Truman Butler delivered an address on the activities of the Growers' Council during the past year. C. A. Reed presided. At the close of the meeting A. C. Mason urged the apple men to make a study of by-products. He declared that it would be safe to predict that in the future the pulp, now going to waste at the local vinegar factory would be dried and used as food for hogs.

The chief speaker at Friday night's session was Prof. J. F. Brumbaugh, of the Oregon Agricultural College, on "Python Eggs—the Law of Habit."

His lecture was preceded by a violin solo by Geo. A. Wood. On Saturday morning Prof. Brumbaugh talked to the ranchers on "Rural Laws," and a cornet solo was rendered by A. J. Graff.

The program for Saturday was as follows: Songs by the school children; address, "The Essentials of Life," by Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette University; vocal solo, by Mrs. M. Thorne; and an address, "Thinking Folks," by H. O. Perry, superintendent of Sunday school of the Dalles district of the Methodist church.

Sunday was devoted to a musical program and religious services. The program for the morning was as follows: Sunday school in charge of W. C. Keck; instrumental solo by Mrs. Vanier; violin duet, Misses Leila Radford and Maud Ferris; institute sermon; H. O. Perry; and song by the male quartet of the church.

A feature of the program, "Ruth, the Gleamer," was postponed for two weeks, when the following will participate in the cantata: Misses Leila Radford, Luella Hoot, Esther Schmidt, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. N. E. Fertig, Mrs. J. G. Jarvis, E. E. House, W. C. Keck, R. H. Waugh, W. Wells and M. Fulsgraff.

The closing address was delivered by Mr. Perry.

A community basket luncheon was enjoyed on Saturday noon. Prof. N. E. Fertig was chairman and Mrs. Saturday afternoon session, and on Sunday evening, Russell A. McCully was chairman.

as the manager said, sometimes into January.

There were about 35 Japs at work sorting and packing, and two big machines doing the sizing, with a few Americans as foremen, box nailers, markers, etc. These Japs were furnished a bunk-house, and paid $2.50 per day if they could pack as many as 100 boxes per day. Their pay was scaled down if they packed less.

Everyone was busy and everything was running as smoothly as possible. None but perfect apples were put in the boxes. This requisite of good packing is much easier to obtain there than with us. The Japs who do the packing have absolutely no interest in the number of apples they discard. They are told what to do and they do it with an exactness that is remarkable. The result is a fine pack which we do not see in the East as often as we could wish.

Now I feel that I must say what struck me most about western people not as individuals but as a whole, they all said they had a wonderful country and wonderful apples. They believed it, talked it, and boasted their country on all occasions. You will see this by the way this railroad man was glad to show us over the valley, tell us of the advantages, and never mention one disadvantage that the country had. He was not interested in the orchards except for what they furnished his railroad to ship.

JACOB MERLE HONORED BY FELLOWS

Drawing his inspiration, as he says from Fred Dundee, of Portland, for whom he was formerly employed, Jacob Merle, of the garage firm of Foust & Merle, has returned from Portland fully decided to equip in Hood River one of the most up-to-date garages of the state. In 30 days he and Mr. Foust will have installed cylinder grinding machines and other apparatus that will keep automobile repair business at home.

"Fred Dundee," says Mr. Merle, "deserves unstinted praise for what he has done in setting a pace for automobile repair and garage men of the state. When I was with Mr. Dundee he was working but 10 men. Today he employs 200, and his work is of such an excellent nature that he is drawing work from territory that has always been patronizing the east."

Both Mr. Foust and Mr. Merle were in Portland last week. The former spent the first of the week at the automobile show and the latter was there the later part of the week. Mr. Merle attended the organization meeting of the automobile repair and garage men, and was honored by election to the executive board. He was the lucky guest at the banquet of rubber men, drawing a $35 electric horn. Mr. Merle has always been known to his friends as "Foust & Merle."

Foust & Merle are local handlers of the Studebaker automobile. On or about March 15 they will receive a carload of this popular make of automobile. The shipment will include four, six and one delivery wagon. One of the features of the Studebaker is that the salesman give to each purchaser a service card, guaranteeing inspection and care of the machine for one year's time. These cards are later sent to other dealers, and naturally each local agency is keen on making the best possible service record.

"We have received information," says Mr. Merle, "that an advance may be expected in the prices of all automobiles. There will possibly be a small increase in the price in the Studebaker. The gist of our advice in the face of such information will be this: 'If you are going to buy a car, do so once. If you purchase a car, you will get your machine at the prevailing price of today.'

NOTED HUMORIST WILL LECTURE HERE

Dr. Samuel McChord Crothers, the noted author and lecturer of Harvard University, who will be in Portland in the near future, will deliver a lecture at the Congregational church on the evening of Friday, February 11. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Hood River school.

Dr. Crothers is to the world of literature what Maud Powell is to the world of music. While he is a deep thinker his expressions are couched in terms that any man can understand. Pres. W. T. Foster, of Reed College, who is instrumental in bringing the essayist to the west, declares that he considers him one of the best lecturers in the United States. Dr. Crothers is probably the foremost literary genius who ever will have visited or spoken in Hood River. The reserved seat ticket sale will begin on Friday, February 4, at Clark's drug store.

In view of the fact that so noted a man is to be here so soon, it is of interest to know that the public library has three of his best known books also several of his shorter works in the magazine. The list follows: "The Christmas Fire," "The Pardoner's Wail," "Magazines—"Great Reward," "Outlook," "Contemporaneity of Rome," "Atlantic," "Meditations on Votes for Women," "Atlantic," "Pleasures of an Absentee Landlord," "Atlantic," "Unaccustomed Ears of Europe," "Atlantic," "Protective Coloring in Education," "Atlantic."

CLUB MINSTRELS DATE LOOMING

The Commercial Club minstrels, for which the male talent of the city is now making the greatest of preparation, will be held on the evening of Monday, February 21. The jinx will be given at Heilbronn hall, and while the show heretofore has been for members only, the coming minstrel will be open to all, including children.

Some excellent specialty numbers are promised. Winner Sieg will be middle man. Other notables going over the jinx books for the points of mirth are: D. G. Cruikshank, W. B. Arena, Jack M. Culbertson and D. H. Drewery. These black-faced artists will be end men.

Admission of 50 cents will be charged. No seats will be reserved.

ELECTION INTEREST SIMMERS

RE-ELECTIONS WILL BE SOUGHT

Shoemaker Will Again Make Race—All the Offices Except Two Will Be Filled

While no aspirant to office has as yet made formal filing of his intentions the local political pot is beginning to simmer and prospective candidates are beginning to jockey for a start in the preliminary races of the May primaries. Successors to all county officers must be elected except in the case of County Judge E. Stantton and Assessor Jasper Wickham both of whom will serve two more years.

The term of Circuit Judge W. L. Bradshaw will expire at the end of this year. While no expression has been made by Judge Bradshaw himself, his friends here are of the opinion that he will be a candidate to succeed himself. Judge Bradshaw is one of the most popular circuit judges in Oregon and has held office for four consecutive terms.

County Clerk Kent Shoemaker aged 24 and the youngest clerk in the state, will be a candidate to succeed himself. Mr. Shoemaker has been an efficient and faithful officer and has won a widespread esteem and popularity.

Thomas F. Johnson, too, will be a candidate for re-election to the office of sheriff. While Mr. Johnson is at the present time in a state of somewhat indecision, he says that he will enter the race if the people desire him. He is now finishing his third term of office and has grown stronger with the people of the county each year. At the election in 1914 he received the largest number of votes of any candidate.

The terms of incumbents of the following offices will expire with the end of this year. Prof. C. D. Thompson, county school superintendent; Constable E. S. Olinger and Justice of the Peace A. C. Buck. Mr. Olinger will be a candidate for re-election. Judge Buck, however, says that he does not expect to again seek office.

Prof. Thompson, who received notice of his appointment as county agriculturist of Josephine county Monday will tender his resignation. Prof. L. F. Henderson, Mrs. Mary Frazier, B. L. Murphy and L. B. Gibson are being mentioned for the place.

Terms of the county surveyor and county treasurer will expire this year. Both offices are now vacant. Mrs. F. A. Bishop is mentioned as the logical successor to her husband, and it is probable that she will receive appointment.

DISLOYALTY WILL BE DISCIPLINED

A step forward in the cooperative organization of sales agencies seems probable in all Northwest fruit sections the coming year. While disciplining unloyal members of sales agencies has been mentioned in the past and in cases has even been incorporated in contracts of the marketing associations and members, rules have never been enforced. However, from the present prevailing sentiment and the expressions of local sales agency officials, the Apple Growers Association will probably begin the marketing of next season's crop with its affiliated members bound to the organization by a contract, which will provide that the member, in case he violates the contract and ships independently or through some other agency, will automatically be expelled.

The first actual steps toward the disciplining of association members were taken last week, when the 25 local unit organizations of the Yakima Valley Fruit Association adopted by unanimous vote of their trustees to summarily drop from their membership list unloyal growers.

"Idaho and Wenatchee are taking the same point," says Winifred Sieg, sales manager of the local association, "and will undoubtedly take a similar stand. The greatest drawback to the Northwestern apple industry is the independent shipper. Organizations base their calculations on tonnage furnished according to contracts, and when the tonnage of those who withdraw to ship through other sources is deducted from the total counted on in the first instance, the ability of a sales agency to gauge its marketing machinery is cut short proportionately. With the representative shipping concerns bringing about these new rulings that will protect the loyal member, independent shippers in the future will have no chance."

"A contract is a valuable document and must be protected, and while organizations do not want to cause or create trouble they must do something to protect the shipper who is loyal. This can only be done by the elimination of the unloyal grower. The action of the Yakima association is one in the right direction; it will create stability. The movement has the support of the government committee that has been working in the Northwest on an investigation of marketing conditions and who have asserted that they found the greatest proportion of damage to markets caused by growers who try to ship and work independently."

SKI AND SLED ENTHUSIASTS BOLD

With the long continued cold weather and the heavy snow blanketing the hills and valleys, local people have been growing bolder and bolder in their search for winter sports with an increasing thrill. For the first time the East Side range was climbed Saturday afternoon, Hans Hoerlein, a ski enthusiast, scaling the bald top, where he says the wind was blowing a gale that cut like a razor. Mr. Hoerlein returned down the 30 per cent grade at a terrific speed.

Dr. C. H. Jenkins was the first to pilot a bob-sled down the tortuous way of the East Side grade. Dr. Jenkins, an enthusiastic devotee of coasting, made the long run successfully Sunday morning.
