Dabney Funeral Last Friday Richard T. Dabney, a brother of O. P. Dabney, of this city, whose funeral was held last Friday afternoon in Portland, was one of the most distinguished advocates of the Columbia river highway. Though Mr. Dabney's health has been impaired for some time, he always manifested a rare mental vigor, abundantly evidenced in his business activities, and the depth of thought given to religious, civic and other subjects. Deeply engaged as he was in what might be termed the more rugged lines of business activity, he was exceptionally fond of art, literature and music and of the study of birds and the smaller animals. He was considered an authority on flower and tree culture. From many distant sections of the land he brought to his city home and to his country place rare plants, shrubs and flowers. The funeral services took place at the family residence, 133 East Twenty-ninth street, Friday afternoon with interment at Mount Hood cemetery. J. J. Staub, pastor of the Sunnyside Congregational church, had charge of the service, and Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller was vocalist. Columbia Highway Damage Light That the damage to the Columbia river highway in this county from slides will be far less than has been expected, is the statement of Angus McDonald, who spent the past week with the Telephone Co. crews in repairing lines between here and Cascade Locks. "The worst slides have occurred on the old road," says Mr. McDonald. "At Shell Rock mountain, where it was thought slides would possibly demolish retaining walls, the highway will be passable as soon as the snow melts; that is, unless further slides occur." Mr. McDonald says that he has walked over the entire stretch of the highway since the snow has fallen, and that the money in the funds of road districts through which the road passes will be far more than sufficient to clear away the debris of slides. Gilbert Vertress Buried Here Because of floods the body of Gilbert Vertress, who passed away Tuesday last week in Portland, could not be interred at Woodbury. The body was taken shortly after death. The remains of Mr. Vertress were brought to the Bartness undertaking parlors Sunday and interment took place Monday afternoon at the Knights of Pythias cemetery. Mr. Vertress, who was 59 years of age, is survived by a sister, Mrs. John Buskirk, formerly a local resident but who now resides in Portland. Tahoma Freed from Ice The People's Navigation Company river boat, Tahoma, was freed from an ice jam Saturday. The boat, which has been held by a jam near Cape Horn since January 6, was safely berthed at a Portland dock Sunday night. Members of the boat's crew, who had remained by the craft, had not seen their families since the boat became icebound. Capt. Nelson, who was in local people, suffered an attack of boils while the vessel was tied up. Lad Hears from Letter Teddy Hackett, a pupil of the local schools, during letter writing week wrote to H. Gernsback, a prominent electrician and editor of "The Electrical Experimenter." He has received the following reply: "Your good favor of January 21 duly at hand. Writer wishes to thank you heartily for invitation. If possible he will try to make use of the same." F. I. Co. Board Organizes At an organization meeting Saturday the board of directors of the Farmers' Irrigating Co. elected the following officers: H. B. Jeffrey, pres.; A. G. Staten, vice pres.; M. E. CLUB MEN OPPOSE TO HUGE PARK Members of the Commercial club at meeting Monday night went on record as endorsing the plans of the Portland Chamber of Commerce to locate the United States Forestry Department in developing a national boulevard park along the Columbia river highway and around Lost Lake and the base of Mt. Hood, and simultaneously the club members expressed their opposition to the recent bill submitted to congress, proposing to form a national park out of an enormous area of forest reservation in the highest timber lands of the state's highest mountains. If the proposed bill, submitted by representatives of the United States park system to Senator Chamberlain for introduction into congress, had become a law, it is declared, an irretrievable loss would have been sustained by Hood River county. In every township in Hood River county, within the bounds of the park as embodied in the proposed bill, valuable agricultural lands are said to be located, and more than a billion feet of valuable timber is located there. Under the agricultural appropriation act of May 23, 1908, 25 per cent of all moneys received from forest reserves shall be distributed to the state in which the reserve is located for expenditure on school or roads; and by similar act of 1912 10 per cent of such receipts are made available for the construction of roads and trails in the forest reserves. It is said that the timber in Hood River county may be sold for at least $1 per thousand, and that county would receive as its share of the proceeds for road construction the sum of $350,000. In addition to this, should the bill submitted by the park system have become a law the county would lose the circulation of the manufacturing cost of making the standing timber into lumber, which will reach from $8 to $10 per thousand feet. The club endorsed the campaign of securing a naval base at Astoria, where, in case the government takes favorable action, the sum of $3,000,000 will be expended. The organization also endorsed the proposed bill to submit the tariff revision to a commission, and a memorial embodying the endorsement will be sent to congress. Attorney Haslett at the Monday night meeting read a very instructive article from the North American review on the tariff commission. The club took no action on a communication from the Portland Chamber of Commerce relative to contributions to the proposed V. A. House to be erected at Crown Point on the Columbia river highway. Following the business meeting the checker players, engaged in the tournament, held forth until one o'clock. RECALL PETITION GAVE WRONG DATE Because the petition of electors who placed his name on the ballot in 1913, when on November 4 he was chosen at a recall election to supersede Geo. R. Castner as county judge, stated that Judge Castner's term would expire on the first Monday in January, 1917, the petition has been expressed that Judge Stanton was not regularly elected and that his term of incumbency has not been legal. According to a constitutional amendment, adopted through an initiative bill by popular vote in November 1910, the terms of all judicial offices extend over a period of six years. Judge Castner was elected in 1912 and his term of office extended until January, 1919. It is argued by those who doubt the legality of the tenure of office of Judge Stanton that the recall petition should have embodied the correct dates of unexpired term of Judge Castner's office. Judge Stanton, in denying street rumors that he had taken notice of the discrepancy in the petition that made him a candidate at the recall election and would be a candidate for the county judgeship at the coming primaries, declared that in his opinion the error of the petition would have no effect, and that his term of office would extend until 1919. Notice You will please take notice that on February 14, 1916, the directors of Hood River Abstract Company, an Oregon corporation, filed with the Corporation Commission of the state of Oregon, supplementary articles of incorporation changing its name to Hood River Abstract & Investment Company, providing for the engaging in the engineering business and increasing its capital from $100,000 to $150,000, and that on February 15, 1916, they filed the said supplementary articles of incorporation with the county clerk of Hood River county, state of Oregon. Dated February 15, 1916. L. A. Henderson, As Secretary of said Corporation. Total Registration, 313 The total registration of Hood River county voters now reaches the number of 313, registered as follows with regard to party affiliation and sex: Republican men, 150; women, 33; Democratic men, 37; women, 10; Prohibition men, 10; women, 8; Socialist men, 5; women, none; Independent men, 5; no women. The oldest native resident of Hood River, M. D. Odell, aged 52 years, registered Democrat at 3100. Mr. Odell resides on the farm on which he was born. The average weekly registration has been 52. Rifle Club Will Organize The Hood River Government Rifle club will hold its organization meeting at 8 o'clock in Library hall next Wednesday evening. It is required by the government that the club be officially organized and officers elected before the club is recognized by the government. It is therefore to the interest of all members and prospective members to be on hand at this meeting and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. All those who have signed the application are urged to attend and bring their friends who might be interested. Man Sees Brother First Time Claud Allen, of Shirley, West Va., although 23 years of age, was an absolute stranger to his brother, H. P. Allen, whose family the former visited the first of the week. The local man had never seen his brother until he was knocked at his door, having left home for the west a short time before the birth of the younger brother. Slide Delays Train An avalanche of rocks and snow covered the O. W. R. & N. tracks near Taylor Monday night. The east bound passenger train, due here at 1.50 o'clock Tuesday morning, did not arrive until 9.30.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES (By Mark Moe) Supt. McLaughlin is in charge of the literary society meeting to be held tonight at Library hall. This is the first meeting held under the supervision of the new officer. The program for the evening will be: Vocal solo by Magdeline Mitchell; debate, "Resolved, That the United States Should Abolish the Monroe Doctrine." The affirmative will be upheld by Mark Moe and Neal Nuyamaker, the negative by Karl Vonder Ahe and Floyd Wright. After the debate Armas Jukki will give an oration on "The Duty to America in the Present Crisis," an address by Iva Leach; a violin solo by Rev. A. S. Donat; John Schekty will then speak and explain some stereotyped views of Annapolis naval academy; a reading by Helia Hukari; an address, "The Lincoln Highway," by Alma Jones; and a reading by Julia Noble. The boys' basket ball team will journey to White Salmon Saturday, there to play what is liable to be the last league game of the season. It is rather uncertain just now as to whether the team will play The Dalles. At the game Saturday there will be a crowd of H. R. S. rooters, the like of which has never been seen on the White Salmon floor before. The varsity will not be handicapped quite so much as in the previous games. Last Friday White Salmon went up to Goldendale and was beaten 37-14. The league standing now is: The Dalles 2 0 1000 Stevenson 2 1 750 Goldendale 4 2 666 White Salmon 1 3 250 Hood River 0 4 0000 A good many games have been postponed on account of bad weather, and it is not known when these will be played. There should be 40 games played in the league, while only 20 have been played off. The last week's practice has shown a little different material developing and undoubtedly a different team will go to White Salmon than that which took out to Stevenson or Goldendale. Cecil Lafferty, the high school's best Irish guard, has been throwing baskets at the position of forward enough to open Coach Cohoon's eyes. Some one asked, "Blick" Lafferty after the Monday afternoon practice where he had learned to throw baskets. "Why," said Blick, "I used to play forward with Clarie Hale out there in the sticks at a little place known as Odell." "Let us pray, then," murmured this person to himself, "that Blick Lafferty and Clarie Hale play forwards for H. R. H. S. at White Salmon Saturday"

CONSOLIDATION EFFECTED, COFFIN BUYS AT NEW ELECTRIC Today Chapters 7 and 8 of "The Goddess," Today only. Friday "Mary Pickford in 'Little Pal.'" "Little Pal" provides Mary Pickford with one of the most unique roles in which she has ever been presented. The photoplay is one of primitive emotions and primal passions, and evidences a hitherto unsuspected aspect of Mary Pickford's astounding versatility. Unfamiliar with the customs of wilderness, and remote from all the influences which have fashioned our present civilization, "Little Pal" recognizes no other force than the dominant love which develops within her for the one man who has practiced justice toward her. Through a series of thrilling sacrifices she proves her loyalty and devotion toward him, and when she has at last secured his happiness requests no other reward from him or fate. Mary Pickford invests this extraordinary characterization with all the power and charm for which she is justly celebrated. In her moments of tender solicitude for the man who has befriended her she is more of the inimitable "Little Mary" than we have seen in some time. In the situations in which her sacrifice reaches its greatest heights, she is a veritable Bernhardt, and the expressions of suffering and courage on her face alternating with fear and anxiety, which now and then are submerged by an emotion that she later discovers to be love, can be accepted as some of the best screen work she has ever performed. Assisted by a capable cast, including Russell Bassett, George Anderson and William Lloyd, "Little Pal" may be termed one of the foremost Famous Players-Mary Pickford triumph that have yet appeared on the Paramount program. Saturday Maud Allen, the world famous dancer, in "The Rugmaker's Daughter." Sunday and Monday Sunday and Monday a Paramount Program will be run. Owing to the delay of trains throughout the country the Triangle Film Co. has found it impossible to start service until March 12. We will run Paramount program until then.

REGULATOR LINE PLANS 4 STEAMERS The Regulator line plans to operate four steamers on the mid-Columbia this season. The Dalles City and Stranger began their schedule this week, running on alternate days to The Dalles from Portland. On May 15 the Bailey Gatzert will begin a daily schedule. This is the most elaborately planned service ever undertaken by a river line. The recent enforced tie-up has been of benefit to the company, in that crews of men were able to thoroughly overhaul the boats. A new ladies' cabin will be added to the Stranger, making her passenger accommodations equal to the larger boats of the fleet. The Stranger will leave Portland on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays about 8.30 o'clock. The up river trip will be made on alternate days.
