Following action on the part of the State Game and Fish Commission two years ago in declaring Hood river a spawning stream and closed to net fishing, funds were appropriated for the construction of a wing diverison dam at the mouth of Hood river to send the current of the stream at its juncture with the Columbia in a down stream course. The state appropriation was supplemented by work donated by local sportsmen and an appropriation on the sportsmen and an appropriation on the have left in effect the original same part of the city, the municipality being bill, which provided the sum of $1,600 per year for sheriff and clerk and ed in order that the outlet of the sewer $1,200 for assessor. system might be kept swept clean.

The wing dam was swept away by flood waters in Hood river last spring, and local men fear that the structure will not be replaced, in case the legislature has pruned too severely appro-priations for the State Game and Fish commission. Contractors who have viewed the proposed work state that a permanent dam can be built for a reasonable cost, and a committee, composed of Earl Franz, A. L. Day and Cecill Holman are endeavoring to se-cure contributions of labor on the proposed work.
