These features you want on the car you buy

YOU will not find the number of extra features and conveniences that is carried on the new Mitchell on any other car in its price class.

A Reversible Head Lamp. Just loosen the thumb nut and you can direct the light into the engine compartment or use it for backing up or putting on tires at night. This is a feature unique to the Mitchell.

Power Tire Pump. Takes the last bit of hard work out of auto-mobiling. This will cost you $10 or $12 on other cars in the Mitchell class. It is built into the Mitchell construction.

Ball Bearings Steering Knuckles. This makes the Mitchell very easy steering. Just try this feature out.

Ventilating Door Latch. The front compartment does get warm in summer. With the Mitchell you can latch the door so as to keep comfortable.

Handles for Entering the car. This feature that is much appreciated by older people and is useful use of everybody.

The Mitchell in both models carries extra that you will want in the casual automobile. The Mitchell also leads in the casual automobile requirements, riding, driving, power, comfort and endurance.

SHELLEY PREACHES

ODELL EASTER SERMON

One of the Hood River valley's most beloved pioneers is Rev. Troy Shelley. He has participated in the joys and sorrows of all pioneer families. The following sermon was preached by Rev. Shelley at Odell last Sunday.

Subject, "The Law of the Resurrection." Text, II Tim. 2:11, "If we be dead with Him, we shall also live with Him."

Not all laws relating to the resurrection, but the grand law of the resurrection, is found in this verse. It is the law of God, just as truly as He is a God of mercy, or a God of love. In fact, He always works according to law. This is very readily acknowledged in nature, but not so readily in revelation. It is my purpose to try to show you that He not only works according to law in spiritual things, but that the laws in the two domains of nature and spirit are the same—exactly the same. If this be so it is a strong proof, conclusive proof, I may say that the author is the same, that the book of nature and the book of revelation were made by the same hand.

But it is not for the comfort of this proof I seek to study the laws of God today. It is the assurance I feel it will bring a timid soul in contemplating death. I want him to know that the law of the resurrection is as eternal, as far reaching, and backed by the same power, as the law that sends the planets circling round the sun and controls the whole universe of God.

The subject of the text is death and life, and I want to notice the laws of death and life in nature and in revelation.

Let us look at these laws a little. You will notice that death is mentioned first. Does death come first in nature? That depends. If you speak of one stage of life only, life comes first and then death. But if you speak of changing from one stage of life to another, death comes first and then life.

In everything in the world that has life in it, as plants, animals and human beings there is a constant evolution of life, a constant change from one stage of life to another. And in this change death comes first, and then life. In every change, before the new life begins death in the old life intervenes. The plant grows, matures and brings forth seed. In this seed is wrapped up a new life. But before this new life begins the seed must die and rot in the ground. The egg must die before the chicken is hatched. The environment for which the animal or child in the womb receives its life must die when it is born into the world into a new life. Jesus noticing this natural law, said: "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

The law is so true and so plain there is no question or dispute about it by anyone. In truth the evolution of the world at creation was according to this law. It was in a state of chaos, of darkness and night; a state of death, and light and life followed. And so the evening, typical of death, and the morning, typical of life, made up the day.

When we turn to the book of God and study it we find that exactly the same law governs the spiritual world. There are two ways in which we die with Him: The death to sin and the natural death. In both of these we are passing from one stage of life to another, and in both of them, everywhere in the word of God, death comes first and then life. Let us see. First the text, "If we be dead with Him, we shall also live with Him." Let me give some others. In Galatians, "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live." In Romans, "Knowing this that our old man is crucified with Him, that henceforth we shall not serve sin." Also, "Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord." In Ephesians, "He tells them to put off the old man and to put on the new man. In Colossians he says, "For ye are dead and your life is hid with Christ in God."

I might give many more, but this is enough to prove that exactly the same law exists in the spiritual world that is found in the natural world. To change from one stage of life to another, the universal law of all creation is given in the text; death first and then life.

And, mark you, it is not simply death and then life, but one hinges upon the other. Just as truly as the grain of wheat must fall into the ground and die before it lives in the new life—in the stalk and the blade, and the ear—just so must you die to the old life of the flesh, the life of sin, before you can live the new life of the spirit, which God gives you in the new birth. And just as truly must your body die and decay before you can live in the resurrection, body with Him in glory. "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God."

I have been speaking of the law of death. Now for a moment let us turn to the law of life. There is just one law for it all throughout God's creation. All life comes from God. Man has the power to destroy or kill in any form of life that God has made—plants, trees, animals, men—even to the taking of his own life. He has built great plants for the manufacture of guns and ammunition for the destruction of the life of animals and of men. And just now across the ocean, he is engaged in slaying his brothers by the thousands.

But while he has such power to destroy and to kill, so far as creating or giving life is concerned, he is helpless as the new born babe. The life of all creation comes from God, and He alone can give it. From the lowest weed that grows to the highest type of man, all receive their life from Him.

It seems that God has given man almost unlimited power in many ways. He can reach out and measure the stars and weigh the planets in his balances. He can foretell an eclipse to the very minute, years ahead. He can talk over a wire, and even through the air, thousands of miles away. And he rides under the sea and in the air. We sometimes think there is no limit to his achievements, and wonder what the next few years will bring forth. But when the poor man stands beside his dead and vainly, impotently longs to bring back the life again, he has met with something he cannot fathom, something that all his power and genius can never solve. The taking of life may belong to man, but the giving of life belongs to God, and God alone.

The same law holds in the spiritual world. The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Just as the chemist, though he knows by analysis every ingredient of the little seed he may hold in his hand; can put all these ingredients together in the same proportion in the same bulk; but he cannot put the life there, he cannot make it grow. Just so a man by doing all the good things he is able to do and by working at it a lifetime, can never put eternal life in his poor dead soul. As God, at creation, breathed into man the breath of life and he became a living soul, so Paul says, "If a man be in Christ he is a new creation." God has breathed into him the Holy Spirit, and he has gotten, in one flash, something he could never get in a lifetime of work and struggle.

Now we come to another thought in the text. It is not only that you must die first, and that the next life hinges on this death, but you must die with Him. What is it to be dead with Him? It is true that He died to sin, and we die to sin. It is true that He died the natural death, and we die the natural death. But it is clearly something more than that, for all die the natural death, but all do not die with Him. In Thessalonians, it is said the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then there are some who are not dead in Christ; they are not dead with Him.

When you have His life you have Him. To be dead with Him is to have His life in you when you die, just as the seed has the life germ in it when it dies.

Not all seeds have life in them. All eggs are not fertile. Some animals and some people are barren. The life principle is not there. It is of no use for the seed to die in the ground if the life is not in it. It will not grow. It is in vain the apple tree blooms if they are not pollinized; there will be no fruit.

Just so in our natural death; if you have not the life of Jesus in you when your body dies, there will be no life beyond; nothing but the second death, the death of the soul. But if you have His life in you when you die—by all the laws of nature, and all the laws of God, with all His power to back them, you will live, live with Him in glory.

There is another thought. What you sow does not come up; it always dies in the ground. But something comes up, always of the same kind, though never the actual substance. For instance, you sow wheat, and wheat always grows; never any other grain; nor any other grain; but the actual grain you sow always rots in the ground.

So Paul says: "That which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat or of some other grain; but God giveth a body as it pleaseth Him, and to every seed his own body. So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption; it is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body."

Don't think for a moment your actual body will be raised in the resurrection. It will never be. It will rot in the ground like the seed that is planted. Thank God for that! I don't want my lame back, nor my lame foot. You don't want your weak eyes nor your weak heart, nor your weak lungs. O, glorious thought! It is raised in incorruption.

At the bottom of this is a most comforting thought. Let us hasten to it. While the grain you sow never comes up, yet it so like it you never have any trouble in telling if it is wheat or rye or oats or barley. God giveth to every seed his own body, with its own strong individuality. So also is the resurrection of the dead. So, just so, I know I shall know my father, my mother and my dear friends in glory.

In Los Angeles once, when there were immense throngs of people and vehicles of all kinds at the crossing, I saw an old man waiting to cross over. Pretty soon a policeman came and took hold of his arm with one hand, holding him up so he would not stumble nor fall; with the other hand he held up the throng of dangerous vehicles and made a safe path for him to the other side. O, my brother, you must cross over to the other side, it is more than a street crossing. Jesus is the great policeman. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for thou art with me, O Lord my God."

To all of you, in Christ Jesus, who are nearing the end of life's journey; whose eyes are dim, whose steps are feeble, whose strength is slipping away; you are not nearing the tomb, you are nearing the resurrection morning. It will soon be planting time, for some of us. And, if we have been planted together in the likeness of His death, we shall be also in the likeness of His resurrection.

Thousands of years ago in the oldest piece of literature in the world a man cried out in anguish, from a heart of agony, "If a man die, shall he live again?" The cry echoed down the ages. In the long years that followed no comforting answer was ever given till Jesus rose from the dead. Then the answer came echoing back from a man inspired of God. "If we be dead with Him we shall also live with Him."

Increase in Maxwell Prices

Anderson & Keir, local distributors for the Maxwell Motor Car Co., announce an increase in price on May 1. Touring cars will be advanced from $850 to $865 and runabouts from $820 to $850.

"The increase is made," says C. C. Anderson, "because of the increase in the cost of high grade materials used in the manufacture of the Maxwell. And because the policy of the Maxwell Co. will not permit of cheapening its product."

The local Maxwell agents have equipped a display room at the corner Second street and Cascade avenue. They have recently sold and delivered a Maxwell touring car to Herman Dethman.

Why Constipation Injures

The bowels are the natural sewerage system of the body. When they become obstructed by constipation, part of the poisonous matter which they should carry off is absorbed into the system, making you feel dull and stupid, and interfering with the digestion and assimilation of food. The condition is quickly relieved by Chamberlain's Tablets. Obtainable everywhere.

MARY BAKER EDDY MEMORIAL DEDICATED

The memorial to Mary Baker Eddy the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, erected in Mt. Auburn cemetery at Cambridge, Mass., was on Saturday, March 24, turned over to the Christian Science Board of Directors by Elbert S. Barlow, of New York, who had charge of its construction. Over a year and a half has been required to complete it. Christian Scientists throughout the world have contributed, as expressions of sentiment, the entire cost of over $150,000.

The memorial is of Bethel white granite and consists of an open circular colonnade of eight columns 15 feet in height, surrounded by a cornice and cresting. The space inside the colonnade is to be filled with growing flowers. The columns rest on a stylobate of three steps, which also rest, at one side, on a broad platform of Pompton pink granite and, at the other, which is about five feet lower, on a double flight of circular steps. These are flanked on each side by a large pylon. The pylons were exhibited a short time ago at the American Institute of Architecture in New York, and were pronounced by several experts to be the finest pieces of carved granite ever executed. The detail is elaborated to an extent never before attempted in granite; some of the stems and leaves are practically free-standing, so great is the delicacy of the work.

Interviewed regarding the memorial, the architect Egerton Swartwout of New York, said: "The site is singularly pleasing; in fact I question whether a finer site could anywhere be found. It can be seen from all sides equally well, close at hand from the cemetery road, and from a quarter of a mile away across the lake. Indeed, it is this body of water which forms the chief beauty of the site. There is a drop of approximately 10 feet from the level of the road to the level of the lake, there being a natural terrace on the axis of the plot which lends itself admirably to the architectural development of the memorial. The lake is unusually still, and has a mirror like quality which reflects admirably the white granite of which the memorial is made.

"As to the memorial, I think it can be said without contradiction that, leaving aside entirely any artistic excellence, such perfection and delicacy have never been attained before in this unyielding and enduring material. There is certainly nothing in modern times that can approach it nor, as far as I know, in any of the monuments of antiquity."

Mr. Swartwout designed the new Missouri state capitol and the new federal building in Denver, and recently won the competition for the new George Washington memorial.

All that now remains to be done to complete the memorial to Mrs. Eddy is the planting for the landscape, which is to consist chiefly of some evergreen plants that will preserve their form and leaves throughout the year, and some cedars and rhododendrons.
