FARMERS VISIT MORO EXPERIMENT STATION

(By A. R. Chase, Wasco County Agricultural Agent.)

Twenty-five automobiles with farmers of this county and their families numbering nearly a hundred, made the trip to the Moro Experiment Station on Wasco county day last Saturday. The station people went over and explained the work of the station, consisting of thousands of experiments, very thoroughly with the visitors and there was a general expression of regret among the party that they could not spend a week or more rather than a few hours at the station. The experimental work carried on at the station deals with practically all phases of dry-farming and in no other way would it be possible to get in the same length of time the information which those who make the trip receive as to the latest and best discoveries in practical farming in this section of the country. One big series of experiments relates cultivation and tillage practices. Different treatments and combinations of treatments as to plowing, harrowing, cultivation, etc., are given to a larger number of plots of grain over a series of years to find out the most efficient and economical method of dry land grain raising. Director D. E. Stephens stated that he considered this possibly the most important phase of the work just at present. Another large and important division of the work is the variety trials in which many varieties of all grains and other crops including field peas, vetches, clovers, alfalfa, potatoes, and even shade trees for the farmstead are constantly being tried out. A new and relatively unknown variety of grain, imported from a foreign country, is first tried out in the nursery under the supervision of F. J. Schneiderhan, scientific assistant. It is here also that varieties are developed and even created by crossing and selection. The present year varieties of wheat alone are being grown and worked with, one of the largest collections in the world. A variety which proves promising in the nursery must, of course, be further tried out in the regular variety trials on a larger scale before it is presented to the public. These are but a very few examples of the extensive work of this station seen on the trip last Saturday. Those who are interested should secure a copy of an excellent new bulletin entitled "Dry Farming Investigations at the Sherman County Branch Experiment Station," which may be obtained free from the experiment station or the county agent.

Pollenizer Experiments—While no results have been obtained from last year's grafts, grafts and budding of two and three years ago are this year furnishing striking examples of their effect on the setting of fruit. There are also some convincing demonstrations from the use of bouquets of seedling, black, or other cherry blossoms used as pollinizers. A report on the cherry orchards and these experiments is planned for some day this week for those interested.

Cherry Pickers—Cherry picking will begin the latter part of this week. There are more cherries than usual this year in many orchards and there will be a big demand for pickers. Every man, woman, and child who can pick cherries and does not already have a place to work should send or leave their names with county agricultural agent A. R. Chase, at the court house.

RED CROSS DRIVE MEETS WITH SUCCESS
From the Mosier Bulletin
The following figures show how the total of $1,176.90 has been raised in Mosier, through subscriptions and cash donations, for the Red Cross:

Total individual subscriptions except M. A. Mayer, $700.
Collected for Children's contest: Ferdinand Strauss, $39.03; Arta Cole, $38.50; Frances Weller, $9.25; L. and A. Joy, $5.60; Roger Chown, $2.15. Total, $94.53.
Other cash collections: J. K. McGregor, $21; Lenora Hunter, $14.75. Total, $35.75.
M. A. Mayer, (25 per cent of total), $207.57.
Receipts at Lawn Carnival, $139.05.
Grand Total, $1,176.90.
Included in the $700 individual subscriptions is the amount subscribed the evening of June 23rd at Mayerdale, which amounted to $220.
With a total of $89,006.90 subscribed by Sherman and Wasco counties when the allotment was only $15,000, the citizens have responded nobly in the big Red Cross drive, and Mosier may well be proud of the amount raised, which is greatly in excess of all expectations.

To Mark A. Mayer considerable credit is due for the success of the local Red Cross drive by his generous donation of cash, the use of his automobile in soliciting funds, and the use of his house and grounds for a carnival.
With a big red cross containing 60 globes as a centerpiece on the flag pole about 25 feet high, red, white and blue lights were strung across the Mayerdale lawn. Booths, with carnival style, containing ice cream, candies, coffee, wieners, toys, lemonade and so forth kept the crowd moving. Jitsy dances were held on the porch and singing heard in the house.
F. A. Shogren took flash light pictures of the crowd of over 300 people present and is doing the work at actual cost to him. Pictures may be procured at the Mosier Valley Bank. The flash light pictures were taken and look like they were taken by sunlight.
A stirring talk was made to local citizens by Edward C. Pease, campaign manager of the Wasco County Red Cross financial campaign, who with Geo. C. Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Williams and their daughters and Judd S. Fish, had motored over from The Dalles. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilson, of Portland, who were here to answer the appeal made by Mr. Pease by subscribing $100.
The generosity of the Pacific Power & Light company in donating the use of wire, lights and services of their men to put the same in position and then take them away is greatly appreciated.
Local citizens also helped the good cause by converting their automobiles into jitneys, and turning the profits into the Red Cross fund.
Altogether everyone assisted and all share in the glory in this great humanitarian cause.

Moving Pictures of Antarctic Region To Be Shown At Chautauqua

Sir Douglas Mawson's Expedition Secures Pictures Abounding In Strange Sights and Thrills

Mawson's famous Antarctic motion pictures will be shown at Chautauqua. These pictures are perhaps the most famous of all motion pictures of the far south and have created no end of wonderment and discussion wherever shown. The views are tangible evidence of the wonderful and yet almost tragic expedition of Sir Douglas Mawson, the celebrated English explorer, when he went into the far south a few years ago. The views were secured by Sir Douglas Mawson's expedition some 10,000 miles from America and over 2,000 miles from the nearest human habitation. Native bird and animal pictures, as well as wonderful films of antarctic deep sea creatures, are shown on the screen. These films are known as among the most expensive moving pictures ever shown and were secured at a cost of about $300,000.

VOLUNTARY GIVERS SWELL RELIEF FUND
The Hood River Red Cross war fund has grown to a sum of approximately $6,500. Since the week's drive was closed and a total of $6,094 was reported on the 10 collecting teams that canvassed the valley, scores of voluntary contributions have reached the headquarters.
"In their campaigns of soliciting for the Red Cross," wrote J. D. McCully, "I was overlooked. I am enclosing check for $25 for the noble work." Mr. McCully's letter was typical of the numbers received, says E. O. Blanchard. Another voluntary contribution of $25 was received from Miss A. M. Spring, of New York city, who has just arrived at her East Side summer home. Miss Spring made similar contributions in New York and in California.
