SECOND THRIFT DAY ADVANCES

FEBRUARY 3 IS DATE DESIGNATED

Entire Nation Will Be Called Upon to Save—Good Time to Begin Buying War Stamps

The first national thrift day, February 3, last year, while it created wide interest that resulted in much good, will be far overshadowed by the second annual observation of the day set aside for the purpose of promoting saving and economy on the approaching third day of February. Formerly men and women were taught to be thrifty for their own protection and benefit. During the past eight months they have been urged to conserve the nation's wealth and resources not only for the advancement of their own welfare, but as a patriotic duty.

Since last April means have been provided to assist every man or woman, who desires to do so, in saving his money and at the same time lending financial assistance to the government in carrying on the burden of the great war. The two issues of liberty bonds have been offered and oversubscribed, and now the small investors of the country are in the process of purchasing $2,000,000,000 worth of war savings stamps.

These $5 securities that may be bought at a certain discount, which will decrease one cent each month throughout the year, are making an appeal to the small investor. Many a five dollar bill that formerly has been invested in passing pleasures and extravagances has already gone into the purchase of these small securities. And before the year is ended, it is predicted by those in touch with the pulse of the small investors, the huge total will be oversubscribed. For the man or woman who heretofore has never considered the value of thrift, its necessity in this period of the country's crisis, February 3 would be a good day on which to make a resolution to join the ranks of American savers.

Thrift whose efforts will be of vital assistance in winning the battle against the Kaiser.

Thrift day of 1918 is going to be observed sincerely by the American millions. Those who have already learned of the great lessons of the war, the lesson of thrift, are going to pass it along to their brothers and sisters. War has its terrible costs but it also brings recompense. This lesson of thrift is one of the recompenses. Its good will last down through the ages.

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR DRAFT ELIGIBLES

Government appeal agents are directed, in an order just issued by the provost marshal general at Washington, to appeal to a district board every case where a draft registrant who has married since May 18, 1917, has been granted deferred classification by his local board on account of being married.

This does not mean that the government is seeking to revoke deferred classifications granted to men who have married since May 18, 1917. The main purpose of the order, it is announced, is to obtain uniformity of action in handling applications for deferred classification by men who have married since the selective draft law went into effect.

At the same time district boards will give careful scrutiny to each case. If local boards appear to have been lenient in their interpretation of the regulations in this connection, reversal of their ruling may be expected by the district board before which the case is taken, or the case may be sent back to the local board for additional evidence.

Here is the language of the regulations in regard to men who have married since the law became effective: "On May 18, 1917, every person subject to registration had notice of his obligation to render military service to his country. The purpose of the selective service law was not to suspend the institution of marriage among registrants, but boards should scrutinize marriages since May 18, 1917, and especially those hastily effected since that time, to determine whether the marriage relation was entered into with a primary view of evading military service, and unless such a finding is made the case boards are hereby authorized to disregard the relationship so established as a condition of dependency requiring deferred classification under these regulations."

TEACHERS ARE ASKED TO VOLUNTEER

Every school teacher in Oregon is asked by the government to volunteer for urgent and important work in the execution of the selective service law in this state.

The same call is being made of teachers in every state. So urgent is the need of their assistance that President Wilson himself has addressed a letter to all teachers asking them to give their services for the very important work required.

This work is to help local draft boards compile immediately a complete card index showing the special qualifications of every man they have classified under the draft law.

This information must be had by the government at once, because calls for men specially qualified for certain duties are received from the army every day. Local boards are too busy making classifications to do the work.

The persons best fitted of all others to perform this patriotic task are the school teachers and they are now asked to volunteer their services to their respective local boards.

The work will not be hard or exacting. No teacher will be asked to give more than a few hours for a few days. But speed and accuracy are required. The questionnaire of every man who has been classified must be examined and information as to his qualifications for special duties transcribed on a prepared card.

A short time ago General Pershing called for a number of trained meteorologists to be hurried to France. The government had a list of meteorologists, so the call was filled and the men sent without delay.

Similar calls for specialists in other lines are being made continually. It is imperative that the war department have a complete card index, listing for example all the carpenters, the mechanics, the blacksmiths, the accountants and so on, so that at a moment's notice the men required can be called out by consultation of the index.

Every teacher in Oregon who will volunteer to help in this work should present himself or herself immediately to his or her local board.

THIRTY FAIL TO REPORT ON TIME

With the time limit for the return of questionnaires up last Friday, the exemption board recorded 29 registered locally as delinquent. The names of those who had not returned their questionnaires and from whom the board has had no word are as follows: She-saka Tekata, Lewis H. Gross, Jack Yackie, Mike Tidos, Albert Eberhard, Kenneth McKay, Tom Pieter, Azo Karasui, John Ostlund, Pete Evanoff, Lewis H. Scott, Harold B. Foley, Yutaki Tagasugi, Mike Katsinpas, Miltward Crosby, Tane Tasakas, Oloichi Nishimoto, Russell Kelly, Tarpo Vasileff, Jorge Samard, Frank L. Clark, William B. Snowden, Naoshi Hamada, Delbarco Mario, John Dosssett, Y. Ishimoto, Joe Majais, Oscar Stranahan and S. Namba.

The following list of men, whose questionnaires have not been returned, are in some branch of the service. The exemption board has asked that their parents or others knowing of their whereabouts appear before the board and inform the board by affidavit:

Two of the 30 Hood River men listed as delinquent in returning their questionnaires to the local exemption board have responded. Russell Kelly is no slacker, as was feared. Writing from Texas point, where he is a member of a British aviation squadron in training, young Kelly returns his questionnaire properly filled out. Oscar Stranahan has written from Portland to the effect that his questionnaire was delivered to him too late to be returned here on time.

While he has not returned his questionnaire, it has been learned that William Hall listed as a delinquent, is now in the service in an aviation squadron at Vancouver Barracks.

The local exemption board has inducted Waldo Mills, an East Side orchardist into the service as member of the third University of Oregon Ordnance class.

Thirty five men of Class 1 have been notified to appear before the exemption board Thursday for physical examinations. County Health Officer Edgington will have associated with him in the examination work Drs. F. C. Brosius and Dr. E. O. Dutro.

MRS. L. A. HENDERSON SUCCEEDS HUSBAND

At the regular meeting of the city council Monday night, when appointments to municipal office for the ensuing year were made, Mrs. Edna C. Henderson received appointment to the office of city treasurer to succeed her husband, Cpt. Henderson, E. R. C., now stationed at Camp Lewis. Mrs. Henderson will be the only new appointee in the city's service this year.

Other officers were reappointed as follows, each receiving a raise in salary: J. K. Carson, chief of police, from $100 to $105 per month; Joseph Frazier, night marshal, $75 to $80; W. T. Price, water superintendent, $100 to $115; A. Samuel, street commissioner, $80 to $85; Ralph Early, teamster, $75 to $80; Dr. Jesse Edgington, health officer, $10 to $15; E. C. Smith, reappointed city attorney, will receive no raise in his annual salary of $500.

While the council cannot raise the salary of City Recorder Howe, an elective officer, whose salary is fixed by charter at $100 per month, the body allowed Mr. Howe an additional $10 per month under the heading of expenses for taking care of the office of the city water department.

No change was made by Mayor Dumble in the personnel of committees for the ensuing year. It was decided at the Monday night meeting to complete the repairs to the long stairs leading up to the Heights from Sherman avenue on First street. Water Superintendent Price will also replace the old stairs on Ninth street with new work. It was decided to improve Montello avenue, between Park and 12th streets by grading.

CANADIANS COMING FEBRUARY 3

WOUNDED OFFICERS TO TELL STORY

Patriotic Mass Meeting Called to Hear Message of Men Who Have Done Their Bit in Trenches

Sunday afternoon, February 3, at the Asbury Methodist church the people of Hood River will be given the privilege of hearing the story of the great European war against German autocracy from the lips of three wounded Canadian officers who have seen active service in the trenches. The visitors, Lieutenant Colonel Macmillan, Major F. B. Edwards and Captain E. J. Cook, are now making a tour of the state under the auspices of the Oregon National Council of Defense. The meeting will be in charge of the Hood River Defense Council, chairman of which is W. A. Isenberg.

The program will be interspersed with musical numbers, and patriotic songs will be sung by the entire assemblage. The distinguished and valiant visitors will be introduced by Mayor Dumble.

Lieut.-Col. Macmillan served with the Seventh Battalion, First British Columbia Regiment, enlisting August 4, 1914, the date of the declaration of war. He went overseas with the first Canadian division. Among the great engagements in which he participated are Neuve Chapelle, the second battle of Ypres, Festubert, Givenchy, the operations before Messines and the Somme.

He was recalled to England as assistant director of transport, and promoted to major, later receiving appointments as assistant director of supply and transport of Canadians, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He is now on furlough. Maj. Edwards was a lieutenant in the Canadian militia regiment, 30th British Columbia Horse, at the outbreak of war. When the regiment arrived in Flanders it went into the trenches in the Ploeghe sector, followed by service at Hill 63.

When the regiment was reorganized to an infantry battalion, it was transferred to the Ypres salient. Maj. Edwards, then a captain, was wounded for the first time during the Sanctuary Wood action, being shot in the hip. Upon his return to his regiment it was moved to the Somme. At Regina trench the gallant officer was wounded for the last time and permanently retired from active service. The price he paid was the loss of both arms, torn off by high explosives.

He has now been returned to Canada for duty at Resthaven Military Convalescent hospital. He was recommended for the military cross in October 1916, and received special mention in dispatches by Sir Douglas Haig.

Capt. E. J. Cook, the huge, irrepressible boy of the party, entered service with the Western Canadian Cavalry, enlisting in August, 1914. Ypres, the Somme and Festubert are but three of the many engagements through which he passed.

At Festubert, in an assault on German third-line trenches, Capt. Cook stopped two soft-nosed machine gun bullets, which entered his right side and traversed the stomach. Contrary to all the predictions, he recovered. It was also his fortune to be "gassed" at the second battle of Ypres. The full complement of his wounds included one in the left elbow.

Following recovery from his wounds Capt. Cook served as an instructor in military training schools in France and England. He was also provost-marshal in London for some months, and air raids are by no means novelties to him.

Savings Stamps Sales Increase

During the past week Postmaster Reavis has sold more than $1,000 worth of war savings stamps, and the total sales of the office now exceed $2,500.

Postmaster Henderson, of Cascade Locks, here on business Monday, reports that the stamps are being bought liberally by the employes of the Wind River Lumber Co. at that town.
