TWELFTH COMPANY

Twelfth Company, Oregon Coast Artillery, as we formerly knew it here in Hood River, is no more. The Company as now stationed at Fort Canby, Wash., is composed chiefly of national army men from the middle west, who are being drilled by several of the old non-commissioned officers of the original Twelfth. The remainder of the old 12th Co. are scattered to the four winds. Because of special talents many of the men were transferred to various training quarters of the United States for intensive work, and weekly we hear of the success with which these men have met. A large number of the boys have been transferred to a battery of field artillery and have been training at Fort Stevens. All of the commissioned officers of the 12th Company, Capt. Wilbur, Lieut. Van Horn and Lieut. Brosius, have been detailed to other work. While we know that 12th Co. men, wherever they may be, are going to acquit themselves well, he cannot help regretting that the company was not left intact, a representative Hood River organization.

THE SOLDIER'S NEWSLETTER

"The Soldier's Newsletter," a publication that has been issued by the so-called Northwestern Patriotic Press Association in Portland, should be discontinued. The worst thing that can be said about the publication is that it is not needed. It is superfluous. The Newsletter does not fill any want of the soldier boy. The publication simply copies from various Oregon weeklies items that appear from week to week. But the soldier in most instances has already received those bits of news from his home paper. While do not wish to have it appear that we are casting aspersions on the patriotic motives of those who promoted the Soldier's Newsletter, we will frankly state that we think that the funds they expend on the publication represent a waste. And we should waste no money or energies in this time of war. The Glacier last fall received a request from the so-called Northwestern Patriotic Association for the privilege of exchange, and we gladly complied. Without solicitation the publisher of the Glacier received from the organization a handsomely engraved certificate duly setting forth that he was made an associate editor of the "Newsletter." We presume that other publishers and editors received like certificates. These documents show another evidence of waste.

BOILED POTATOES

Many of our housewives have been put to it recently in their bread making. The new ruling of the food administration, making it necessary to purchase and use certain substitutes with each bag of flour bought, has caused some worry among household cooks. As they become familiar with barley meal, corn meal and flour, rice and oat meal, better results are shown. One of the worries that reaches all of us is the cost of the wheat flour as well as the substitutes. We can eat cheaper bread, and just as wholesome and palatable, if we mix mashed boiled potatoes with our flour. Recently the Glacier published an interview from Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, of the Odell district, who is known for her good cooking. Her wheat-potato bread, composed of about one-third mashed potatoes, it is said by those who have tried it, cannot be beaten. Mrs. E. O. Blanchard, having read of Mrs. Ferguson's success with potatoes, experimented with the mashed, boiled tubers. She has used almost 50 per cent potatoes. Yet, she says, the bread was excellent.

Now that the date of the Red Cross spelling bee is definitely set, it behooves everybody to get busy with the dictionary. Never have we been offered such an opportunity to do a bit so easily. And that crowd that is sure to fill the high school auditorium to overflowing will be one of the jolliest aggregations ever assembled in Hood River. Arrange now to have Saturday night, March 16, free, so that you and all your family can be at the high school.

Can anyone tell us just why it is that visitors to Hood River, when they ask for Hood River based apples, can't get them? It cannot be the lack of demand, for the average visitor always calls for baked apples. No restaurant keeper will say it is because the apples are not good. He is not courting a swift demise at the hands of offended growers. Will someone please give us a reason?

The Defense Council has done a good work—if the work proves permanent—in saving a man from cankerous I. W. Wism. And those who have observed Fred Nevis are confident that the man is sincere in recanting the doctrine that breeds discontent and irresponsibility. Arlyndy Nevis has the appearance of a different man, it is said. Let everybody give him encouragement and a helping hand.

We do not see why apple growers cannot apply the principles of cooperation as successfully to the purchase and operation of tractors as to the work of harvesting and marketing their crops. In fact something like the proposed "tractor clubs" are going to be a necessity because of the lack of labor.

The Woman's club, for bringing Dr. Boyd here for his great lecture, "Unmasking Germany," should have the unanimous thanks of the people of Hood River. With his strong personality and his eloquence Dr. Boyd delivered to the Hood River people an impressive message.

If you haven't anything else to do today go right out and begin spading up your vacant lot garden. Turn it again when you plant and the crops will grow all the better. It is only a matter of days now until spring planting will be here.

Although weakened in man power, the apple growers of the Hood River valley will strike the line of fungus and bugs with just as great an artillery fire of insecticides and fungicides as in former years.

The nation is too easy on German spies and seditious talkers, and Portland, it seems, is too easy on careless automobile drivers.

Will the Food Administration tell us why substitutes, when they become substitutes, show almost at once such a rise in price?

Spring's here, or ought to be—John H. Gerdes is pruning his poplars.

If there is anything at all in the old adage, please let departing winter roar like a lion tomorrow.

Patronize home industries—eat more apples.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS WILL COST $9262

The cost of road improvement involved in contracts let Monday by the county court will reach $9,262.28. The contract to cut a new grade for the West Side trunk road, connecting the city with Tuckers bridge across Hood river, for about 300 yards on Davidson hill was awarded to the Transfer & Livory Co., the bid of which was $2210. J. G. Fairfowl, of Dec, the only other bidder on this work, submitted a figure of $2388. Mr. Fairfowl was awarded the contract of making a fill of approximately 300 feet across Indian creek just south of the city to take the place of the wooden bridge. His bid was $4850.78. The Transfer & Livory Co. made a bid of $5621.42 on this work. For a box concrete culvert to carry the water of the creek the following respective bids were submitted: Transfer & Livory Co., $1372.50; Hubert Cramer, $1387.50; Stranahan & Slaven, $1489.50; and J. G. Fairfowl, $2519.60. The Transfer & Livory Co. was awarded the contract. All contractors also submitted bids on an arch type of culvert, but all were rejected. The county has notified the Apple Growers Association, which owns the ditch of a water power system passing under the bridge that will be filled in, to make due preparations for the protection of its property when the improvement work is undertaken.

Reception for Rev. Lewellen

Members of the Asbury Methodist church will hold a public reception tomorrow evening at the church parlors in honor of their new pastor, Rev. J. D. Lewellen, and wife, who recently arrived from Almira, Wash., where he was formerly pastor of the Methodist church. A program of musical numbers will be rendered and refreshments will be served. All friends of the church are invited to participate in the reception of tomorrow evening. Rev. Lewellen is a western man, having been converted in Montana. For six years he was at the state school at Bozeman, where he worked his way. He received his seminary training at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. On the night he was ordained he was made a presiding elder.

For the past three years Rev. Lewellen was in charge of the Almira, Wn., church. During that time the church more than doubled its membership, and the Sunday school increased its members five fold. The congregation expressed keen regret when it was learned that Bishop Matt S. Hughes had transferred the pastor to Hood River.

The Weather

Belated winter laid a heavy hand over the mid-Columbia last Thursday and Friday. The minimum temperature, according to the government recording thermometer of Observer Birge, was 18 degrees above zero Wednesday and Thursday nights. Fortunately strawberry tracts, except on low levels, were covered by a blanket of snow, and no damage will result. The temperature did not go low enough to cause any damage to early soft fruits, the buds of which were just ready to burst.

Mr. Birge reports a total of 14 1/2 inches of snow for the winter, a foot of which has fallen since February 14.

Single Delivery After March 4

Conferring Tuesday night with A.M. Stanton, of the Oregon Council of Defense, grocers and meat market men of this city agreed to cut their deliveries to one a day. The delivery will be made in the afternoon, and all orders must be given the retail merchants by noon in order to be handled in the delivery of that day. The new ruling will take effect March 4. A new schedule of closing hours will also be effected among the merchants. By the new delivery system four men will be released for other labor in Hood River.

Methodist Church

Sunday school 10 a. m. A warm welcome awaits you. Our motto is "God by Easter," and we will meet you in reaching that number. A gospel message at 11 a. m. Junior and Senior League at 6.30 p. m. At 7.30 the pastor will give a message to meet the needs of the times. A special invitation is extended to all. Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7.30. Friday night a reception will be given for the pastor and his family. Tuesday, March 5, the Missionary society will hold an all day meeting in the home of Mrs. J. R. Newton. All members are invited. Meeting will open at 10.30. Each person is requested to bring something for the lunch. A committee is preparing a service flag for the boys who have gone into service from the church. This will be presented with appropriate services Sunday night a week.

Letters From and About Soldiers

The casualty list of a recent night bombing raid of boche airmen included the trousers of a Hood River lad, John Ledford, son of J. M. Ledford. The young man, training at an American aviation field just behind the lines in France, writes:

"We are just back from the dug-outs, following the raid of German bombing planes, and I have a job on hand. When awakened by the alarm of the siren I found my shoes, but missed my pants in the hurry to get under cover. After the bombers had been driven off, I returned to find that our sleeping quarters had been a target. An exploding shell had pretty well torn my pants to pieces. When I finish writing this I will do the best I can toward mending them."

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Lenz, having recently received a letter announcing that he would leave immediately, have been under the impression that their son, Glen, was en route for France. A letter just received tells that the young man has been ordered to receive further training at Omaha, where he is attending the balloon school. The squadron will be equipped with two anti-air craft machine guns. Young Lenz, who is eager to get across to active service, has been made a first-class chauffeur, a rating that is equal in rank to a sergeant.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Kerr, of the Frankton district, have received a postal from their son, Arthur L., member of a regiment of engineers, who announces that he has arrived safely in France.

The young man's mother recently fell on an icy walk, breaking one of her legs. Mr. Kerr says the receipt of that postal, telling of the son's safe voyage, has done more toward bringing her back to the stage of recovery than anything done for her since the accident.

"The weather in its severity has been something fierce here on the northeastern coast," writes Vern Hunt to his father, Geo. A. Hunt, Cassida, Cassia county sheriff. The young man, who enlisted last summer in the navy, told of a journey up the Atlantic coast. "It was a delightful trip," he said, "since we stopped at many ports and saw many diverse scenes. But in order to reach New London our destination, we traveled through channels cut through deep ice."

Mr. and Mrs. A. Canfield have just received a letter from their son, 1st Sgt. J. B. Canfield, who enlisted last summer when he was a high school senior. He was transferred from Camp Lewis to Camp Fremont, Calif., announcing that he had just been placed in charge of the 8th Division Medical Supply Depot.

Bert Thornbury, another Hood River man, is in the medical depot at Camp Fremont.

Judge Onthank has received a letter from his son, Karl Onthank, private secretary to President Campbell, of the University of Oregon, who states that he has won a commission as lieutenant in one of the companies of U. S. O. students now in training. Mr. Onthank, on his graduation from the University of Oregon, taught for several years in different parts of the state.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clarkson has received a postal from her son, John W. Clarkson, member of a company of the 29th Engineers regiment, which announces that he has arrived safely in France. Mrs. Clarkson had feared that her boy was aboard the Tuscania. His letter indicates that he sailed on an earlier boat.

John Carson writes his father that he is well pleased with military life at Fort Worden, Wash. The young soldier had just applied, when his letter was written last week, for the maximum of $10,000 military insurance.

Hanna Buys Rubnie's Place E. A. Hanna, of Cheney, Wash., has just purchased from A. W. Runkle the latter's 177 acre holdings near the Mount Hood postoffice. Mr. Hanna has arrived here with six head of horses and 20 cattle and will make a specialty of stock raising on his new place. He announces that he will at once begin extensive improvements on the newly purchased place.

First Church of Christ, Scientist Services will be held in Church building, 903 N. Eugene, Saturday, 11:00 a. m. Subject: "Jesus Christ." Sunday School at 11 a. m. Wednesday service, 8 p. m. The reading room is open daily from 3 to 5 p. m., in the Hall building.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH NOTICE

Rev. George B. Van Waters, general missionary for Eastern Oregon, will conduct services at St. Mark's Episcopal Church next Sunday at 10.30 p. m. The Communion service will be held and Dr. Van Waters will preach. He was formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church, Portland, and is known as an exceptionally able man. All are cordially invited to attend the service. There will be no morning service, but Sunday school will be held as usual at 10 a. m.
