AN ABUSE OF POWER

One of the great bulwarks of our nation is the freedom of the press. Democracy is kept alive by a free and untrammeled discussion of public affairs, and that a power for good or evil resides in daily newspapers of a large circulation and a proportionate power in the smaller country newspapers of weekly issue.

It is true that newspapers take as great an advantage of this privilege and power as is evidenced by the Portland Journal, which has recently flouted the inhibition of two bills to further the personal spite of its publisher, C. S. Jackson, against the country press of the state and to further his ambitions. What would the voters of Oregon think if every newspaper, with money and influence to carry out its intentions, were to circulate and face on the ballot some measure carrying a special holiday of the publisher's? C. S. Jackson's bills, one to prohibit the publication of delinquent taxes and the other reducing to a ridiculously low figure charges on legal publications, are nothing more than Mr. Jackson's pet hobbies.

While the voter who takes the time to study the bills will find they have as their object the general public, as the shrewd Mr. Jackson knows, will give but little thought to the matter, and if the Journal happens to be his favorite paper, he may vote for the Jackson bills. These bills, while the Glacier has repeatedly pointed out their lack of worth, do not of themselves represent the great point at issue. But are the voters of Oregon going to allow the publisher of a widely read newspaper, simply because he has been granted such a privilege through the freedom of the press of a great nation, to abuse his privilege? If tactics similar to those characterizing Mr. Jackson's action are carried much further we may well look to a public sentiment restricting the great free press of the American nation.

BROAD-BLADES AND BRASSIES

The lure of a well kept golf course, to the man who has swung his driver and has seen a gutta serena globe gliding through space or who has by a well timed touch with his putter sent the ball rolling into its hole becomes very real. To him the study of clubs, innumerable kinds of immemorial names, and all of them for some special purpose, becomes as fascinating as rods and reels and flies and lures to a disciple of Isaac Walton.

If a man decides to make liberty gardening his sport instead of golf, he will soon find that his favored lot where he has planted potatoes, peas and beans has just as great a lure as the links for the golfer, and the different kinds, species and varieties of loaves are almost as numerous as those of golf clubs, nor does one have to limit himself to the use of a single kind of spade. The game of growing fine vegetables, of battling with aphids and a species of larvae that persists in trying to devour your best radishes, soon becomes as alluring as ever was the golf course. The broad-blade or the goose-neck will have an especial appeal when you view the rapid growth of various weeds.

You will find gardening even more interesting than golfing or any kind of sport. And gardening has become a very popular sport. It is fostered by Hoover. Arrange for a plot of ground, buy a load of two of manure to spread thereon and prepare to grow your family's vegetables next summer.

GOVERNOR WITHYCOMBE

Walter M. Pierce, Democratic candidate for governor, apparently is not pursuing policies that particularly reform his past record, a record that is not going to appeal to the patriotic citizenship of Oregon. His political record and his talks smack too much of platitudes. It is difficult for Mr. Pierce to explain his former very close identification with the Non-Partisan League.

Governor Withycombe, seeking reelection, is going to get it. We have no fear of that. The Pierce supporters in Hood River county are going to be so weak as almost not to be counted. Hood River county's record in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign is a sure criterion of a negligible vote for Walter M. Pierce.

James Withycombe has made a record as governor of which Oregon may well be proud. The citizens of Oregon should go to the polls November 5 and express their appreciation.

JUDGE BLOWERS

From one view point, it is not necessary to go to the polls November 5 and vote for Judge L. N. Blowers. He hasn't any opposition. But have you ever thought of it in this light. Judge Blowers has attended to his duties with a most conscientious regard for the good of the citizens of Hood River county. He has considered himself a servant of the people of this county and has acted accordingly. He deserves the vote of every citizen regardless of what his or her party affiliations may be, who visits the polls on election day.

BOY SCOUTS

In the four troops of Boy Scouts, in charge of representative men of the respective communities in which they are located, Hood River county has organizations of which she is justly proud. The principles on which the Boy Scouts base their participation in community affairs will, if adhered to, make of them better boys and better men. In the time of war when every man, woman and child is called on to do his utmost for his nation, we have been shown how Boy Scouts can render great aid to their country.

May the Scout organizations continue to grow and to win new and additional honors.

BE CAREFUL

Citizens whose place adjoin the old State road, now a link of the Columbia River Highway West of the city, are complaining at the speed of gravel trucks being operated by the State Highway Commission and of the recklessness of drivers of pleasure automobiles. While the fast driving of motor tourists has not been so noticeable on Cascade avenue, the city extension of the Highway, the spurt of speed of some of the big trucks has aroused comment on the part of dwellers.

Two very narrow escapes were noted on the State road Sunday. Last we have a very serious and regrettable accident, motorists and truck drivers should use greater care in their driving.

UNITED WAR WORK DRIVE

Hood River county's quota in the United War Work drive is fixed. The quotas of individual districts have been set, and the campaign is just waiting to be launched. The press has told the people the purpose of this drive, where its funds will go for the comfort and aid of soldiers overseas and at home, through the cooperative work of all religious forces of this great nation. And just as Hood River county proceeded to raise the Fourth Liberty Loan fund, so is she going to raise this quota for the big War Work drive.

The duty is pointed out. The admirable spirit that is inspiring will do the rest.

So get yourselves ready for the call of the committees that will visit you Friday, November 8. Do your part, and thus the campaign will all be over on that one day and you can resume the completion of your apple harvest.

The state has her eyes on you, Hood River. For your record in past drives, just "Carry On!"

DISUNDERSTANDING CLEARED UP

A misunderstanding relative to the canteen work of the Y. M. C. A. has been cleared up by the War Department, which issued the following:

"Matter of prices asked by Young Men's Christian Association for its articles sold in canteens overseas already investigated by war department and condition is being remedied. The Young Men's Christian Association was originally asked by General Pershing to run the canteens for the army on a cost basis. In order to do this it had to reckon in price fixing such overhead charges as transportation charges and marine insurance so that prices were much higher than in this country.

"The Young Men's Christian Association made no profits, but lost thousands of dollars. Arrangements now made will enable them to obtain supplies from sources that will reduce overhead charges and keep prices down."

UNITED WAR WORK OFFICERS

State committee officers for the United War Work campaign are: W. M. Ladd, chairman; O. W. Davidson, director; John W. Kelley, and Mrs. William H. Marshall, associates; director of publicity, Ira F. Powers; speakers and entertainers bureau, J. W. Davidson, John R. Rind, vicerey boys' and girls league, Walter A. Goss.

Chairman of the seven allied organizations:

Y. M. C. A., Mr. Ladd; Y. W. C. A., Mrs. William MacMaster; War Camp Community Service, Emery Olmstead; American Library Association, W. L. Brewster; Knights of Columbus, Frank J. Longmear; Salvation Army, O. C. Hartmeyer; Jewish Welfare Board, Ben Selling.

John R. Mott, of New York, is director of the United War Work campaign in San Francisco, is director of the Western Department, embracing eight states, including Oregon.

Huts for Nurses

Huts for nurses are maintained by the Y. W. C. A. at the base hospitals in France. To extend this work a portion of the United War Work funds to be raised in November will be used.

PERSHING'S "DO WITHOUT IT" CLUBS

Organization of "do without it" clubs in America, as a means of aiding the United War Work campaign, which opens November 11, was recommended by James F. Pershing, brother of General Pershing, in an address delivered recently in Portland in behalf of the drive. He urged the American people to make some sacrifices in order to help carry on the great undertaking that is to furnish money for war work in the battle zone during the coming year. A great percentage of American people he said, do not know from any sacrifices made thus far that a war is in progress. Relaxation of activities because of peace proposals, he declared, should not be tolerated, and asked people of the country to throw their whole energy and cooperation behind this latest drive for securing funds for the seven big war working agencies consolidated in the campaign.

Baby Expert Preaches Greater Use of Milk

A milk bill and healthy children is cheaper than a doctor's bill and an undernourished child. It would be cheaper to start right. So says Mrs. A. Bayley, of the Parents' Educational Bureau, Oregon Congress of Mothers, who has presided at the testing of thousands of babies. She finds the milkfed youngster of three or four years scores much higher than the child who has had little milk in his diet. Mrs. Bayley preaches a greater use of milk for young and old.

GRUMBLING IN THE GLOOM.

Try to Forget Your Aches and Pains and the Bad Weather.

It was a woman who remarked that if it rained about our necks and pulled was a sign of a bad and pessimistic forecast of civilized life would cease. If this unsatisfactory weather another thing would be chopped off.

It is annoying to bear humanity doing so much of the best thing done to us here to painfully detailed about our heads, shoulders, backs, stomach aches and innumerable other ailments.

The cold part of it lies in the sun, a patient with which each tries to fight the other. He or she knows, however, that his or her turn comes next, and the luxury of indulging in delicious accounts of sickness will be indulged.

Many of us are not insouciantly careless with the pains of the present, but rather treasure up the pains of the past as constantly accumulating reserves of misery and borrow them of the future as a debt under which to groan and grumble.

If we could forget it all and permit others to forget it, thereupon upon our spiritual side to the joyousness of the sun and cheer and brightness before us seen would be before us.

It is all a matter of mental turn. We may shut the shades of the windows of our minds on the sunny side and open in darkness, or we may open the same windows wide and bask in the sunlight. — Christian Herald.

FORGED ANTIQUES.

Even British Museum Experts Have Been Fooled by Them.

The "antiquity" manufacturer is a man who thrives on expert fancy. Furnitures, plates, china, pictures, tapestry he imitates them all most successfully. Each man has his specialty. One devotes himself to old leather jackets, another produces hand made, a third turns out "medieval" MSS.

The British museum once bought a Palace plate for $250. While an attendant was handling it one of the seats attached to his back, mistaking the genuineness because of its weight, it fell from the mark of a modern French potter.

On other occasions terra cotta figurines of Isis and Osiris, bought by the institution for hundreds of pounds, have been discovered to be composed of modern clay.

A good story is told of a forged silver cup in Rome that purported to have come from some secret excavation in Sicily. This ancient cup was ornamented with a circular bas-relief representing the frieze of the Parthenon. But in the height of his pride in the cup, the finder gave the frieze in its present ruined condition. The exhibition of the cup was received with shouts of laughter—London Standard.
