WASCO'S CHERRIES

It appears that Wasco county will produce a few cherries this year. Reporting an interview with A. B. Cooper, former warehouseman of the Apple Growers Association who has been at The Dalles representing a Chicago concern in a cherry packing house, the Hood River correspondent of the Oregonian made it appear that the entire Dalles crop would not exceed 200 tons of fruit, whereas this was the tonnage of the Chicago merchants. The Dalles Chronicle was aroused from its usual lethargy and grew red puffed. After accusing the local Oregonian correspondent of consistent propaganda against the Dalles, the Chronicle informs us that Wasco county's tonnage will reach 1,000 tons.

The Glacier printed a story on Wasco county's cherries, similar to that in the Oregonian. We regret the misinformation, and feel sure that the Oregonian correspondent is also sorry for any incorrect data. Yet we are glad of the incident. Perhaps The Dalles will be aroused from a state of general spathy and innocuity. Hood River, so far as we have observed, has never conducted any campaign to belittle our neighbor. Rather our neighbor has grown sleepy and small-townish. Her newspapers have grown into a rut. Her newspaper men seem to have lost their noses for news. Wasco county comprises a great fertile region, but the story of it is not being told. "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," and the recent erroneous story may bring The Dalles newspaper men to life. If so, the mistake made by a country correspondent was not in vain.

The people in tail end ears of the waiting list lined up for the White Salmon ferry Sunday, we are sure, longed for a bridge spanning the Columbia here. Such dreams are far from realization, but the day will perhaps come when giant spans will reach across the river here, and we will have a pier and wharf for river steamers that will be a great attraction in themselves.

Hood River's Fourth of July celebration lacked "pop." The crowd was big and everybody was spending money freely and having a fair time. But something was lacking. It was a band. Hood River lost an opportunity not long ago when she turned down the proposition of the McDougall Music House in Portland to furnish Philip H. Hicks as an instructor for a boy's band. Never a month passes that we do not need a good band. The celebration of last week would have been 100 per cent better with a good band here.

The minstrel show at the Fourth of July celebration, thanks to the hard work of the participants in their preparation on the day of the celebration, was one of the most meritorious amateur theatrical performances ever seen here. Many visited the show twice, and, by the way, it was the premier money-maker for the park fund.

Get out Saturday night and join the fog crowd at the Pine Grove grange hall. Mr. Ketchum, of Michigan, is one of the nation's deepest thinkers on problems confronting the farmer. His message will be worth hearing.

It was better last Friday than a Dantean description of purgatory at Toledo until the light began. Then the frosty, fistic fizzle sent the temperature tumbling.

The Fire Boys were the noblest Romans of all on the Fourth. They worked just as hard as though a fire had been in progress, and their work told.

Cooperate with the officials here from the state fire marshal's office, and help to make Hood River a fire-less town.

Mrs. Henny's work in the city and valley schools has been highly appreciated. News of her return here next school year will be welcomed.

Falling Boulder Hurts Woman

Mrs. W. R. Davis, of Milwaukee, was struck by a dislodged boulder while climbing Mt. Hood Saturday and suffered two broken ribs and internal injuries. She was carried three miles through a blinding snow and sleet storm to a cabin at the timber line on the south slope of the mountain. The accident occurred when a leader in a party of climbers loosened the boulder in the course of ascending the steep incline at Crater rock. Mrs. Davis was a member of a party of 65 persons from the Multnomah Athletic club. Eighteen made the trip to the summit from Government Camp.

Net Fishermen May Be Prosecuted

The discovery of a net on Lost Lake may lead to the prosecution of valley citizens for violation of the game and fish laws. The finding of the net has led members of the Hood River Game Protective Association to make an investigation around the lake shores, and it is thought that net fishing has been engaged in extensively in the remote section.

It is reported, too, that beaver have been unlawfully trapped there.

Mrs. Shay Deserves Medal

Friends of Mrs. W. E. Shay, who has established the Storknest, declare that the government should present her with a medal of honor for conducting so many future soldiers into the world. Since January 1, 12 boy boys were born at the Storknest. Three girls have been born. Eleven of the future major generals were born in succession.

FERRY SYSTEM CARRIES RECORD NUMBER

A record business was done Sunday by the Hood River-White Salmon ferry system. With last Saturday a holiday in Washington as well as Oregon, motor tourists of both states, en route home from week end spins, kept the ferry company's boats busy from dawn until late in the evening. At one time 25 machines were in line on the Washington bank awaiting passage. More than half that number were on the Oregon shore at the same time. A total of 105 automobiles were ferried across the Columbia here Sunday.

CHERRIES ARE ROLLING EAST

The Hood River Valley crop of black cherries has started rolling east. The Apple Growers Association, the estimated total tonnage of which is placed at eight carloads, shipped its first carload to Minneapolis last Thursday. Other shipments followed the first of the week. The fruit is packed in 10 pound boxes, lined with lace paper. It is expected that a new record will be set in prices received.

Hotels Overcrowded

Many out of town participants in the celebration Friday remained here for the night. Indeed, too many stayed here. The hotels and lodging houses were overcrowded, and scores of people slept in the lobbies of the hotels.

Congregational Church

Special notice: Prof. Norman F. Coleman, of Reed College, will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Prof. Coleman spoke in our church about two years ago, and all who heard him on that occasion will be glad of this opportunity to hear him again. We are to have special music. Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

Methodist Church

Sunday school at 10 o'clock, sermon and special music at 11 a. m., Epworth League at 7 p. m., song service and sermon at 8 p. m. Welcome to all. J. D. Lewellen, Pastor.

FINS, FURS AND FEATHERS

The State Game and Fish Commission distribution car brought 120,000 trout fry from the Bonneville hatchery Saturday for distribution in the Middle and West Forks of Hood river. The fingerlings were transported to the streams by parties of ranchers in charge of R. A. Collins, Leroy Childs and A. J. Graff. The car was in charge of T. J. Craig. Other distributions will be made here later.

Fishing on the Middle Fork of Hood river is reported fine by local anglers who have been out the past week. Hugh G. Ball, J. H. Fredrick and Geo. I. Slocum nearly caught the limit of eight inch trout. Fishermen are also catching large numbers of fine trout on the headwaters of the West Fork. The roads through the district, while rough in spots, are holding up better than usual.

Portland realizes the benefits of encouraging home products to such extent that the mayor of that city has designated by proclamation the week of June 9-14 as

OREGON PRODUCTS' WEEK

The principle applies with just as much force in Hood River as in Portland, and that is why

The Highland Milling Co.

Makers of

Shamrock Brand Flour and Cereals

would have the people of the Hood River Valley read and practice the following:

"Factories are our biggest asset in the reconstruction period when our thousands of men are being taken from the army and navy and placed in industry as civilians. It is imperative that every encouragement be given the up-building of these industries, and patronage from our own people is one of the most important factors."

WILLARD BATTERIES FIRST TO FLY THE ATLANTIC
N.C.-4 "Willard Equipped" on First Trans-Atlantic Flight
ALL THREE NAVY PLANES USE WILLARD BATTERIES ON BIG JUMP
"Our Engines worked perfectly," said Commander Read of the N.C.-4.
The N.C.-4 carried Willard Batteries.
On the long jump, high in the air above the fog, the Willard Storage Batteries functioned perfectly, never a miss or a skip.
Ten S.O.R. Willard Batteries, with Threaded Rubber Insulation, were on the N.C.-4 as she blazed the new trail and made history. Four batteries were in use and six were held in reserve and never needed.
Absolute dependability and constant performance were essential--so Willard Batteries were chosen, and lived up to their reputation.
Every unit on the N.C. flying boat had to pass a thorough inspection and rigid test before it was used. Willard Batteries were not chosen on reputation alone--they were selected because they earned and continued to earn that reputation.
