SCENERY TEMPTS GUS MILLER'S FRIEND

When E. C. Marshall arrived here for a visit with his boyhood friend, Gus Miller, he never expected that he might become an orchardist. He and his wife were on a pleasure tour of the Pacific coast, and called on Mr. Miller before returning to their home at Conroy, Ohio, where Mr. Marshall is a dealer in grain and hay. But the appeal of an Oregon summer and the beauties of Hood River orchards and surrounding scenery proved irresistible again, and when Mr. Marshall left for Ohio he commissioned Mr. Miller to find him an orchard home.

"I am going back to close out my business," he said "and as soon as that can be done, I will come back to Hood River valley to make my home."

Mr. Miller recalls that when he was a young farmer he called at a hardware store, where Mr. Marshall was an apprentice to secure a bull tongue plow point. The latter was city bred, and he replied, when Mr. Miller requested a bull tongue:

"Well, Gus, I guess you'll have to go to the butcher shop for it."

Dr. Jenkins Cartooned

Neal McCall, cartoonist of the Portland Telegram, did a nice sketch of Dr. C. H. Jenkins in a recent issue of the paper. Dr. Jenkins was attending the convention of the dental association. The cartoon accompanied those of a number of other prominent dentists.

HOOD SHIPS LAST CAR OF CHERRIES

Hood River's cherry harvest is ended and the last carload of black cherries, the crop of which reached eight cars, was shipped east by the Apple Growers Association Monday night. The fruit, packed in 15 pound boxes, lined with lacquer, is being distributed at Minneapolis, Chicago and New York City.

A total of 95,000 pounds of Royal Anns and other white varieties were shipped to canners. While the crop was about 25 per cent short of last year, the size and quality of the fruit, it is declared, set a record.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell on Vacation

C. A. Bell, chairman of the Red Cross Canteen committee, accompanied by Mrs. Bell, who was as active in patriotic work as her husband, is away on his first vacation since war was declared on Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Bell are not even permitting local folk to know their whereabouts. When last heard from they were at Woodson, Wash. They will probably visit scenic points in Canadian provinces before returning home.

Mr. Bell in person has met almost every troop train passing Hood River in the past two years. His only son, Fred H. Bell, was among the first national guard troops to arrive in France. He fought at Chateau-Thierry and all following heavy drives with the 146th Field Artillery. The soldier arrived home week before last and is now at his father's post at the Mount Hood hotel.

A WEARY TRAVELER LEAVES SATISFIED

The Genial Passerby paused at the corner of the street, puffing slowly on a wilted cigar, and allowed his gaze to rove over the streets of Hood River. He had traveled many miles during the day, and nature was insistently demanding fuel with which to rebuild tired tissues.

His gaze chanced to meet that of the Innocent Bystander, the "man about town," who was never known to work, and who was justly proud of that fact. And among the other accomplishments of the man about town was his ability carefully to order and enjoy a well cooked meal.

"I'm looking for a place where I can get a meal," began the Genial Passerby. "Sure," broke in the Innocent Bystander comprehensively. "See that sign which reads, 'Eat?' Well, that's Hicks' restaurant. Its the only real place in town where a man can get a meal and know it's cooked right."

"Expensive?" queried the Genial Passerby, fingering a not altogether too generously proportioned wallet.

"No more 'n any of the rest of 'em, and not as much as some," was the rejoinder. "It's the quality that really counts, y'know."

And thirty minutes later he was heartily agreeing with the Innocent Bystander that Hicks' was the place in Hood River in at which to eat.—Paid adv.

Now is the time to order your rubber stamps for pear and peach boxes. The Glacier office makes them.

Maxwell

Good looks, plenty of comfort and convenience and ample room for five adults make the Maxwell Touring model the ideal car for family use. The popularity of this pleasure car alone, during the past five seasons, would have enabled the Maxwell Motor Company to attain a volume production such as few motor car companies achieve with an entire line.

Five years of intensive manufacture have developed the Maxwell chassis remarkably, and the efforts of the past year to enhance the car's appearance have borne good fruit.

The Touring Car appears this season with a new body. It is just a little more roomy than its predecessors—more space in the tonneau and more clearance and leg room in the driving compartment. This naturally followed as a result of lengthening the chassis several inches.
