PUBLISHER PRAISES VALLEY'S SCENERY

Thomas W. Jackson, Chicago publisher, who issues "A Slow Tram Through Arkansas" and other such comic reading, says that no one could ever dare to burden the reputation of the Oregon country with such travesty. Mr. Jackson, who is here visiting the family of his cousin, D. M. and J. B. Jackson, of the East Side orchard district, says: "A sight of the scenery here and a visit over the Columbia River Highway inspires one to utterances of dignity—either that or he is awed to silence." Mr. Jackson visited here 20 years ago, when the orchard acreage was comparatively small. He declares that he has never seen any state make such progress as Oregon in the two decades since he was here last.
