APPLE HARVEST CHILDREN MAKE PROBLEM

The Hood River valley has a problem each fall in the numbers of school children who accompany families here at apple harvest season. At the second meeting of the Riverside Forum, Sunday night, citizens declared that annually the children bring communicable diseases to the valley, with the result that some children are affected and miss many school days. In most instances the visiting children do not attend school. It was the opinion of the Forum that the youngsters should be compelled to attend school, where they might be under the eyes of teachers who might thus prevent the spread of the diseases.

"Education for American Citizenship" was the topic discussed by members of the Forum Sunday night. Issues raised here Sunday, November 16, by Dr. L. B. Penrose, president of Whitman College, were discussed chiefly. While Dr. Penrose voiced an opposition to vocational training in schools, arguing that it might raise a dangerous class consciousness, numerous speakers last Sunday night pointed out that so-called vocational training in American schools was altogether different from that of the folk schools of Germany which Dr. Penrose pointed out. J. H. Koberg, who was educated in the German folk schools, explained their methods. Teachers present declared that vocational training as adopted in American schools often caused students to remain at classes and thus obtain a grounding in general education that they otherwise would have missed.

According to parents and members of the forum, the moving picture theatre is resulting in a young man and womanhood indifferent to the deeper fundamentals of life. Some of those present Sunday night went so far as to characterize the picture show palaces as a modern curse. Some of the teachers present stated that girls and boys of today are absorbed with the frothy activities of movie heroes and heroines, while a century ago the young were gathering recreation from the works of Scott or reading such books as "Scottish Chiefs," or "Thaddeus of Warsaw."

SATURDAY'S GAME WAS A NEAR RIOT

Actions of the big crowd of rooters at The Dalles-Hood River high school football game here Saturday to settle the championship of the Mid-Columbia Scholastic Association, simulated those of an Irish picnic. Peeved at alleged raw rulings by officials, the Hood River team, with the score at 22 to 0 in favor of the visitors, declined to play out the full second half.

During progress of the game some of The Dalles visitors, it is claimed, slipped to the high school auditorium and stole a mid-Columbia basketball championship pennant won in a former year. Words over the missing pennant led to numerous hand to hand encounters both by boys and girls. Faculty members were put to it to prevent a riot.

No local athletic event has ever raised so much discussion. While local spectators concede that The Dalles had much the better team, the opinion was practically unanimous that officials robbed the Hood River team in two decisions. While parents of some of the Hood River players joined in the argument and compelled their sons to quit the field, other local folk characterized the action of quitting the game as yellow, asserting that the contest should have been played to the end in spite of irregularities in decisions.

CASS BEGINS NEW CONCRETE BUILDING

Preparatory to excavating for a two story concrete structure, C. A. Cass Monday began razing one of the city's oldest remaining downtown frame structures, a two story residence, built 25 years ago by Jack Luckey, now a resident of Centralia. Mr. Cass' new building, to cost approximately $20,000, will be used partly as new quarters for the postoffice. It will be ready for occupancy during January. The structure with full basement will be 75x100 feet.

That portion of the structure not occupied by the postoffice will probably be leased by the Cascade Garage. The old building being razed for the past several years the home of H. Gross, was for many years occupied by L. E. Morse and family.

If Four Men Came To You

And the first one said—
"I am getting more mileage than I ever dreamed of out of my tires."

And the second said—
"My tires are guaranteed puncture-proof."

And the third said—
"My tires are 20 per cent oversize."

And the fourth—
"My tires cost only 1/2 as much as yours."

And when you asked them what tires they used, each answered: "Gates Half-Sole Tires" — wouldn't you, too, want to know more about this new principle of tire construction that more than 1,000,000 motorists are using to cut their tire costs?

How, perhaps, through this new factory built process you can make the tires now on your car last until spring; how you can add from 5,000 to 15,000 more miles to the life of your worn casings.

Come in today — let us tell you more about it.

MRS. WEST'S FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Jos. W. West, whose husband is manager of the Mt. Hood R. R. Co., were held yesterday at the old home in Ogden, Utah.

Mrs. West, one of the valley's most prominent matrons, was at Logan, Utah, where she had been called to attend funeral services of an aunt, when stricken with an attack of ptomaine poisoning. Her husband was in Portland, a novice at the big Shrine ceremonial last Thursday when he received news of his wife's serious illness. He left immediately, accompanied by his younger children. He reached his wife's bedside in time to see her alive.

Mr. and Mrs. West recently moved from Hood River back to their orchard place on Dee Flat. Five sons and a daughter survive Mrs. West. Two of the sons, Alvah and Clement West, served in the army during the war.

Snows Stop Forestry Crews

Deep snows in the forests, according to State Forest Supervisor Sherrard, have put an end to work on the Lost Lake Highway until next spring. Mr. Sherrard, who accompanied by Shirley Luck, of the Portland forestry office, was here visiting his Neel Creek ranch place, said the work would be resumed as soon as weather conditions permit next spring.

The county, working on improvement of a road to connect with the forestry section of the Lost Lake road, may be able to accomplish a portion of the task this winter. The county court, however, according to advices received from Senator Chamberlain, will probably not be able to secure any further allotments of T. N. T.

Hood River Wants Gibbet

Public opinion in Hood River, following the murder of State Highway Commissioner Burgess and George E. Peringer, demands the return of the gibbet or some substitute equally effective to Oregon's penal code. While no organized action has been taken by local folk, individual expression is unanimously in favor of the reinstatement of the death penalty. The matter probably will be taken up at the next meeting of the American Legion Post Monday night.

Mr. Burgess, reared at The Dalles, was the boyhood playmate of Truman Butler, J. G. Vogt and other prominent men who came here from the neighboring city.

Maxwell

Good looks, plenty of comfort and convenience and ample room for five adults make the Maxwell Touring model the ideal car for family use. The popularity of this pleasure car alone, during the past five seasons, would have enabled the Maxwell Motor Company to attain a volume production such as few motor car companies achieve with an entire line.

Five years of intensive manufacture have developed the Maxwell chassis remarkably, and the efforts of the past year to enhance the car's appearance have borne good fruit.

The Touring Car appears this season with a new body. It is just a little more roomy than its predecessors—more space in the tonneau and more clearance and leg room in the driving compartment. This naturally followed as a result of lengthening the chassis several inches.
