

NEW PATHEPHONE HEARTILY RECEIVED

The general public and music lovers especially, have greeted with enthusiasm a new Pathephone placed on exhibition at the Slocum & Carfield store last week. The new instrument has an innovation that causes it to appeal to those who listen to song or other musical reproductions.

In other standard makes of talking machines and phonographs the reproduction takes place before the sound is transmitted to the vibrator sounding device. In the new Pathephone the sound is transmitted to a device that reproduces it and sends it directly to the ears of the listener. It is close as an approach as possible to the human throat or the actual operation of an instrument, and therefore is all but natural.

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

The Woman's club, studying ways and means of making more effective work of juvenile courts, will hear an address next Wednesday by Judge Fred W. Wilson. Judge Wilson, recently created an interest here when in seeking assistance in the matter of a request for parole, he appointed a committee of three citizens to investigate the two youths figuring in the case. One of the committee was Mrs. A. G. Lewis.

Smallpox Holiday Lot
Several Hood River families, according to County Health Officer Abraham, took last week from Portland where he attended a convention of county health officers of the state, will spend five holidays in quarantine for smallpox. The disease has lingered along since apple harvest season. The recent cold weather was said to aid in preventing a further spread of contagion, in that it kept families at home. Dr. Abraham reports that scarlet fever, prevalent in several families, is on the decline.

PIONEERS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carter left their East Side orchard home the first of the week for Oregon City, where soon at the home of their daughter, Mrs. G. H. Tracy, they will celebrate their golden wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Carter were married 50 years ago last Sunday, December 21, in Salem. The latter's maiden name was Maggie E. Rector.

The couple soon moved to eastern Oregon and spent their earlier married life in Union county in the region of La Grande. They came here when the orchard industry was just beginning and today reside on a place on which was set one of the first commercial orchards. Mrs. Carter is a native of Missouri. She came to Oregon with her parents by ox train. Mr. Carter is 74 and his wife 71 years old. He is a native Oregonian, having been born at the old Mission, 16 miles from Salem. His parents met at Honolulu, when the old mission ship, the Lausan, sent out from New York as a result of the eastern visit of Jason Lee, touched there. Mr. Carter's mother, Ophelia Lankton, was a member of a missionary party. His father, David Carter, left the east in 1839, and after visiting various parts of South America, journeyed to the Sandwich Islands. He decided to join the Lausan when she docked at Honolulu and try his fortunes in the Northwest. Their romance was begun on the South Seas, and Mr. Carter and Miss Lankton were married on reaching Oregon's shores after a trip up the Columbia.

Mr. Carter was a member of the Oregon legislature while Hood River remained a part of Wasco. He is an ex-president of the Oregon State Horticultural Society. He and his wife spent five years in Salem from 1895 to 1901 in charge of the State School for the Blind.

In addition to Mrs. Tracy Mr. and Mrs. Carter have three other children, Mrs. R. D. McKinnon, of La Grande; Edward Carter, of Blitzen, and Miles Carter, who makes his home with his parents.

Mr. Carter commenting on the recent storm says he never saw it colder in Hood River. "But," he continued, "I have seen colder weather in Oregon. In 1883 or 1884, I have forgotten the exact year, we had a temperature of 35 and 36 degrees below zero at Island City. A tested government thermometer registered 55 degrees below zero at North Powder, the coldest place in Oregon."

MRS. J. S. BOOTH BURIED MONDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. J. S. Booth, who died Saturday in Seattle, were held at the Riverside Community church Monday.

Mrs. Booth, the widow of the late Major J. S. Booth, a pioneer business man of The Dalles and Hood River, who was prominent in early Oregon military organizations, is survived by a small daughter and son. Mrs. Booth was prominent here in church and Woman's Club work. Following funeral services, Mrs. Booth was laid to rest beside her husband, who died last year, in Idlewild cemetery.

Rev. J. L. Herschner, who officiated at the wedding ceremony of Mai, and Mrs. Booth in 1904, delivered the funeral sermon Monday. Mrs. Booth's maiden name was Loretta Edmunds. In addition to her children she is survived by two brothers, both physicians and both living in Seattle. One of them, Dr. C. W. Edmunds, formerly lived here.

Full bearers Monday were: Truman Butler, C. H. Castner, J. H. Hazlett, C. N. Clarke, R. N. Young and F. E. Skinner. Miss Gladys Reavis sang "Face to Face."

RANCHER'S DEATH WAS NOT SUICIDAL

An autopsy performed by County Health Officer V. R. Abraham has revealed that the death of J. C. Howarth, Deer rancher, was caused from a diabetic spasm instead of from strychnine poisoning as was at first supposed. Mr. Howarth, aged 66 and a native of England, was found in agony by his nephew, who lived with him, last Friday night. Returning from a neighbor's, where he had gone to summon a physician, Mr. Pilling found his uncle dead. The discovery of a strychnine bottle lead to the suicide theory, but it was ascertained that Mr. Howarth had been taking the drug for heart trouble. His stomach showed no traces of strychnine poisoning.

Mr. Howarth's body was buried Tuesday at Idlewild cemetery. Coroner Anderson made an investigation Saturday. He was accompanied by Undertaker Bartmess, the latter bringing the body here for interment.

Mrs. Jones Buried Here

The remains of Mrs. Agnes Jones, whose death occurred in Portland Saturday and whose funeral was held there Tuesday were brought here for interment at Idlewild cemetery yesterday. Mrs. Jones, the daughter of J. N. McCoy, is survived by twin sons. The burial was conducted by S. E. Bartmess.

Cold Hits Locks Folk

Residents of Cascade Locks were never happier than when the cold was let up and moderation set in, declared A. W. Meyer, who was here last week on business. Fuel ran out and a short age of coal oil held the Locks town in its grip, according to Mr. Meyer. "For a week we were without electric lights. Coal oil ran out, and we had to fall back on candles," said Mr. Meyer. "We used all available stock. We were indeed glad to see the thermometer climb. Our minimum temperature was nine below zero."

Should Be Quarantined

Many physicians believe that anyone who has a bad cold should be completely isolated to prevent other members of the family and associates from contracting the disease, as colds are about as catching as measles. One thing sure—the sooner one rids himself of a cold the less the danger, and you will look a good deal better before you find a better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to aid you in curing a cold.

Chevrolet Four-Ninety

The more a man knows about automobiles, the more experience he himself has had with them, the more critical he is apt to be of their essential features.

To satisfy this class of motorists is the chief motive of Chevrolet construction and equipment.

It is this element therefore that the convenience of operation, accessibility and equipment, the dependability and economy of the Chevrolet makes its greatest appeal.

HOOD RIVER GARAGE

Maxwell

Good looks, plenty of comfort and convenience and ample room for five adults make the Maxwell Touring model the ideal car for family use. The popularity of this pleasure car alone, during the past five seasons, would have enabled the Maxwell Motor Company to attain a volume production such as few motor car companies achieve with an entire line.

Five years of intensive manufacture have developed the Maxwell chassis remarkably, and the efforts of the past year to enhance the car's appearance have borne good fruit.

The Touring Car appears this season with a new body. It is just a little more roomy than its predecessors—more space in the tonneau and more clearance and leg room in the driving compartment. This naturally followed as a result of lengthening the chassis several inches.
