DES-DES

At last, after years of protracted study and much in experimental work, effective poison for squirrels, rats, gophers, moles, rabbits and mice has been perfected and is being used in California with great success.

This discovery is called DES-DES, and is more economical and safer to the farmer than other so-called Rodent Extremators.

It is compound so as to attract both in odor and taste, and will produce the desired results, where others fail.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE.

PYTHIAN HALL IS FORMALLY DEDICATED

A red letter event in the history of Waucoma Lodge, Knights of Pythias, occurred Friday night, when the new home was dedicated with 1,000 members and friends of the lodge present.
The meeting, a public one, was opened by L. M. Baldwin, Chancellor Commander of the lodge. Following a roll call of officers Harry Wood escorted the following grand officers to the rostrum to take charge of the formal dedication: Julius P. Hurley, of Vale, Grand Chancellor; Commander Jack Clark, of Portland; Grand Vice Chancellor; Walter G. Gleason, of Portland; Grand K. of R. & S., and Leslie Crouch, of Portland an Oregon representative to the Supreme Lodge.

The Pythian band gave a concert.
Members of the Odd Fellows lodge, whose hall was turned over to the Pythians for entertaining their guests of the evening, were honor guests at the dedicatory service.

Preceding a banquet of strawberries, cake and cream, toasts were responded to by the following: Mr. Hurley, Mr.
Clark, Mr. Crouch, J. W. Allen and Judge F. W. Wilson, of The Dalles, A.
W. Meyer, Cascade Locks, Mr. Gleason, Thaddeus L. Graves, Portland.
J. H. Hazlett delivered an address of welcome to the visitors.

Kiddies Get Paint Up Fever

When motorists passing over Cascade avenue beheld the home of Earl Franz they may believe it has been decorated in tribute to the Shriners.
For a distance of four feet from the ground, about as high as a four year old child can reach, all around Mr.
Franz' house looks like it has been camouflaged. He had been doing some interior decorating and had cans of paint of assorted colors opened in his garage. His young son, Mike, and daughter, Dorothea, aided and abetted by Tom Sawyerlike neighboring youngsters found the paint. They were thoroughly imbued with the paint-up fever that has been sweeping the town, and put their preachment to practice on Mr. Franz' home.

"If I can't clean off the new paint," says Mr. Franz, "and I doubt if I can, I'll have to repaint the outside of my home."

Francis Sealy is Dead

cery firm of Sealy-Dresser Co., Inc., erty.

land, October 27, 1861, and came to Portland 21 years later. He was first associated with the Sealy-Mason company. For many years he was tes in spectator for the Port of Portland. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the British benevolent board of relief, a Mason and a Shriner. He was one of the oldest vestrymen of

He is survived by his widow, Nellie Walker Sealy, a daughter, Mrs. Wallace Caulfield, of Oregon City, a brother, John Sealy, of Portland, a brother in New Zealand and a sister in the east.

day of last week at 2 p. m. from Trinity church.
