MORROW COUNTY MAN IS APPOINTED

The appointment of W. B. Barrett, of Heppner, prominent Morrow county rancher and sheepman, as a member of the state highway commission, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Edward E. Kiddle, of Island City, was announced by Governor Orcott Saturday. The governor said that he had assurances Barrett would accept. Barrett is a past president of the Oregon Wool Growers' association, was formerly mayor of Heppner and at present is a member of the state livestock sanitary board. He has been for years an ardent advocate of good roads and has been actively interested in the civic advancement of his section of the state. Barrett, like Jay H. Dobbin, of Walla Walla county, who declined the appointment to the highway post, is a representative of the state's agricultural interests, which, up to this time, have had no representation upon the highway board. He was one of the candidates who have been strongly urged upon the governor for the position. Besides the endorsements of his fellow townsmen, the prominent men from all sections of the state have recommended his appointment, which, it is believed, will meet with approval throughout eastern Oregon.

COURT INCREASES THE LIBRARY FUND

Although the appropriation for the county library was reduced at a recent meeting of the county court and an advisory budget board, the county court last week raised the appropriation from $2,000 to $2,750. Members of the library board met with the court and declared they would have to close the library unless more funds were made available for employing a librarian. Because of lack of funds the institution has had no regular librarian a portion of the past year. The court amended rules for public dances, adopted last fall. It was required that dances be closed at 12 p. m. The new rule permits dancing until 1 a. m., except on Saturday nights. The court has given Roadmaster W. L. Nichols, just appointed for another year, the power to regulate motor truck traffic on valley highways. Mr. Nichol is empowered to close stretches of road entirely to motor trucks, in case he believes they will work serious injury. O. H. Rhodes and G. A. McCurdy have been appointed road viewers. Both were formerly members of the county board of commissioners.

R. D. GOULD FUNERAL WAS HELD TUESDAY

Funeral services for R. D. Gould, who died at his home Sunday afternoon, were held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at St. Mark's Episcopal church, Rev. C. G. Holsht, officiating. Mr. Gould, who formerly operated a plumbing shop here and who was known throughout this section as a contractor, fell a little over a year ago, injuring a hip and further complicating an illness from which he had been suffering for a number of years. He had only recently returned from a stay of several weeks at a Portland hospital. Mr. Gould was born October 12, 1863, in Indiana. The family, coming here from Montana, has resided for 16 years in Hood River. He was a member of The Dalles lodge of Elks, the Modern Woodmen of America and United Artisans. Local Elks attended the funeral service in a body. Mr. Gould is survived by his widow and the following four daughters: Mrs. Dayton McClucas and Misses Doris and Janice Gould, of the Hood River; and Miss Florence Gould, of the Portland. The funeral was directed by C. C. Anderson.

BOWLING NEWS

Extra heavy play by women on the new Blue Diamond Bowling Alleys featured the work of the week. A misapprehension among the women has existed in regard to the times they believed they could use the alleys. Women are welcome at any time of the afternoons and evenings, and conditions are always such that women may come at any time. Some of the ladies have thought that they could use the alleys only Thursday afternoons and Thursday evenings when their league rolls, but this is untrue, and several parties have been in at noon and afternoon and evening.

Interest is keen in the Rag-time tournament now being staged and more than 60 doubles matches have already been rolled. This contest will last till midnight, January 31. Alva Shertell and Zach Annala are now high in this, with 1172. G. Poe and DeWitt are second with 1162, and DeWitt and House are third and fourth with 1161 and 1150. There will be prizes for nearly a score of couples in this tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are Home
Geo. L. Smith, who with Mrs. Smith is just back from a motor trip as far south as the Mexican line at Tia Juana, declares that soon almost as many motorists will travel between the two states in winter as in summer, provided the winters remain as open as this.

"We expected to ship our automobile from San Francisco to Portland," says Mr. Smith, "but the automobile club informed us that the road was open and that many cars were making it every day. So we struck out. Our running time from Los Angeles to Portland was 54 hours. Our worst roads were in northern California. Oregon now has only about three miles of road, near Grants Pass, that can be called bad. The weather was fine in the south, every day being like that of May here. We found it pleasant motoring without coats."
