

THE NEW
United States Disc Separator

"Has a Bell Speed Indicator To delight the Operator."

The New Speed Indicator Bell attached to the Crank is a simple device, cannot get out of order and assists in maintaining the slow speed (only 42 turns per minute for the larger sizes) without over-exertion on the part of the operator.

The Bell rings while speeding up the separator, but stops ringing when the required speed has been reached, also when crank is released.

Many other improvements notably the perfected and simplified bowl with interchangeable, unnumbered discs are found in the New United States Cream Separator.

Dairymen are invited to inspect and learn all about this wonderful machine.

CANNED CULL APPLES
BRING TOP PRICES

How the cull apples of the Pacific Northwest, just as good in flavor as the extra fancy grades which are taken because of the color, size and shape, may be marketed to the world trade is explained by Gordon C. Corbaley, marketing expert with the recently organized Oregon-Washington Canning & Preserving Company, the $10,000,000 merger of the canning interests of western Oregon and western Washington which expects to be functioning by the opening of the forthcoming canning season.

"Virtually all the pies sold by bakeries and restaurants in the United States are made from canned apples," said Mr. Corbaley. "There is no reason for using the finer grade of apples in these canned apples, just so they have the flavor and are free from disease. The bakers find it an economic advantage to buy canned apples because they do not have to pare them if they buy the canned product which is already pared."

"Oregon and Washington apples already have a good name all over the world. The Pacific Northwest has already tried out introducing its canned apples and, with a good but limited marketing system behind this product, it was found possible to sell in carload lots to the eastern trade last season and to get a price based purely on quality. Canned apples were shipped last season to West Virginia, Florida and Connecticut and in carload lots to Cleveland and Indiana."

"These apples commanded a price of $5.20 a dozen cans, f. o. b. Pacific coast points. Yet they were sold in direct competition with New York canned apples at a price of $3.50 to $3.75 a dozen cans, f. o. b. New York. That meant we were able to sell on a basis of quality."

"It is on quality that we intend to carry our marketing for all Oregon-Washington products to the nation."

Mr. Corbaley also told how jams made in the Pacific Northwest had been sold in the Everglades of Florida for delivery in Dayton, Ohio.

"Salesmen for a well established Pacific Northwest organization," he said, "had been working on a pretty wide scale in the east and south. They sold last year six carloads of that 180,000 jars, of jams in Florida alone. The people of the south especially relish jams and cannot get their own, because their fruits have not the necessary punch to give the necessary punch for jam purposes. These salesmen had found a good sale for jams in the grocery store which have cropped up along the tourist routes through the Everglades of Florida."

"One day, while one of the salesmen was present, a business man of Dayton, Ohio, who was touring the Everglades, stepped into a grocery store and asked where he could get a certain loganberry jam, a jar of which he held in his hand. The upshot was that he ordered four cases sent to his home at Dayton. That man had never heard of loganberry products until he reached the Everglades."

Churchill Will Not Intercede

J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of education, in response to a petition from citizens of Cascade Locks, who asked that he intercede in the case of J. H. Dunn, recently reinstated as principal of the Cascade Locks school, following his acquittal by a jury here of a statutory charge, has written the petitioners that sole authority in the matter of appointing a principal rests with the Cascade Locks school board. Mr. Churchill states that the law gives no authority either to himself or to the county school superintendent.

"If the people of the district are not satisfied with the management of school affairs by the members of the school board," writes Mr. Churchill, "then the qualified electors of that district have their remedy only at the time of election for school directors in June. While I deplore, very much, the situation at Cascade Locks, and would be quite willing to assume responsibility there, provided I had any authority, I do not have any authority, and should I go there for the purpose of making an investigation, I would only further aggravate an acute situation, and nothing could possibly be accomplished."

Ferry Street Case Reversed

Because the resolution of the city council, in appointing viewers to investigate two streets connecting the business district with the Columbia river, failed to mention that viewers were freeholders, the supreme court has reversed and remanded the case of Mrs. E. E. Chapman versus the city. The plaintiff asked for a writ of review in circuit court, her petition having been denied.

The city planned on opening the street to the water front in order to provide a thoroughfare to and from the landing of the Hood River-Underwood Ferry Co.

Kasaishi Estate Admitted to Probate

S. Kasaishi, pioneer Japanese rancher of the Dee Flat district, who recently succumbed to an attack of appendicitis, left an estate valued at $7,000. The place is developed in orchard and strawberries. M. Inukia, a Japanese neighbor, has been appointed administrator of the estate, one of the first of a Japanese to be admitted to probate here.

A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and told him to use it freely." says C. F. Haysler, Patten Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment; I want it in the house all the time for it cured me."

The picturesque old Cliff Dwellings along the historic Apache Trail—near Roosevelt, Arizona

Dwellings of a Bygone Day

RED CROWN GASOLINE

The Gasoline of Quality

ALONG the Apache Trail in Arizona the motorist can see the dwellings of a race—now believed to be extinct. These cliff dwellings are at least 400 years old and if their walls could speak they would tell a most dramatic story of romance and conquest.

Arizona has more than its share of interesting places to lure the motorist. There he will find many Indian reservations—the homes of Apaches, Navajos, Hopis, Mohaves and other tribes. There, too, is the famous Roosevelt Dam and the incomparable Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

And wherever he goes the motorist can be sure that his motor fuel will be right—because Red Crown Gasoline is sold everywhere.

Look for the Red Crown sign on service stations and garages.

"NOW-A-DAYS"
says the Good Judge

A man can get a 'heap more satisfaction from a small chew of this class of tobacco, than he ever could get from a big chew of the old kind.

He finds it costs less, too. The good tobacco taste lasts so much longer he doesn't need to have a fresh chew nearly as often.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.
