THE FREIGHT RATES

Along with other industries the apple business has suffered from the heavy increased freight rates awarded railroads. The increase in transportation charges here last year, an average of 25 cents per box, robbed Hood River of a profit in the crop of 1920. A sum of $250,000 was lifted from she pockett of orchardists to the pockets of the railway companies. We are feeling the effects of that here now. Unless relief in lowered freight is secured, we are going to continue feeling it. The apple industry cannot survive a long continued application of the prohibitive rate.

But the rates cannot last. The railroads ultimately will be losers by the application of the exhorbitant charge. The trend of events, it appears to us, is already working to their disadvantage. Shipping concerns are taking an active interest in water shipments for export apples. Successful exports by water through the Panama canal were made last year. In the final analysis the stimulation of this water route transportation may prove of a greater worth than the losses of growers in high rail freights so far. The all water tranportation of export stock for European markets, we believe, has come to stay. The comprehensive survey made by Mr. Malboeuf for the Oregonian and Glacier indicate as much.

The railroads are not going to sit back and see their business slipping away from them because of excessively high rates. To derive revenue, the rail lines must have freight. The fruit tonnage of the northwest has been a very valuable asset of the rail lines pentrating this territory. We may anticipate the rail lines joining Pacific coast shipping concerns in appeal for revision of laws that will permit the lowering of freight rates.

MAKE EVERY WEEK CLEAN-UP WEEK

The clean-up campaign, as launched last week by the Woman's Club, with whom were associated departments of the city council, should be waged every week throughout the summer. Debris and rubbish, an offense to the eye of the visitor, should be kept from reaccumulating.

Every Hood River home can and should have a flower garden. Roses are easily grown in Hood River as are many annual flowering plants. The effort that it takes to produce an appealing array of blossoms for the summer and fall months is almost nothing. Now is the time, however, for the gardener to make his or her preparations. A little healthful exercise with a spade, hoe and rake will put the seed bed in shape. Visit your seed merchant, get a catalogue. It is very likely that you will soon grow enthusiastic. Try flower gardening one season and you will become an addict to the pleasurable recreation.

With every householder paying a small attention to the flower garden, Hood River homes may become famed for their summer and autumn beauty.

THE EASTER FREEZE

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good."

The Easter freeze, sweeping the middle west and east from the Great Lakes to Texas and from the Rockies to the Atlantic, caused a heavy loss to fruit growers of commercial districts east of the Rocky Mountains. Before fruit buds were nipped by the frosts prospects had been fine for an eastern fruit crop of all kinds. Today the fruit production will be almost nil. The eastern condition has already had an effect on the Northwest. Canners, who were holding an enormous percentage of their stocks of last year, stocks the costs of which were excessive, began to see how the elements had furnished them with the semblance of a rescue. With the big eastern centers of population looking forward to a heavy supply of fruit of their own, the northwestern canners saw no way out. Now their problem of moving their surplus and of taking care of the crop of the coming year seems merely one of distribution.

The Northwestern apple crop bids fair to exceed the tonnage of last year.

The eastern commercial crop last year was the largest in history. The coming season, as the result of the late freeze, the output of the barrel districts will be short. The Northwestern growers should be placed in a position to recoup themselves from the reverses of the season just ending.

It was Emerson, wasn't it, who said something about the beaten path to the door of the man who would make a better mouse trap than anybody else? Well, here in Hood River we are growing better strawberries than anywhere else in the world. Only the Oregon Clark Seedling, as grown in Hood River, can be successfully processed for chocolate filling. Now big metropolitan confectioners are advertising to the world this find of the Hood River Clark Seedling.

Only a few weeks of school remain between now and the summer vacation. A part of this remaining time, however, may be profitably employed by teachers in appealing to their young charges to leave unmolested the new signboards the county will soon place at valley road intersections. Boys too often make signboards targets for their air rifles or slungshots. These new signs are going to be comprehensive. We are going to be proud of them. Let's not mar them.

FRIDAY'S MEETING

Like most all of Hood River folk, who have seriously considered the proposed joint participation of the State Highway Commission and the county in construction of the trunk road up through the valley, we believe that Friday night's meeting is going to result in some constructive plan for proceeding with the work. We believe the meeting will set another mile post for progress in Hood River county. Every Hood River taxpayer is interested in the meeting, and it behooves all citizens to be presentand secure at first hand information and cost data on the proposed road.

The Portland Telegram last Saturday evening made much of celebrating a birthday. They stated it was the 45th birthday of the influential Portland evening daily. "We were born April 16, 1877," states the Saturday issue. Somebody made a slip in computation, we think. The Telegram, if the date given is correct, was 44 years old last Saturday. But the error aside, the Telegram is growing into a better newspaper every day. It is overcoming handicaps placed on it in its earlier days.

Speed fiends are in for a trimming. Traffic Officer Murray is now breaking in his new Police Model Harley-Davidson motorbike. No automobile can run away from him. The new machine, a replica of six just purchased by Multnomah county, can develop 90 miles pickup in a few seconds. But Mr. Murray is not after speeders alone. He will take just as keen an interest in minor traffic infractions. It will be economical, if nothing else, for motorists to be careful.

The Park Street pageant was exceedingly interesting and entertaining. It must have represented a lot of hard work for teachers and kiddies alike. We wonder how the teachers ever managed to train 300 little boys and girls in the short time at their disposal.

With all of the whims and vagaries of the past few weeks, our own weather hasn't been anything to brag about. In comparison with the blizzards, tornadoes and snowstorms east of the Rockies, however, we have been blessed.

Hood River folk, provided the sky is unclouded, will be permitted to view a total eclipse of the moon this evening. The different phase of the eclipse will last from about 10 p. m. until 2 a. m.

Spring is certainly here. John Koberg has begun his instructive series of Twentieth Century Truck Farm ads. Read them and profit.

Summer is not far away; we saw a merchant diligently spraying the front of his store with a fly-slaying preparation the other day.

We'll soon have a theatre de luxe.

BOWLING NEWS

The Hood River Blue Diamonds, with a score of 2678, finished thirteenth out of 79 teams in the Northwest International Bowling Tournament rolled last week in Portland. Of Hood River's five teams entered, two won prizes, the Blue Diamonds and the House and Kruse Colts, who won first money in the novice section with a score of 2462.

Neither the Blue Diamonds nor the Red Diamonds did as well as expected, but the tournament conditions were unusually stiff this year.

To Corbett Alexander goes the honor of making the highest three game total in the five man event of any Hood River man, his 556 giving him 185 average.

The Blue Diamonds had the honor of rolling the highest single team game in the tournament, 1010, while Anstey, a member of the team, rolled the highest individual single game, 268.

Harry DeWitt had 576 in his singles, highest of any Hood River man in that event.

House and Kruse got 1108 in the doubles, finishing in the prize money.

On the local alleys the Husband-Beaters again drubbed the men two straight games.

Alva Sherrell got a 264 for high weekly game, and is also high for the month. His 268 has no yet been topped for the $50 suit given by Meyer & Smith for the highest single game by April 30. A dozen of the boys have promised to try to beat him out.

Spoon winners for the week were Mrs. Peters 153, 149; Mrs. Campbell, 179; Mrs. Mellon, 176, and Mrs. DeWitt, 214.

Special matches are the feature of the week on the Blue Diamond alleys, Wednesday the House & Kruse Colts played the Red Diamonds; tonight the White Diamonds are challenged by the Rhinestones, and Saturday the men's team is again due for a beating from the Husband-Beaters.

Sunday afternoon a special three cornered match will be played between the Foster-Kleisers, Kiwanis, of Portland, and the House & Kruse Colt, of Hood River. These three teams finished 1, 2, 3 in the novice section and are out for blood.

Plans are being made by the Blue Diamond Alley management for the first annual Blossom Week Bowling Tournament, for five man, doubles, and singles, five woman, doubles and singles, and for mixed doubles.

For conditions of entry and further information see the alley management. Great enthusiasm is being shown among the bowlers over this tournament and it is likely that some teams will come up from Portland for a special invitation night sweepstakes.

Chinese Relief Drive Slows Down

While canvassing committees this week have found some citizens responding liberally, others, it is declared, have refused positively to contribute. The committees in instances express discouragement over Hood River raising her quota.

East Side Grade Improved

County crews are completing the construction of heavy guard rails along the East Side grade. A concrete retaining wall has been constructed at a narrow, wet point on the grade. Joe Dobson has been doing the concrete work.

U. OF O. GRADES OF LOCAL STUDENTS GOOD

With a general scholarship average of 3.20 for the winter term, based on the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 grading system, the 18 students from Hood River enrolled in the University of Oregon made a good showing for their home town. This average compares favorably with that of other towns of the state.

Helen Carson stands first in scholarship with an average of 2.18, with Karl Vonder Ahe running a close second, his average being 2.42. However, the general average of the nine boys from the valley is a trifle higher than that of the grils, the former's average being 3.05 and the latter's 3.29.

Considering the number of subjects carried by the various students there were very few failures while most of the individual grades were good.

Those enrolled are: Alberta Carson, Helen Carson, Beryl Clarke, Lenore Cram, Vera Hughes, Adah Laraway, Jessie Lewis, Ila Nichols, Alice McCurdy, Arthur Bennett, Virgil Cameron, Carl Epping, Carl Houston, Chas. Huggins, Dean Ireland, Elston Ireland, George Samuel and Karl Vonder Ahe.

MILK NIGHT TO BE STAGED BY CLUB

As the result of a conference here Monday night of representatives of the State Dairy and Food Commission, State Veterinarian Lytle and a local committee of members of the Woman's Club, Commercial Club and Business Men's Association, the Commercial Club will observe "Better Milk Night" at its regular monthly meeting the evening of May 23. Dr. Lytle, Commissioner Hawley, of the Dairy and Food Commission, and Seretary Merrill of the Oregon Dairy Association, addressed the local folk Monday night and proposed to supply the city council with a specimen ordinance, regulating dairies supplying milk in the city. All of the men will attend the May meeting and deliver talks.

A campaign for securing better dairy sanitation and for elimination of diseased milch cows was recently launched by the local Woman's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Home

L. E. Clark, who with his wife is just back from Long Beach, Calif., where they spent the winter, declares that he found no road more appealing from the standpoint of scenery and permanency of construction, than the Columbia Highway. Before starting north Mr. Clark and his wife toured for 3,000 miles through southern California.

"We had no trouble on our 1200 mile journey northward," says Mr. Clark. "Weather conditions were fairly good. Our worst traveling was experienced in southern Oregon and the Willamette valley, where the road, cut up in the winter months, had dried rough and was something like corduroy. The spring verdure of the Siskiyous and in southern Oregon provided appealing landscape scenes. We stopped at Berkeley for a short visit with our daughter, Florence, a student at the University of California. We made 300 miles our last day out, traveling all the way from Mrytle Creek to Hood River."

FINS, FURS AND FEATHERS

En route to engage in location work the other day, A. R. Craikshank met a hen of vacillating mind. Mr. Cruikshank slowed down his automobile, and still biddy wavered in the center of the road. He turned aside to dodge her, but the hen in her confusion darted between the front wheels. Passengers in the rear looked out, expecting to see a mangled chicken, but the hen failed to appear. The car sped on, the occupants concluding that the fowl had been caught by brake rods. After a half mile Mr. Cruikshank decided to investigate.

He found the hen sitting on the rear axle. When the car stopped she cackled loudly and flew into weeds at the roadside.

Fishing for trout is fine here now. A number of anglers since the season opened last Friday have brought in nice catches of good sized mountain and brook trout. J. H. Fredricy caught 20 fine fish Sunday.

Fishing is excellent even in little rivulets that cross lawns of the residence section west of town the water being carried through comparatively small pipelines or culverts under streets. Charles, young son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sherwood, and a small son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Elliott each have 10-inch trout to their credit.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness during our bereavement at the time of the death of our husband and father. We will ever hold in sacred memory the kind courtesies of the Woodmen of the World, Neighbors of Woodcraft and other friends for beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. A. Mutrie and Family.
