FRESH DAILY AT YOUR GROCERS

THE DALLES SHIPS ROYAL ANNES EAST

Shipments of carlots of cherries from The Dalles has begun, and growers there within the next two weeks expect to harvest and ship out a total of 40 cars of this fruit. It will be the greatest movement of small fruits ever rolled from the Wasco county fruit sections Hood River will begin moving cars of black cherries this week.

The Dalles for the first time plans on sending Royal Annes to eastern markets. The fruit will be transported with a minimum of handling in fully refrigerated cars. The Dalles cherry shipments will probably be double that of any former year. The Oregon Growers' Association, which will handle the bulk of the business estimates that the shipments will be increased at least 50 per cent. The first two cars of The Dalles cherries were rolled last Friday. They were billed to Minneapolis. A second shipment rolled to New York, and a third went forward to St. Louis. The fruit was shipped to brokers to be sold on auction. They are marketed under the Growers brand, "Mistland."

Eighty growers of Wasco county within a radius of eight miles around The Dalles, have signed with the Growers Association. They control 1,000 acres of fruit.

WHITE SALMON

C. N. Ackley has sold his ranch on Burdoin Mt. to Oscar Nelson of Castle Rock, Minnesota. The place consists of 40 acres, with good buildings. About one-third of the ranch is under cultivation.

J. B. Carey expects to leave about July 1 for Medford to take charge of the Dan Wulle & Co., interests in the southern Oregon fruit district. Chas. Gunn, of the Dan Wulle Hood River office, will succeed Mr. Carey in the White Salmon district. The company has maintained offices in Medford for many years.

Irrigation of an orchard in the North White Salmon district has been attracting much attention the past week, when Herbert Williams turned on the flood waters of his irrigation system over his fruit tract. The latter part of last week all but an acre and a half had been watered. Mr. Williams states that he has plenty of water for another irrigation. A crop of rye and vetch were turned under before irrigation and the orchard should show great results this fall. Experiments in irrigation on part of the orchard last year showed a wonderful difference in the fruit grown on irrigated trees. Local people interested in irrigation should visit the Williams orchard which is a direct boost for irrigation in this district.

Forest Supervisor Brundage, who has just returned from Wind River valley, states that a new and important camp ground and group of summer homesites is being developed on the Columbia National Forest at Government Mineral Springs. The area surrounding the Springs and a portion of the Trapper Creek Basin has been definitely set aside by the Forest Service for recreational use. This tract of big virgin timber, excluded from adjacent logging operations, is located about 75 miles from Portland in the heart of the Columbia National Forest. From Portland it is reached via the Columbia Highway to Cascade Locks and 22 miles of good dirt or gravel roads, with a maximum grade of 5 per cent.

The camp ground is located along Trapper creek, in a stand of big heavy fir and cedar. Camp tables have been provided and rough sanitation installed. This camp ground is best adapted for use of parties wanting a trip of three days or longer. Unlike Eagle creek, there is no time limit campers may stay as long as their fancy indicates.

Newberg Cannery to Resume

Operation of the A. Rupert cannery canneries at Newberg and Lebanon will commence within two weeks, according to an announcement made by H. F. Davidson, president of the Oregon Canning company, which concern will operate the plants. Negotiations are under way to open the plants at McMinnville and Roseburg, and possibly at Springfield. Mr. Davidson said. Arrangements have been made for the Oregon Canning company to use the Rupert trademark and thus take advantage of the national advertising campaign outlined by the Rupert company before it entered the bankruptcy court.

No proof was advanced to establish that the Japanese had committed the crime. Witnesses, whose testimony, according to early reports would have been damaging were not produced.

Airplane Visits Here Friday

The season's first airplane, circling over the city and orchard districts Friday afternoon, created a widespread attention by dropping masses of leaflets. The papers, however, were caught by strong upper currents of air and carried out of the valley, and local folk remained uninformed of the mission of the aviator. The airplane, after flights over valley sections, visited White Salmon.

The Ideal Grader

We have been marketing Ideal Graders for the past six years. They have grown more popular each year.

Our machines are a favorite in all Northwestern fruit sections. We have shipped them in numbers to foreign apple districts.

The 1921 model of Ideal Grader is ready for distribution. It will carry a number of improvements. We mention at random some of them: The machine can be adjusted for sizing while in operation. Two adjusting screws do the work. Our new sorting table is a feature that will be noticed at once.

We hope to place as many as possible of the machines we manufacture in Hood River and for this reason would urge that local growers give us their order at once, in order that we may include them before we are booked to the limit of our capacity.
