SAFETY FIRST

Hood River county now has two traffic officers. We have heard the criticism offered that but one is needed. The authorities however, advance the argument that two officers are needed to enforce the law against the chronic speeder. It is pointed out that such offenders soon spot the traffic men, and when but one is on duty they learn his whereabouts and practice their reckless driving at some other point. Two are harder to keep track of, and as a result the driver prone to hit the high spots on every available occasion keeps constantly on the alert. It should not be necessary to patrol highways to prevent fast and reckless driving. Motorists themselves should be possessed of enough common sense to drive more leisurely and thus not endanger themselves and other automobilists. But even the staidest citizen of us, it seems, cannot resist the temptation of hurrying ourselves through space in an automobile when occasion affords, and traffic officers have become a necessary expense, if we would keep our highways safe. Keep them employed, we say, if they prevent even one death-dealing accident.

The traffic officers often, however, turn in reports of violations that are technical in nature; violations that are only reprehensible in that they are technically in violation of the law. Some good citizens, known for the carefulness of their motoring are thus drawn into the nets of the law on occasion. It is the duty of the traffic officers to report such infractions, but the laws, as we believe, leave such cases up to the discretion of the officials of judiciary power.

On such occasions, especially where the offense is the first, we believe that the dignity of the courts would be upheld and the public good best served without the assessment of a fine.

PLANS FOR FOURTH

Jake Lenz' suggestion of the opening of an improvised road to Lost Lake by volunteer labor, applied on a short forest stretch in the district July 4, tired an excellent opportunity for the officers business men of the city to accumulate roddy cheeks, hard muscles and calloused hands and acquire enviable appetites. Now let somebody with a truck the capacity (40 hommes et 8 chevaux) that Harry DeWitt so kindly utilized Tuesday in hauling the Tuesday Lunch Club to the Columbia Gorge furnish transportation over the week end. Let the business men donate themselves to the cause. Brush and trees will fall like magic. The earth will move before the onslaughts of their spades, and lo, a road will be opened to Lost Lake.

The workers will not put in over eight hours a day, surely, and leisure time amply will be available for fishing in the Lake Branch or West Fork.

THE COUNTRY CORRESPONDENT

The Glacier's various correspondents of the valley's different districts, by their concise, faithful chronicling each week of the social and business activities of their sections aid inestimably in the making of an interesting paper. Such service is highly beneficial to the communities. General readers are attracted to the news and interesting items of the rural sections. A good column or half-column of country correspondence has on occasions, we are sure, won for valley sections new residents.

The Glacier wishes its readers to know that it highly appreciates the service of its country correspondents. Our recent victory at Corvallis when a silver cup was awarded for leadership in community rural service, came to a large extent from the efforts of our country correspondents. The residents of our valley's respective communities should show their appreciation each week by aiding the correspondent in gathering interesting news. Make it a point to telephone the correspondent or turn in by person the item that may have come to your notice.

THE COMMUNITY CHURCH

The debate in Portland recently between Rev. Boddy and Father O'Hara, of Eugene, presents itself with particular interest to Hood River folk. We haven't the time or space to enter into any arguments, pro or con. But we believe that Hood River people know, without further analysis for themselves, that Mr. Boddy presented an argument that could not be refuted. He could present such argument by merely citing community church development in Hood River the past two years.

The University of Oregon graduating class this year was composed of 233 young men and women. Records show that 80 per cent of the graduates earned at least a third of the funds needed for putting them through college. The boys and girls of that 80 per cent, although they may not have realized it as they stived and saved, were the fortunate members of the class. They attended their classes, we feel sure, with a greater appreciation of their tasks. They will realize more quickly on the advantages of their education than their more fortunate and wealthier fellows.

Citizens may profit by watching the clock and shutting off their sprinklers on time. The city is determined to prevent a famine of water, and the rules are being rigidly enforced. Watch your sprinkler or you may have to pay a fine.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullin have made the corner of Oak and Second streets known far and wide as The Pheasant. We know that the people of Hood River wish them continued success and a further advancement of their business in their new location in the Hotel Oregon.

Get out tomorrow night for the band concert. A double feast will be provided. The musicians themselves will serve one, and the Pythian Sisters will provide cake and ice cream.

Vacation days are here—the Sunday society sections of the Portland dailies have begun to reproduce pictures of bathing girls with Haystack Rock as a background.

Frequent explosions of firecrackers greet our ears. Just warn the kiddies to be careful and not blow off a finger or set fire to some residence or business block.

COMET CAUSES LOCAL ASTRAL DISTURBANCE

The slow passage of a large meteor-like object across the northern sky Monday night caused keen excitement among residents of Cascade avenue. Beginning toward the dome of the sky, the slow-motion meteor passed down out of sight over the horizon line near Mount Adams. It left a luminous trail in its wake. The unusual visitor could only be explained as an incident of the Pons-Winnecke comet, through the tail of which the earth was scheduled to pass. Many sat up until a late hour vainly waiting for further astral disturbances.

The residents of the Trout Lake community sighted a huge star-like body in the heavens Sunday night. It was so brilliant as to light the sky. While the local phenomenon was visible a few minutes, the star was seen at Guler for an hour.

FLOOD WARNINGS WERE NOT HEEDED

The Las Animas home of Mrs. W. M. Kollock, whose late husband owned a large orchard place in the Underwood section, where the family formerly resided, was in the path of the recent disastrous flood of the Arkansas river in Colorado.

"Better a fire than water," writes Miss Maud Kollock, a daughter. "The water stood three feet deep in our home, but with aid of workshop and laundry we are able to get the household cleaned up."

"The danger from the flood seemed so impossible and improbable that people refused to heed the warnings, and the resulting suffering was greater than necessary. The damage in our country reached between $300,000 and $400,000. No loss of life occurred here."

Miss Kollock writes that the value of the Grand Valley fruit crop of this season is placed at approximately $2,250,000. Estimates of the crop are: Apples, 1200 to 1500 carloads; peaches, 1,000 carloads, and pears, 400 cars.

McMULLINS MOVING TO THE OREGON

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. McMullin, who have successfully catered to the public at The Pheasant at the corner of Second and Oak streets the past two years, are removing to the Hotel Oregon building. They have taken over the lower floor of the big hostelry and have been at work for the past several weeks carrying out plans that will make the eating arrangements of the hotel among the best in Oregon.

The old quarters were closed Sunday night. The new Pheasant will be opened to the public on Tuesday. Tuesday Lunch Club members will take their luncheon next Tuesday at the new quarters of The Pheasant.

APPLE CROP PROSPECTS LOOK BETTER

Prospects for an apple crop, free from diseases and of high quality, are increasing weekly, according to H. F. Davidson, who visited various tracts over the week end. Mr. Davidson toured the same places two weeks ago.

"The conditions of health of the fruit tracts were never better," says Mr. Davidson, who is now devoting the most of his attention to canneries for merely operated by the A. Rupert Co. spending his time in Portland. "The June drop is over and the fruit was not overly thinned. Heavy thinning will have to be done in most tracts. The leaf roller made its attacks early this year, and its ravages are over. This insect this season seemed to be working in the aid of the grower. The apples it attacked all seem to have dropped off, and thus the work of thinning has been lessened."

H. R. B. & P. W. C. TO ENTERTAIN VISITORS

The Hood River Business and Professional Women's Club will entertain the following members of the Portland club at dinner at the Columbia Gorge Hotel Thursday evening, July 7: Mrs. J. G. Frankel, who is also president of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Marie Summers, Miss Adella Pritchard, and Miss Martha Goldapp, Miss Margaret A. Fleming, Miss M. Caldwell, Mrs. William Munroe, president of the local Women's Club; and husband, Harry Conaway, president of the Progressive Business Men's Association, and wife, President J. H. Fredrick, of the Commercial Club, and J. W. Critch, president of the Tuesday Lunch Club, and wife have been invited to attend the dinner. A program will follow the dinner.

Davenport Improves Market A. F. Davenport during the past week has materially improved the Hood River Market. Mr. Davenport has just installed a handsome refrigerated showcase. The receptacle, where his meats may be kept on neat display at a winterlike temperature, is of thick plate glass with a marble base. It makes an attractive addition to his popular market. The case is 10 feet long by three feet wide.

MR. AND MRS. BARR VISIT OLD SCENES

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Barr, of the Mt. Hood district, are visiting scenes of their younger days at Greenfield, Ind., the old home of James Whitcomb Riley. Mrs. Barr and a sister of the Hoosier poet were girlhood friends. Mrs. Barr was visiting at the Riley home when the poet read to the two one of his earliest and best loved productions.

Mr. Barr writes that he has renewed acquaintance with "The Old Swimmer's Hole," made famous by Riley's poem of that name. The swimming hole is now famed in moving pictures, a picture by that name featuring Charles Ray, having recently been leased. Motion pictures, taken for advertising the reels, were recently taken of scenes in Hancock county near July 20. Mr. and Mrs. Barr will remain for several weeks in Indiana.

LENZ INVITES MEN TO OPEN LAKE ROAD

Jake Lenz, who soon after July Fourth will begin with a crew to open that last mile and a half of a new road to Lost Lake, the Forestry Service financing the highway, has invited residents of the city and valley to join him July 23 at a meeting at Greenfield, Ind. Mr. Lenz says it will be possible to open a road that will carry automobiles to an eminence overlooking the lake.

Mr. Lenz announces discovery of a large deposit of decomposed granite on the route of the new forest highway. This, he says, will make excellent surfacing material.

BAND CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

The K. of P. Band will give an open air concert on the courthouse lawn tomorrow night. Expressions of citizens indicate that the big lawn will be crowded. As Hood River will not hold a celebration of the Fourth, her citizens will endeavor to secure inspiration from national music tomorrow night.

The band boys, who now have an aggregation recognized as one of the state's best, will leave Saturday for Waco, Tex., to attend the national day playing for the Independence Day celebration of the Sherman county town.

Workman Ceremonial Impressive So successful and impressive was the recent ceremony of the K. of P. U. held here that the joint meeting of Industry Lodge, Portland, which sent 40 members here on the recent trip, and Riverside Lodge, Hood River, plan on repeating the event annually. Most of the visitors were accompanied by their wives. The meeting was presided by a parade, headed by the K. of P. band. Uniformed Sheiks participated. A sumptuous strawberry shortcake feast was served.

Most of the visitors remained over Sunday for valley trips and to inspect the new Columbia Gorge Hotel.

THE CITY TAILORS IS NEW BUSINESS

H. F. Brazeau, agent of the Mt. Hood R. R. and Lowell M. Nickelson, son of C. D. Nickelson, have purchased from Meyer & Smith their tailoring business. The new owners will occupy the same quarters for a cleaning establishment on State street at the head of Second. The office will be located in the building on Second street which has been utilized as a kitchen by The Pheasant.

Mr. Brazeau is a veteran at the tailoring business, having operated a shop for many years at Calumet, Mich. The firm will specialize in costume tailoring. They will also do a general business of cleaning, pressing and dyeing.

Keeping the Record Straight

"You say you didn't wear burning letters," thundered the lawyer for the plaintiff in a divorce suit, "but here is the proof in black and white." "Black and blue," interrupted the judge, "if you are referring to the letters in your hand."

"The stationery is blue and the ink, assume, is black."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Summons

FREIGHT CUT IS DECLARED NEGLIGIBLE

The cut of 17c per 100 pounds on the freight rate on apples from coast and interior points to the east, effective September 1, will amount to little as it is the shippers lose the storing-in-transit privilege. To retain it they must pay an extra 10c per 100 pounds. The present rate is $1.07 per 100 pounds to Chicago. The new rate will be $1.50, a decrease of about 10 per cent. It means a decrease in the freight rate on a box of apples from Spokane to Chicago of about 5c.

Shippers do not believe the rate reduction will be of any material benefit. The loss of the storing-in-transit privilege is so serious, they say, as to almost offset the advantage of the lower rate.

By the privilege shippers were permitted without extra freight charge to unload fruit in Spokane and hold it in storage here until the Eastern market improved.

"The decrease of 17c per 100 pounds is helpful to just that extent, but it does not go far enough," said C. J. Welby, assistant manager of the Spokane Fruit Growers' Company. "It can make but little change in the general situation. The old rate was $1. This was increased to $1.25, and last summer 35 per cent was added to that, making a rate of $1.67. Even with this 10 per cent cut, now announced, the freight rate on apples is still 50 per cent higher than it was before the last two increases."

OBITUARY Mrs. Margaret Gilmer

Mrs. Margaret Gilmer was born September 18, 1900, at Marion, Marion county, Ohio. She came to Hood River October 17, 1909, with her parents, moving to Lyle in August, 1915, and was married to John W. Gilmer, September 16, 1918. She died after a short illness at The Dalles Hospital June 19, and was laid to rest in the Idlewild cemetery, at Hood River. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, John Gilmer; two children, Nettie Elizabeth and John William, Jr.; her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. O. Van Osten, of Lyle, Wn.; one sister and two brothers, Mrs. Chas. Struck and Marion Van Osten, of Lyle, and Paul Van Osten, of Hood River. Mrs. Gilmer was a loving wife and mother, also daughter and sister. She was followed to her last resting place by a host of friends from Lyle, Appleton and White Salmon, Wash., and Hood River and Portland, Ore. The funeral was a bank of beautiful floral offerings from sorrowing relatives and friends.

Ohio Hiker Praises Hood River

R. T. Wood, Cleveland, O., young man, asks for no automobile for seeing Northwestern points of scenic interest. Mr. Wood arrived in the Hood River valley in the early spring, bent on seeing Lost Lake. He hiked from Dee but missed a sight of the mountain body of water, having become lost in the forests, which at the time were deep with a blanket of snow. Mr. Wood arrived here Monday night, after numerous hikes through Washington. He had recently toured the wide around Mount Adams. He left for Portland, whence he will go for a tour of lower Columbia points. "I'll be back here soon," he said, "for I haven't forgotten my determination to see Hood River. I expect to ascend Mount Hood before I return home. In all of the places I have seen I find more to interest me in the Oregon Cascades than elsewhere."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our beloved one.

John Gilmer, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Van Osten, Paul Van Osten, Marion Van Osten, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Struck.

BOWLING NEWS

The Blue Diamond picked team again walloped the Red Diamond champions, but only by a small margin after rather inferior bowling.

Mrs. S. G. Campbell hung up a three game total of 425, which is an average of 142, very good bowling for a woman. Zack Annala's 599 walked off with the week and he has 612 on the start of this week. His 724 for any three games for the month is still high.

Alley Manager House rang up 207, 257, 246 for a 710 total for three consecutive games. This total is second only to the present alley record of 730, held by Mr. House.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. C. Carnes are recent spoon winners.

FINS, FURS AND FEATHERS

Hood River county hens continue to break records for big eggs. T. H. Markley, of the Barrett district, now holds the record with a Rhode Island Red egg that measures 8 by 6 1/2 inches. Mrs. W. E. Jackson has displayed an egg measuring 7 1/2 by 6.

State Fish Culturist Taylor, of the State Fish and Game Department, is engaged on Hood River, near the outlet of Green Point creek, in hatching out 200,000 trout eggs. The young fish will be released in local streams when they reach the proper size. Quarters of the new hatchery are now temporary. By next season, Mr. Tucker announces, permanent buildings will be constructed.

Beaver! That a few years ago were thought to have become practically extinct in the streams of the Simcoe mountains in the Klickitat valley, are rapidly increasing during the last two or three years. Forest rangers report the appearance of seven beaver dams at the headwaters of the Little Klickitat river near the summit of the Simcoe mountains that have been built by the busy fur-bearing rodents this year. The work of the animal industry is proving quite an attraction to people who have never seen beaver dams.

Fruit Steamers Favored

That he had met with a favorable reception from the steamship owners in New York in relation to arranging for refrigerated space for the carrying of cargoes of fruit from the ports of Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle to Atlantic Coast points, was the statement made last week by C. S. Whitcomb, president of the Pacific Producers' Association. An investment of approximately $1,500,000 for the equipment of six ships with refrigerated space is contemplated in the plans. The realization of these plans will make possible a ten-day service from the ports of Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle, each ship having 200,000 cubic feet of refrigerated space. It is possible that one or more ships will be equipped in three months and the full service of six ships established within six months. The main cargoes from Los Angeles will be oranges and lemons, and from Portland and Seattle apples and pears.
