FOSTER MOTHER OF FAGAN, WOMAN CLAIMS

An echo of the tragedy of week before last when Luther Fagan, pardoned convict was killed after he had kidnapped Mrs. T. J. Miller and daughter, Mrs. Murray, after brief talks with Sheriff Johnson, Undertaker Anderson and District Attorney Baker, returned to Portland. She was accompanied by J. E. Helms, of Porty who is a strongly woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Wilkes Murray, claiming to be the foster mother of the dead man, came here to interview county officers.

Mrs. Murray, after brief talks with Sheriff Johnson, Undertaker Anderson and District Attorney Baker, returned to Portland. She was accompanied by J. E. Helms, of Porty who is a strongly woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Wilkes Murray, claiming to be the foster mother of the dead man, came here to interview county officers.

Mrs. Murray says that Fagan, or Carey, was a wild boy and was frequently in scrapes. She says that a photograph found on Fagan is that of a half sister, who now resides in Canada somewhere.

The opinion of officials is divided as to whether to believe the stories told by the visitor. Local men, who came in contact with Fagan here before his commitment to the penitentiary, say that he frequently talked of this mother, whose home was supposed to be in California.

That irrigation of strawberry land pays has been proven beyond a doubt this Saturday by the Ed Larsen tract of six acres from which he harvested 1,000 crates of fine strawberries. Non-irrigated strawberry tracts in the same section fell short this year and only a few crates were produced.

The Trout Lake valley is drawing many summer tourists this season, many people coming to see great mud slides on Mt. Adams. The roads to the Trout Lake valley are good to date, and in this connection it might be said that a prominent Trout Lake visitor in town is Ed Larsen, who has been inside of two years a hard surface road would be built from Husum to Trout Lake. This year a large amount of work has been done on the White Salmon-Husum road, sharp curves having been straightened, narrow sections made wider, and grades reduced, so that soon the road can be placed under state maintenance.

Rinehart Tour Postponed

Secretary Crow, of the Commercial Club, who was cooperating with W. R. Hayes, McKenzie bridge merchant and guide, in arranging for a Mount Hood camp for Mary Roberts Rinehart, expected here with her husband, Dr. S. M. Rinehart, and a party during the first week in August, has just received a letter from Mr. Hayes, who announces that the Cascade tour of Mrs. Rinehart has been postponed until next year. The year's outing plans, including a horseback ride from Mount Hood to Grater Lake, were deferred because of illness of the noted writer, who recently underwent a serious surgical operation.

GRANGE OPPOSED TO HIGH LICENSE

Representatives of the county grange appeared before the city council Monday night and appealed to the council not to adopt an exorbitant license fee applying to itinerant peddlers and hawkers. The grange members express the opinion that license fees should be low enough to enable the curbside fruit sellers and others to visit the city. The council members are engaged in drafting a revised ordinance covering the licensing of itinerants, the local merchants having asked for heavier fees, claiming that the existing nominal charges enabled the hawkers to compete unfairly with them.

The council has adopted an ordinance that requires motor vehicles, operated in passenger traffic, whether they run on inter-urban schedules between Hood River and other points or within the city alone or from the city to valley points, to give $10,000 bond as a guaranty in settlement of any injuries that may be sustained by passengers. Indemnity insurance may be substituted for the bonds. The ordinance requires all owners and chauffeurs of motor bus companies to be licensed citizens.

The council is endeavoring to negotiate the purchase of a slice of lots on the south side of State street, where the property abuts on the approach to the concrete bridge over Hood river. The city is now engaged in making an earth fill approach, but the street right of way, it is said, is too narrow.
