LOCAL FERRY IS BEST ON RIVER

The new ferry, the Cleona, named for Misses Cleo Johnson and Leona Van Allen, daughters of the owners, J. M. Johnson and Homer G. Van Allen, is declared by widely experienced motorists to be the best on the Columbia river. The craft is declared one of the best in the Northwest.

Last Thursday the Glacier man was driven to the boat landing by George C. Gladden of the Mt. Hood Motor Co. A new Nash was taken for a trial trip across the river. All agreed that the new boat was capable of handling the traffic between the Hood River Highway and the North Bank, a traffic that is growing heavier every day. Mr. Van Allen is pilot of the new boat. He is proud of it. Since putting the Cleona in commission he says he wonders how he ever handled traffic with the old Panama.

The Cleona is of a size that gives the passenger a sense of utmost security. The windiest day on the Columbia doesn't cause her any worry. She is equipped with a huge 30 H. P. semi-Diesel engine, which burns crude oil. The powerful motor chugs steadily ahead, and doesn't change her tune in the least, even though a wave submerges the paddles. The boat is 56 feet from stem to stern. She measures 22 feet, inside measurement, from star board to larboard.

The Cleona is equipped with electric lights. She is double ended, and no matter which way she is traveling, she is going straight ahead. The boat has carried 12 big automobiles and two saddle horses at a single load. While the owners were the designers of the new craft, she was built by A. S. Sheplar, formerly one of the owners of the ferry system, who has made a name for himself as a ferry boat builder, having built the Panama, which the Cleona succeeds, and other craft.

The new boat is equipped with electric lights, generated by the big motor.

WAGON LICENSE UP TO SUPREME COURT

Because of the agitation over local Portland truck delivery licensing, the following dispatch to the Oregonian from Oregon City, appearing last week, will be of interest here:

The supreme court will be asked to decide whether the Oregon City ordinance known as the vehicle ordinance, passed last month, and putting a license of $10 a month a vehicle on delivery cars and trucks delivering goods to Oregon City merchants from outside points, is legal. About 50 Portland jobbers and manufacturers who deliver their products to Oregon City met yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss ways and means of combating the ordinance, and decided to lay the matter before the supreme court. The meeting was presided over by J. W. Vogan, of the Vogan Candy Company.

A number of methods of retaliation were proposed by those in attendance, among them a proposal that the city council be asked to pass an ordinance putting a tax on Clackamas county farmers who sell their produce to the Portland markets. The suggestions received will be held in abeyance and for consideration until the supreme court renders a decision on the Oregon City vehicle license.

Why Not?

Editor Glacier: The governor appointed a committee of three as per a resolution of the recent legislature to investigate and report additional sources of taxation so that the 1923 legislature would have some place to get more money to run the great state of Oregon. Along comes Wm. L. Finley, known to most nature lovers, in an open letter to the governor and suggests that the state raise some money from the fishing industry. The salmon pack for 1920 totaled over $12,000,000. The last legislature appropriated $91,300 of the taxpayers' money to raise more fish for the salmon packers to pack. The state collected over $50,000 in angler's licenses which money goes to the state hatchery fund, according to Mr. Finley, also to raise more fish for the commercial interests.

The United States government collects $12,500 a year from the Columbia River Packers' Association for seining privileges off Sand Island near the mouth of the Columbia river. The state of Minnesota collected $105,000 from commercial fishermen who secured from the waters of that state carp and other trash fish which the fishermen sold for $275,000.

What kind of business are the people of Oregon in that they can afford to raise $150,000 from the taxpayers in order to subsidize the salmon packers of the state of Oregon? What is the argument used on the legislature that the salmon packers are entitled to this money at the expense of the rest of the state? Tax Ferret.

Mr. Cannon Breaks Rib

City School Superintendent Cannon sustained a broken rib last week in a peculiar manner. Mr. Cannon, mounted on a stepladder, was engaged in pruning a mulberry tree, using a set of large hand pruners.

Mr. Cannon had tried vainly to cut off a large branch. Finally he placed one handle of the pruning shears against the tree trunk and grasped the other with both hands, exerting his full force on the tug. When the limb was severed the end of the handle was plunged into his left side.

"I do not think one of Jack Dempsey's blows could have been much worse," says Mr. Cannon, who is forced to wear his torso in a cast as a result of the accident.

Ruggles Displays Fine Dahlias

Judson G. Ruggles, foreman of the company of the Glacier, raises dahlias as a hobby. He has a hundred varieties of the beautiful species of flower. Seventy new and gorgeous varieties have been planted in his garden.

Mr. Ruggles has arranged with the First National Bank and the Franz store to display daily a bouquet of a different variety. Last Friday he began his displays of gorgeous blooms, and a different color daily, from now on until frost, will appear on the bank desk. The large flowers are creating a great interest.

You can't afford to drive without it

The man who fails to take out Travelers Automobile Liability Insurance because he thinks he cannot afford it, certainly cannot afford to drive a car.

It takes infinitely more sacrifice to scrape together money enough to meet a $5,000 damage award, than it does to meet the reasonable sum we ask as premiums.

Take no chances on a heavy loss. Include your insurance as one of the necessary maintenance costs of your machine.

You'll Save Money By Remodeling Now

You who have been waiting for lower prices before you laid that hardwood floor, renewed those old walls and ceilings, re-roofed the house or barn, or built the garage—this message is directed to you.

Do you know that lumber and building material prices are down forty per cent?

Do you know that you can repair or remodel cheaper than at any time in the past five years?

Do you realize that every day you wait not only inconveniences you but costs you real money?

Building material prices may come down more—we think not—but every day you delay in getting the new garage deprives you of the use of it, and causes you to pay out money for garage rent.

Every day you delay roofing the barn and the home, makes your property more liable to damage from storm. Every day you put off inside repairs the trouble increases and the total expense becomes greater.

Come in today and let us figure your job. Begin getting the benefit now.
