Clipped Here and There

Oregon ranks eighth among the states of the Union as a shipper of strawberries in carload lots. Hood River county ships the great bulk of the Oregon shipments. This shows what one tiny section can do to build up a great business and a fine reputation for a state—Oregon Voter.

Three Arrests for Speeding

Three arrests were made the past week by Traffic Officer Murray for speeding along the Highway. The drivers of automobiles apprehended were: E. O. Miller and C. T. Young, of Portland, and James Martin, of Salem. L. Foote, of Mosier, was charged with joyriding in a tunnel and reckless driving.

Staten Is Water Master

Following a conference between Rhea Laper, of the State Water Board, and the county court, A. C. Staten has been appointed first water master of Hood River county. Mr. Staten, whose duties will include apportionment of water to various irrigation concerns, is a pioneer orchardist.

Will saw your wood any place in city. Phone 1174 Sutherland & Andrews. 1/2821.

HIGHWAY PAVED TO TWIN TUNNELS

The paving crews of the A. D. Kern Co. have reached the Gateway tunnels between here and Mosier, and have discontinued paving on this end of the link of the Columbia River Highway for which they have the contract. They will begin immediately on paving the east end of the stretch just west of the Marsh gravel pits.

The work of the Kern Co., as well as that of the Hauser Co., which will begin laying hot stuff soon near Rowena, will necessitate detouring over Seven Mile hill between Mosier and The Dalles during working hours. The road will be opened before 6 a. m., between 12:30 and 1:30 p. m. and after 5 p. m.

AT THE THEATRES

THE LIBERTY

Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, Edwexer will be shown in a Paramount special production, "Witching Hour," also an Urban Movie Chat and International News.

Sunday, one day only, August 7, Justice Johnston in "A Heart To Let." A one reel Rolin comedy.

Monday and Tuesday, August 8 and 9, Mae Murray and David Powell will be shown in a wonderful Fitzmaurice production, "Idols of Clay," a big, massive production with scenes in London and the South Sea Isles. Miss Murray in the picture does one of her dances that made her famous. A picture that has everything, thrills and climaxes galore, staged in a manner that is incomparable. Also Buster Keaton, the sad faced comedian in two reels of hilarity, "The High Sign."

This picture, "Idols of Clay" played in Portland alone at 5c. We are showing it with Buster Keaton and Topics of the Day at regular prices.

Wednesday and Thursday, August 10 and 11, Norma Talmadge, the international favorite will be shown in "The Branded Woman." Also a Christie Comedy, "Wedding Blues." All at usual prices.

Friday and Saturday, August 13 and 14, the big Cosmopolitan production, "The Passionate Pilgrim." Vera Kostaid at the Liberty organ.

NO REASON FOR CONFUSION

Christian Chronology Really Quite Simple Matter, Though It Requires a Little Explanation.

Using the birth of Our Lord as a starting point for counting time did not become general until the Christian religion had made considerable progress. Some confusion arises from overlooking the fact that the ancient nations had their own systems and their own starting points. For instance, the Romans counted from the founding of their city, Rome, and when Our Lord was born it was the year 753 according to Roman chronology. Having taken the year in which Our Lord was born as the starting point of the new or Christian chronology, the years preceding that starting point could only be counted as years before Christ and the farther you go back into the past the greater their number, just as the greater the number the farther you come down from the starting point towards the present. There is nothing confusing in this, and the same principle is applied on any through railway timetable. A transcontinental time-table counts distances from a terminal both ways, one way east and the other way west. In our chronology the year of the birth of Our Lord is the starting point, and the years are counted both ways—those that had passed before that event and those that have passed since that event. This system is, of course, in use only in Christian countries. The Jews before to count from the creation, and there is no counting backwards because it is impossible to go back of that event.

USED SYSTEM OF HIS OWN

Professor Refused to Allow Proper Spelling to Weigh at All Heavily Upon Him.

Of course "enough" spells "nuff" and yet "cat" is not spelled "caugh." School boys, seasoned business men, and to mention school teachers, often find the spelling of the English language a bit troublesome. But here is a one-time university professor and now eminent scientist who not only admits that spelling "gets him rattled," but goes so far as to invent his own form of spelling, which exactly follows out the sound of the word.

Hence we find such sentences as these in a recently issued volume by the anthropological department of the university museum:

"His hair was still black."

"The two writings when they wer don, ov course wer not alike."

"Some paragraphs ov hiz own wer dropt."

"I say as nearly as possible becauz—"

The author of the volume, which is the translation of a legend of the Kerch Indians of Guatemala, is Robert Burkhitt, an Englishman.

Complicated Prescription

She's sorry now that she didn't spend more time studying and less time on prom class day and similar committees when she was in school and she's trying to make up for it by noting down every new and unfamiliar word she hears to be looked up later in the dictionary. This habit caused her a bit of embarrassment the other night.

A friend had told her a new remedy for sore throat and had written down its long name on a slip of paper.

Going to the busy prescription counter she handed a slip of paper to a clerk. He looked at it. He looked hard at it. The other waiting customers were beginning to get impatient before he finally turned to the girl.

"I can't figure it out," he admitted.

"Why, it's simple," she told him. "It's for sore throats, see—oh!" She had started to read the "prescription" aloud when she noticed she had handed the wrong memorandum to the clerk.

O. K. it were the words: "Precarious, Impeccable!"

BEND, CITY OF GREAT PROMISE

gained ground in the past few years, and the Central Oregon Farmers' Creamery Association is now doing a thriving business, making butter and ice cream. Companies have been formed, one at Redmond and the other at Bend for salvaging the juniper trees, really a species of cedar, its height governed by the desert aridity, for the manufacture of pencils. The juniper much resembles the cedars of Tennessee and other sections of the Appalachian mountain system, and it is believed that it is just as desirable in pencil making.

For a few weeks of summertime in mountain camp, the motorist can seek no pleasanter place in Oregon than the great out of doors around Bend. The central Oregon town, although one can easily travel it in a day and a half from Portland, is considered fairly remote, but daily the great hinterland is becoming nearer and nearer and its wonders more accessible. The completion of paving to The Dalles and the grading and macadamizing of The Dalles-California road will bring it within easy and comfortable reach of Portland. It may be safely prophesied that his gateway of a scenic wonderland will become increasingly popular with each succeeding year.

Legion Offers Reward

The American Legion Post has offered a reward of $50 for information leading to the apprehension of the party who stole a spare tire Saturday night from the automobile of C. L. Woodrum, member of the Legion Mount Hood climb. The padlock, fastening the tire to the car was filed off. Legion members also say that evidence were discovered Sunday of an attempt to flood the road, leading to the camp, by blocking an irrigation ditch and turning the stream into the highway.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN DRACE XIV.—VERMONT

THE derivation of the name Vermont comes from the French "verts monts," or green mountains, and it was likewise the French who were probably the first white men to see those lofty landmarks which so appropriately give this state its name. This was in July, 1606, when Champlain made his memorable voyage up the lake now called after him.

The first permanent settlement was made in 1724 at Brattleboro, where the Massachusetts colony established a fort as a buffer against invasion from the north. The territory used was part of what was known as the "Equivalent Lands," which were sold at public auction in Hartford for about a farthing an acre, the proceeds being donated to Yale college. Shortly after this, settlers pushed eastward from New York across Lake Champlain and westward from New Hampshire. This led to disputes between these two colonies as to their boundaries. Under the leadership of Ethan Allen New York's claims were resisted by a local military force, which proudly called themselves "the Green Mountain Boys." It was these same men who played such a brilliant part during the Revolution.

In 1777 a formal Constitution for the state was adopted and Vermonters are proud of the fact that theirs was the first of the states to prohibit slavery by constitutional provision. For a number of years Vermont remained as a separate republic, but in 1791 it was admitted to the Union as the first addition to the original thirteen states.

In size Vermont has 9,564 square miles, and its congressional delegation numbers four. It thus casts four votes for the president.

Paper Once Royal Gift. There was a time when only the nobility, the great personages of history, could enjoy the use of paper, and then in only the most meager quantities. Only 1,800 years ago Emperor Trajan of Rome was the delighted recipient of a magnificent gift consisting of 20 reams of paper from the emperor of China. In that age and time, 20 reams of the precious fabric was considered a royal gift indeed, and only a potentate with the vast resources of China at his disposal could afford to give a present of such value.

One can imagine the elation enjoyed by Trajan upon receiving so great a quantity of paper, and thus know that through such generosity he was to augment the number of volumes contained in his library.
