WOMAN TAKES BILL HART FOR HUSBAND

City Marshal William Hart experienced a few minutes of keen embarrassment last Friday when a strange woman approached him on the street and started to embrace him. The woman, Mrs. Edward Bruner, who was touring from Iowa through to Portland by automobile, declared that she thought Mr. Hart her husband who disappeared from his Iowa home 16 years ago.

Mrs. Bruner and her children, a son and daughter, had just arrived on a business street, and the former had left the car to do some shopping when she espied the officer. She made for him at once and placing her hands on Mr. Hart's shoulder, she uttered, apparently with great emotion, "I have found you at last."

Mr. Hart was nonplussed. He declared that he thought the woman suffering from mental aberration, but as she explained it became apparent that she was serious and really took him for the lost husband.

"Why I've been in Hood River for 18 years," said the embarrassed officer. "Can you find any one here who has known you that long?" cried the woman.

Mr. Hart afterward declared that for the life of him he couldn't have named a man who had known him that long.

"I'll tell you," he said, "that was certainly a time to take a fellow's breath. To be met up like that by a strange woman, who tries to kiss and embrace you and calls you her long lost husband, well it's a trying situation."

Mrs. Bruner was finally persuaded by citizens, who had known Mr. Hart for many years and who told of his grandchildren, that the officer was not her husband. She and her children left immediately for the west over the highway.

Mr. Hart, familiarly known as Bill Hart, since the primary election last year has been experiencing confusion in problems of identity. At that time some of his Democratic friends wrote his name in as their choice for Democratic candidate for sheriff. When the Hood River county returns reached Salem and were being canvassed in the office of Secretary of State Koser, someone jumped at the conclusion that it was the movie actor, and news stories were sent broadcast with the story. The motion picture hero even went so far as to accept the nomination. The story reached Parisian newspapers, and since then Mr. Hart has been receiving love letters from French widows.

"I didn't mind the perfumed letters from Gay Paree so much," said Mr. Hart, "but when somebody tries to claim me for a husband, well, that's taking things a little too far."

ASSOCIATION LETS BUILDING CONTRACT

The Apple Growers Association has awarded to the Baldwin & Swope Construction Co., a contract for construction of storage and receiving warehouses at Odell and Dee. The cooperative agency already has a warehouse at Odell. The new structure, to be one story high and 120x50 feet, will be built of tile at a cost of $11,000. The Dee plant will be of wood. It will be 120x50 feet and a single story. Its cost will approximate $8,000.

Common storage will be provided at both new plants, but no refrigeration machinery will be installed. Work has begun on the buildings.

Dr. Stone Killed In Rockies

Dr. W. E. Stone, noted mountaineer and president of Purdue University, was killed last week on Mount Eamon, a peak of the Canadian Rockies near Banff. Dr. Stone, who has visited Hood River, having climbed both Mount Adams, was attempting to rescue his wife, when he slipped, falling a great distance into a crevasse. Mrs. Stone, who had slipped into a crevasse, lies terribly injured in a Banff hospital. She remained for eight days, exposed to the rigors of the high altitude, before search parties found them.

Dr. Stone's reputation as a mountaineer was considerable, particularly his prestige as an educator, among whom he was one of the leaders in the United States. He has climbed in the mountains of Oregon many times, with Mrs. Stone as his constant companion. He was a member of the Mazamas, and with that organization participated in numerous outings. He has ascended Mt. Hood numerous times, and with Mrs. Stone, in 1917, made an exceptionally hazardous climb of Mt. Jefferson over a route which no mountaineer had ever attempted before.

Huckleberries Are Fine

Families of the Oak Grove district who have visited the Green Point huckleberry fields the past week declare that the fruit is better than in any former season. A party, picking over the area, where the berries have reached the size of Black Republican cherries, returned after two days with 50 gallons of the fine fruit. Huckleberries are selling here for $1.50 per gallon.

Rev. Benthin Called

Rev. W. O. Benthin, who for the past two years has been temporarily in charge of the United Church of the Upper Valley at Parkdale, has received a formal call to take permanent charge of the congregation. Mr. Benthin is a Presbyterian. At the meeting at which official action was taken, Rev. Boddy, moderator of the Eastern Oregon Presbytery, presided. The vote for permanent retention of Rev. Benthin stood 82 to 29.

The Ideal Grader

We have been marketing Ideal Graders for the past six years. They have grown more popular each year.

Our machines are a favorite in all Northwestern fruit sections. We have shipped them in numbers to foreign apple districts.

The 1921 model of Ideal Grader is ready for distribution. It will carry a number of improvements. We mention at random some of them: The machine can be adjusted for sizing while in operation. Two adjusting screws do the work. Our new sorting table is a feature that will be noticed at once.

We hope to place as many as possible of the machines we manufacture in Hood River and for this reason would urge that local growers give us their order at once, in order that we may include them before we are booked to the limit of our capacity.
