The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE XV.—KENTUCKY THE kinship of Kentucky and Virginia is that of parent and child. From Virginia came most of the settlers of the western state, and with them these pioneers brought Virginia institutions and ideals. It was not until 1750 that the first authentic journey was made by a white man into central parts of the region afterwards called Kentucky.

Further explorations showed that this territory held two important attractions for settlers. The first was the great fertility of what was called the Blue Grass region. The so-called blue grass, from which this state is nicknamed the "Blue Grass State" is in no wise peculiar to Kentucky.

The second inducement for settlers was the fact that there were no Indians living in this region. It was later found that many roving bands of savages crossed the Ohio from the north and sorely harassed the early colonists until Clark's expeditions into Ohio and Indiana checked their invasions. In fact, the name Kentucky is probably derived from the Iroquois word kentake, meaning "hunting land." Another interpretation is "dark and bloody ground," but this is doubtless incorrect.

The main highways of travel at that time were Daniel Boone's "Wilderness Road" through Cumberland Gap and down the Ohio. Hardy pioneers poured into this new territory in such numbers that in 1792, with the permission of Virginia, Kentucky was admitted to the Union as the fifteenth state with an area of 40,598 square miles. Kentucky has thirteen electoral votes for president. The remarkable physical condition of its population is shown in a report of the volunteers in the Civil war. This gave their average height as nearly an inch taller than the New England troops and with a correspondingly greater girth of chest.

Accommodating. Some years ago, before prohibition was in force, I was traveling, making a great many small towns. As a rule there was only one hotel in a town, and invariably a saloon in the same building. I disliked this exceedingly, and determined to avoid stopping at such a place where possible. One evening, alighting from a train in a small town, I was accosted by two local hotel huck drivers.

"Hotel, lady?" I thought to myself, surely both of these hotels do not run saloons. So I said to the nearest driver, "Does your hotel have a saloon in connection with it?"

He replied, "No, lady, but we will send out and get anything you want." —Chicago Tribune.

I have made arrangements to have my graders built in Portland and will have a machine in Hood River for your inspection in the near future. Don't order your grader until you have seen this up-to-date machine. One feature alone will save you from $1.00 to $3.00 every day you use it according to size machine used. Timothy Newell. 152841

Lake Celebration Off Tentative plans for holding a picnic at Lost Lake Labor Day in celebration of completion of the highway being constructed by the National Forestry Service have been cancelled. Those who have traveled the county road leading from Dee to the forestry highway the past week declare the heavy traffic of automobiles that have visited the district this summer have left the road almost impassable. The opening of the Lake road will be celebrated next summer.

Buckwheat Thrives Here A. F. Lynn, who this year has experienced with soy beans and buckwheat, says he has found the beans unsuited to local soil and climate. He declares he will make no further tests with them.

"But I was surprised at the luxuriant growth of the buckwheat," says Mr. Lynn. "I am going to plant more extensively of this crop next year."

THE IRELAND PLACE

I am authorized by the owner, Mr. L. E. Ireland, to offer for sale his splendid property on the main Eastside highway, at a price which I consider one of the best bargains that has ever been offered in Hood River Valley.

It is $8000 below the most conservative estimate that could be made of the property. If I were to be asked to make an official appraisal I would readily put a figure of $30,000 on it, putting in the dwelling at exactly what it cost to build nine years ago.

My selling price is $17,000, including all equipment.

The man who buys this can safely consider he has made $8000 the minute he tenders the first payment to bind the deal. This is no gamble. Ask anyone who knows the property.

The property consists of one of the finest homes in Hood River Valley and 27½ acres of land. It is ideally located one and a half miles out on the eastside highway, commanding a view of the entire valley, Mount Hood, Mount Adams and the Columbia Gorge.

The orchard is in strictly first class condition, escaping all freeze injury of two years ago. It has always had the best of care and the trees are as vigorous and thrifty as anything that will be found in the entire district.

The varieties are Spitzenbergs, Newtowns, Ortleys, Gravensteins, Delicious, Bananas and D'Anjou pears. This orchard produced $14,000 in 1919. It has always been a heavy producer, is in a protected district free from frost injury and is under the East Fork Irrigation Ditch.

The owner's residence is a two and a half story shingled dwelling of fourteen rooms. The lower floor contains a large living room 16 x 24, off from which is a sun parlor 10 x 18. The south, east and west exposures of this room are all windows. Adjoining the living room there is also an office or den, 12 x 12, with a French door into the garden. The reception hall is 12 x 12 with a wide stairway in the rear to the second floor. On the left of the reception hall is the dining room, 16 x 16. These rooms all have hardwood floors in excellent condition.

On either side of the main entrance are large coat closets with outside windows, and full-length plate-glass mirrors in the doors. To the rear of the stairway in the reception hall is a lavatory and toilet convenient to a rear entrance. In the living room is a large fireplace, with French doors on either side leading into the sun parlor. There is a good sized kitchen, and butler's pantry and a screened porch off the kitchen.

The second floor consists of six bedrooms and bath, and there are three plastered rooms in the attic with a lavatory in one. One of the bedrooms is arranged as an all year sleeping porch, with windows and screens constituting three sides of the room.

There is a concrete basement 24 x 30 in which is a large furnace and frost-proof fruit room. Across the entire front of the dwelling is a wide concrete terrace porch.

The other buildings consist of a good five-room tenant house with running water and electricity; a laundry; two barns and chicken houses.

The buildings alone would cost more than the price asked. The dwelling could not be built today for $15,000.

The price is $17,000; half cash, balance at 7%.
