

APPLE GROWERS

have many details to attend to at harvest time, some of which can be taken care of now. Among these are

RUBBER STAMPS

Look over your supply. You will find some of them lost or worn out. Perhaps you have a new variety coming into bearing or need a name stamp. Place your order NOW and have them ready when needed.

A Convenience to Workers

At the request of citizens whose work keeps them employed daily until six o'clock, we have agreed to keep our store open for two hours after supper on each Monday and Wednesday.

Come in and look over our shelves, where you will find, posted prominently right beside the goods themselves, special prices on all articles.

We will take all your eggs or country produce and pay you CASH, or trade if you wish.

We will furnish to any church or fraternal organization, giving a luncheon or dinner, free coffee, provided our name and the brand name of the coffee are mentioned. On certification from county officials of the want of any families, we will sell our goods to such families at cost.

It is the consensus of expert opinion that sugar and canned goods are due for an increase in price. It will pay you to visit our store and buy your supplies of these articles at our reduced prices.

WHITE SALMON

(from the Enterprise)

J. J. Phebus, orchardist of the Hosum district, is building a large apple shed on his place to help harvest quickly the 7000 box crop of apples.

During the past two weeks, hundreds of gallons of blackberries have been picked by parties camped at the Government Mineral Springs Campgrounds and other camping places in this vicinity—Columbia National Forest. Blackberries are now about gone.

Road crews under the supervision of Supervisor Chas. Thornton, are constructing 3500 feet of new road grade on the Trout Lake road survey near the Weingartner ranch on the White Salmon river. The work is heavy but when completed will be a great improvement. A few weeks ago a bridge was burnt out and a detour had to be built. This detour is not bad but the new road now under construction will be on the permanent grade, a few hundred feet west of the present road and where the bridge was destroyed.

Fred Baker and Esri Coe will commence construction next week of an apple warehouse and loading platform at Higen and will have it completed in time to handle this year's crop.

They will not only load apples but have made connections with such reliable marketing agencies that no matter how a deal turns out they will be able to give the growers the best that is available. With the increased tonnage that is expected this year and from now on from this district, there appears to be a need for additional loading facilities at the station to handle the crop.

Fire Boys Prevent Loss
Fire originating in a workshop in the rear of the Hood River Plumbing Co.'s shop at noon Monday threatened adjoining business structures. Children playing with matches are thought to be responsible. A quantity of oakum was ignited, and the casements of windows of the Mount Hood Motor Co., filled with automobiles, were flaming when the Volunteer Fire Department directed streams of water on the old frame structure.

The quick work of the fire department limited the damage to a few hundred dollars.

REMAINS IN HER MEMORY

How North Star Brings Up Vision of Happy Childhood to the Mind of Writer.

One of my own most perfect childhood memories concerns my visits to my grandmother, when she invited me to stay for supper, and my grandfather walked home with me after dark. All along the way, he used to point out our two shadows on the pavement, as we passed the street lights one by one.

We watched the way the shadows were very short directly below the lamp, and how they lengthened until they were just our height—his more than twice as tall as mine—and how they finally grew so long that their tops were almost out of sight. The object was to find the point where the shadows were exactly as tall as ourselves. When we came to the darkest part of the street, where our shadows were lost in the hedges, we used to stop and find the North star over a pointed tree near my own home.

That was always the way we made the journey from his home to mine, until he thought that I was too old to care to have him show me stars and shadows any more. But for me, as long as I live, the North star will shine over that particular tree. And I shall always keep the memory of that funny little shadow that used to be mine, clear cut with the light behind it—and beside it, hand in hand with it, that dear characteristic shadow that never falls on any road in the world.—Frances Lester Warner in the Atlantic Monthly.

BELL MADE TOO MUCH NOISE

Invention of the Telephone Evidently Was Not by Any Means a Quiet Affair.

The landlady couldn't stand it any longer, and the lodgers threatened to leave unless the racket stopped.

Alexander Graham Bell was the cause of the trouble. He had rigged up a contraption in his bedroom and a duplicate in the room of his accomplice, Thomas A. Watson. A wire went out of the window and connected the two machines.

These two machines, according to young Bell, were first models of a revolutionary invention, the telephone. "I don't care what it is," said the landlady, "but if you two boys don't stop yelling your heads off, into those boxes, you'll have to pack your trunks and get out."

This episode of the angry landlady happened years ago in a cheap lodging house in Boston.

The Western Union Telegraph company offered Bell $100,000 for all his patents. Bell, with vision, realized that he had a fortune within grasp and rejected the offer. He and Watson went around the country, delivering lectures, and with the proceeds financed themselves.

Today there is a telephone to every nine Americans and more than 24,000,000 miles of wire in the Bell telephone lines.

Old Estates in America.

The commonest real estate phenomenon in England is the rarest one in America; namely, long-handed-down holdings still belonging to descendants of the ancient owners.

A certain William Douglas, born (where else than) in Scotland, came to this country in 1625 and settled near New London, Connecticut, where he built a house. The homestead has been in the hands of his offspring ever since. What is believed to be the first English settlement within the present boundaries of New York state, Gardiner's Island, at the eastern end of Long Island sound, is still owned by descendants of the original owner of the island, Lion Gardiner, who purchased it in 1639 from the Indians. The present home of the Gardiners was built in 1774 and has been exteriorly little altered since.

Toughest American Word.

The toughest American word is that of the Osage orange, which is not an orange at all, but belongs to the nettle family. This has been proved by a series of tests made by the United States Forest Service, but the Indians knew it before the coming of the white man, and it was known to them as the horn tree, because they used it for making their finest bows. Some idea of its strength may be had from the report made not long ago by the forest service, which shows that a block thirty inches long and two inches in cross-section when bent breaks under a stress of 13,900 pounds, its nearest rival being a variety of the hickory called monkey-nut. When bent by the impact of a 100-pound hammer, it stands a stress of 15,520.

Our Dearest Friends.

We spend a great deal of our time in learning what literature is good, and a great deal more in attuning our minds to its reception, rightly convinced that, by the training of our intellectual faculties, we are unlocking one of the doors through which sweetness and light may enter. We are fond of reading, too, and have always maintained with Macaulay that we would rather be a poor man with books than a great king without, though luckily for our resolution, and perhaps for his, such a choice has never yet been offered. Books, we say, are our dearest friends, and so, with true friendly sentiment, we are prompt to discover their faults, and take great credit in our ingenuity.—Agnes Repplier.

Heat Causes Man Mental Lapse

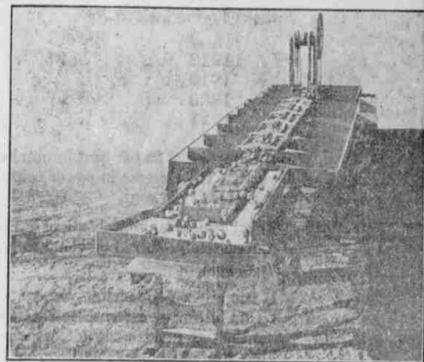

A man, normal in all respects except that he had forgotten his name, applied Sunday to City Marshal Hart for aid. The stranger was taken to the sick ward of the city hall, where after a few hours' rest he came to himself. He proved to be John Lester, who is employed by an O.-W. R. & N. bridge crew at Messer. Apparently he slipped from a passing train. The heat, it is thought, caused the mental lapse. Although Mr. Lester when he left was seemingly all right, he was never able to remember for what reason he had begun his journey.

Apple Harvest IS NEAR!

Are you prepared to take proper care of your crop?

Let us help you with the

IDEAL GRADER

Our grader has stood the test of six years of actual usage by growers. Constant improvements have been made each year. They have grown more popular each year, and not only in our own Northwestern districts but apple growing communities of foreign countries have ordered them.

It will pay you to investigate the 1921 IDEAL GRADER. It has numerous attractive new features. It can be adjusted while actual sizing is in operation. Two little screws do the work. Our new sorting table is worth your observation.

The harvest is near, and growers should place their orders at once.

We can also supply you with Bryant Clamp Trucks and Standard Roller Conveyors.
