A large crowd gathered at Glenwood Saturday evening, August 6, for the purpose of stimulating the interest of the much needed Yakima, Glenwood & Columbia highway. A large number from White Salmon were present, together with many citizens of Glenwood. An organization was formed to accommudate and assist parties from Yakima, Portland and other interested points in looking over the route and doing preliminary work. H. R. Mur-ray was elected president and A. G. Hanson, secretary-treasurer, both of Glenwood.

It is understood engineers from Yakima will soon be on the job near Glenwood and temporary work will be done at once by this organization, on the present road to enable them to go on up the Klickitat river as far as possi-ble by automobile. There is only a distance of seven miles which has not chardist, was in this vicinity three already been traveled by automobile which is from Klickitat river at Sods ngs, the end of the road from White Swan, to the Big Muddy about twelve miles from Glenwood on the west side of the Klickitat river. Two bridges are necessary, one crossing the Klickitat river at the Soda

Springs and one across the Big Muddy creek twelve miles north of Glenwood. The seven miles of road (will be an easy matter as this distance of the proposed site runs along a uniform bench in a rather open country, making the right of way, clearing and con-struction very inexpensive. The building of this highway would shorten the this week. He overdid in fighting distance between Yakima and Portland by at least sixty miles, eliminating the long and almost impassable route by way of Sandy hills further east. The proposed road would open up transportation facilities to the farming districts between Yakima and the Columbia river, and would offer a scenic route superior to any in the state, leading from Yakima and its famous valley, the highway would go by way of White Swan and on up to Surveyor creek, crossing the Klickitat river at Soda Sprngs, through a beautiful fir and pine timbered country close to the
