RECENT VISITORS WED IN OLD ALABAMA

Miss Kathryn Allison, daughter of the president of the Allison Lumber Co., of Bellamy, Ala., incidents of whose unusual wedding to Allen Grub Thursday were carried in press dispatches, is a niece of Judge Derby. The bride, her mother and fiancé were here during the month of July on a visit.

The minister, Rev. Henry M. Edmonds, of Birmingham, was en route by airplane to officiate at the wedding when the machine was wrecked by crashing into a tree. Frank Willis Barnett, of the staff of a Birmingham newspaper, who is an ordained minister, substituted. A blast from a siren at the lumber plant notified guests of the arrival of the wedding party at a frame church erected specially for the occasion. The table on which the wedding dinner was spread was so long that those at one end could not hear the speakers at the other. The guests were entertained by dancing and a moving picture show.

Murray Woman Here Again

Mrs. A. Murray, middle-aged woman, who recently came here claiming to be the mother of Luther Fagan, paroled convict who was recently killed after he had kidnapped Mrs. T. J. Miller and daughter and was holding a posse at bay, appeared again in the Oak Grove district last week where she frightened families by her weird stories. The woman, it is believed, sleeps in the brush in the Oak Grove district, near where the recent tragedy occurred. The sheriff's office was notified, and citizens of the district have asked that the woman be apprehended and committed to an asylum, as the belief is expressed that she is insane.

Mrs. Murray was taken into custody by officers Friday night, following actions in the down town district denoting mental aberration. Following an investigation by County Judge Hassbrook and Sheriff John Murray, Murray was permitted to proceed Saturday to Spokane. She possessed a ticket to the point. Constable Olinger accompanied her over the state line and Washington authorities were notified to keep her under surveillance. Saturday's examination, it is said, showed that the woman was harmless. Apparently she is obsessed by the idea that Fagan was a close relative. Letters from the dead man's close relatives in Oklahoma disprove her stories. Several weeks ago Mrs. Murray first appeared here claiming to be the mother of Fagan.

Cash Grocery Starts This Week

Two new stores will open in Hood River this month. This week the 18th Century Grocery Co. will be opened in the Bell building in the quarters formerly occupied by the Vincent & Shank grocery. The store will be managed by A. D. Cannon, who with his wife arrived here last week. Geo. M. Alexander, a member of the company, accompanied Mr. Cannon here and is aiding him in getting the new business under way. Mr. Cannon says that the new place of business will be strictly cash and carry. He will make a specialty of staple foods, staples, but will not attempt to deal extensively in fancy articles.

The other place of business, a gent's furnishing store, will be opened by Harry Ortmeil, of Portland, in the Hartness building in the quarters formerly occupied by Miss A. Ray.

James Fenimore Gets Medals

James Fenimore, veteran of Mons, Ypres and the Somme, and other notable battles of the great war, having served with the Canadian forces, last week received two medals. The decorations were accompanied by a note from King George, expressing appreciation of his majesty for the valiant service rendered the empire. Mr. Fenimore had formerly received two war medals.

Mr. Fenimore, who came here at the close of the war for a visit with his sons, Mrs. A. C. Lofis, and Mrs. A. S. Keir, and who has remained to engage in business, is now associated with the Dickson Motor Co.

Old Man's Trunk Offered

Unable to locate any surviving relatives, county authorities are offering for sale a suitcase and trunk left by Edward Nelson, aged man, who met tragic death near Dee four years ago. The case of the old man still remains a mystery. His body, which apparently had lain for several weeks near his camp in the Dee district, was discovered by fishermen. It was never determined whether he had been murdered or had died from injuries sustained in a fall on the rocky bluff, where the body was discovered. Clothing of the old man was distributed to county charity patients.

Underwood Harvest Is Near

A new packing house being made ready for this season's harvest of apples in the Underwood district will handle about 40,000 boxes, according to Andre Ausplund, Jr., grower of the district, who was here last week seeking market for his apples. Apples from orchards owned by J. W. Shipley, A. H. Steinmetz, E. M. Cummins, G. A. Lowden, H. A. Hedrick and Mr. Ausplund will be handled through the new concern. Mr. Ausplund stated that the Underwood harvest would begin about September 20.

EARLY APPLES ARE SELLING VERY WELL

P. F. Clark reports that the demand for early apples, Gravensteins and King varieties, is in excess of supply. He says, while he is not at liberty at present to give out prices, will return growers handsome profits. If apples of the late varieties bring proportionate prices the season, it is said, will be one of the best the valley has ever experienced. The Association up to Saturday had shipped five carloads of Gravensteins and Kings.

Mr. Clark, too, reports that the pear market is rallying. Bartletts, which are rolling from here, have been sold at good figures. The movement of Bartletts, a total of 22 cars handled by the Association, will be well over this week. d'Anjous will be rolling soon. The Association will have nearly 75 cars of the latter variety.

While inquiries on the valley's later varieties of apples, raised in large commercial quantities are being received in greater number, Mr. Clark reports that no material sales have yet been made.

Thieves Active in Upper Valley

Russell G. Pond, Upper Valley orchardist, returning late from getting his milk at a neighbor's, encountered a man standing near his chicken house. Thinking it was his hired man, he spoke. The greeting frightened the visitor who ran. Soon Mr. Pond saw a party of men board an automobile, parked a short distance down the road. The machine moved off at high speed. An investigation the next day proved that designs had been made on Mr. Pond's poultry and bee hives. The thieves, when apprehended had lifted the "supers" from two hives.

Studebaker Films Appeal

The motion picture show presented at the Liberty Saturday afternoon by the Cameron Motor Co., which depicted graphically the big $200,000,000 plant, where the popular automobile is manufactured, appealed strongly to scores of local motor owners. The pictures showed the process of making a Studebaker. First were shown raw materials, a great number of which are assembled from all parts of the country. The pictures finally showed the finished products, the Studebakers of different models as the man on the street knows them.
