In writing the high school news, we try to stimulate interest in school activities on the part of the people in our community. By putting our school news in the local papers we are giving to the people first hand information as to what a large part of their taxes are being used for, and create interest in activities in the school besides athletics, thereby gaining their backing to a greater extent than we now have.

In spite of snow and disagreeable weather, all schools registered a good per cent of attendance Monday morning. One primary had 70 per cent, high school 80 per cent, Park Street and junior high schools 90 per cent. The attendance was slightly increased Tuesday. Early dismissals were made in all schools to accommodate the pupils from outlying territory.

Many of the teachers were marooned because of the storm. E. E. Fleischman and Miss Frances Baker attended the home coming at Eugene, Saturday, November 19. They returned to Portland next day. Mr. Fleischman arrived home by train Friday night. E. A. Forsythe spent the storm week in Salem and attended the Marion county teachers' institute. Most of the teachers spent their Thanksgiving with friends in Hood River.

Supt. Cannon was busy most of the week with crews of men at the various school buildings, removing snow from the roofs. It was estimated that there were 100 tons of snow and ice on the roof of Park Street school alone.

The immense weight caused but little damage, except the cracking of plaster. The roof of the old junior high annex went in with an awful crash early Monday morning and finished the ruin of the Pleasant View building. In the old part of the high school some braces gave way letting the roof settle far enough to crack the paper covering on it, causing numerous leaks, which did considerable damage to walls of the building. Carpenters put in temporary braces Thanksgiving morning. A new system of bracing will be installed as soon as the weather permits.

With material from the old junior high, a temporary storm door entrance will be built on the east side porch of the high school through which the junior high students enter.

Better Americans

(Editorial by Erubence Spight '23)

When people speak they either consciously or unconsciously express their habits and ideals of life. So it is with us citizens of the United States...

It is a known fact that in different countries and even in different communities or localities the same ideas are expressed in different words or phrasing. These different modes of expression have been named idioms.

Besides idioms, there are proverbs, more within the common class of ideas after all is the foundation and setting of a nation, have favorite barbarisms or vulgarisms. A good many of our barbarisms and proverbs or what might be called personality to our speaking but as great a number and possibly a good many more should be classed with the vulgarisms such as the common slang known very well to most of us.

It is the slang or barbarous part of our language that a large number of foreigners who came to the United States with the purpose of becoming citizens adopt first and most easily. It is no wonder since the slang is usually spoken with vehemence and with a more pronounced accent that it is easily remembered if not easily understood.

And if we wish to have the future Americans keep the same true ideals of our Pilgrim ancestors we must guard our speech so that true blue thoughts may be expressed in a perfect and American language.

WEDDINGS

Kingsley-Chipping

The wedding of Miss Annamie Chipping and Archibald Kingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kingsley, of Portland, was quietly solemnized at 3:30 Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chipping, Rev. W. H. Boddy officiating.

Original plans called for an elaborate church wedding, with a large guest list of Portland folk present. The snowstorm interfered, and it was feared for a time that Mr. Kingsley, who left Portland Saturday before last for a week-end visit and who was stranded en route, would not be here Saturday night and that the nuptial affair would have to be postponed.

Mr. Kingsley arrived by boat last night. Miss Eliza Gantman was bridesmaid. Henry Good was best man. The storm upset the plans of Miss Opal Callison, of this city, and Elmer Moore, whose wedding was to have occurred at Pendleton Wednesday of last week.

Miller-Higgins

After an 18-mile hike through the deep snows of the valley, failures to make train connections and disappointments to a patiently waiting wedding party that had assembled in Portland Thanksgiving evening, Glenn E. Miller, a young orchardist who lives near Mount Hood, and Miss Barbara Allen Higgins, of Parkdale, were married Friday evening by Rev. W. L. Van Nuy in the North Pacific Evangelistic institute.

All preparations had been made for the wedding for 4:30 o'clock Thanksgiving afternoon. Miss Higgins and Mr. Miller had been unable to communicate with their relatives and friends in Portland to effect a cancellation of the wedding arrangements due to the fact that the wires were down and that there were no train connections with Hood River.

"We cannot disappoint our friends' cutting in the snow had piled four feet deep in the valley. 'Let's walk to Hood River and catch a train to Portland.'"

From the family chest the silk wedding gown of her grandmother, Mrs. George W. Allen, and the bridal veil of her mother, Mrs. George F. Higgins, of Boston, were taken by Miss Higgins. These were wrapped carefully and placed on a sled, and the young couple, accompanied by Lester Miller, a brother of the groom-to-be, set out from their homes at 9 o'clock Thanksgiving morning.

The first few miles of the hike were made on the crust of the snow, but at the last end of the journey found the snow very soft and at times the hikers sank down waist deep. Mr. Miller and his brother helped the brave girl along and they arrived at the wedding party at 10:30 p. m., so they that might reach Portland.

The trio then crossed the Columbia river from Hood River to White Salmon, where they caught a North Bank train. This train was late. The wedding guests were waiting when 10 o'clock came. They moved up the marriage hour until 1 a. m. and waited. The couple arrived in Portland at 12:30 a. m. Friday, but concluded that the wedding had been postponed. They went to a hotel for the night.

Meanwhile Miss Allen and the guests assembled searched the city hotels by telephone for the young people, but could not locate them. The disappointed guests remained at the evangelistic institute until 2:30 a. m. and then went home.

Friday night they again assembled and this time Miss Higgins and Mr. Miller were on hand. Rev. Van Nuy performed the ceremony in the presence of 100 persons. Miss Florence Craven, a Rezer College girl, and Miss Florence Frazer were bridesmaids, and Miss Mary H. Allen was the maid of honor. R. Whitney Higgins, a brother, gave the bride away and Lester Miller acted as best man for his groom. Miss Catherine Taylor was flower girl.

In order that the hardships that were experienced by the young couple early in the morning of the wedding might be properly described, a male quartet sang an improvised song as the bride and groom entered for the ceremony.

wedding party entered for the ceremony.

Henderson-De Cillis

Local friends have just received news of the wedding, at Oakland, Calif., Thanksgiving day, of Robert L. Henderson, former local boy, and Miss Carmel De Cillis, daughter of Mrs. A. Mareau, of Oakland.

The groom, son of John Leland Henderson, of Tillamook, and brother of L. A. Henderson, of Oregon City, was an athletic star of the Hood River high school. During the great war he served with the Marine Corps.

SALES OF CHRISTMAS SEALS TO BEGIN

C. H. Vaughan, president of the Hood River Health Association, has appointed Mrs. A. G. Lewis county chairman of the Christmas seal sale which is to be held during the month of December. Sub-chairmen of the different districts have been named as follows: Hood River, Mrs. J. W. Ingalls; Pine Grove and Rose Hill, Mrs. P. B. Laraway; Wyeth, Mrs. Fred Vogel; Odell and Central Vale, Mrs. E. S. Shepard; Parkdale and Valley Crest, Mrs. R. J. McInaac; Dee, Mrs. J. H. Crenshaw; Barrett, Mrs. H. D. Steele; Oak Grove, Mrs. G. A. McCurdy; Frankton, Mrs. M. J. Foley; Cascade Locks, Mrs. Mallory; Mt. Hood and Middle Valley, Mrs. J. B. Dorett. These seals are issued by the Anti-Tuberculosis Association of Oregon and the proceeds are used toward fighting the great white plague and winning the state for good health.

Seals will be on sale at all public places including the schools, where pupils are urged to assist in the distribution. Seals are sold for a penny apiece and the quota for Hood River county is $400, one-fourth of which is to be used by the association for local work. Please use stamps generously; stamp every business and personal letter with a seal and use one or more on every Christmas package. Thereby an investigation, please the citizens more pronounced accent that it is easily remembered if not easily understood.

And if we wish to have the future Americans keep the same true ideals of our Pilgrim ancestors we must guard our speech so that true blue thoughts may be expressed in a perfect and American language.

While the accumulation of ice and snow covering the vicinity has not permitted a definite estimate of the damage caused at the Dee plant of the Oregon Lumber Co. last week when the trestle, crossing the river, was torn away by flood waters of the east fork of Hood river, the resultant debris shearing off the false work of a dam and destroying a bridge, J. W. West, who returned Tuesday from an investigation, places the damage at a figure somewhere between $5,000 and $10,000. About 10 carloads of logs, or 50,000 feet, were rushed away in the flood.

The mill has closed for the season, as a result of the storm, and repairs of the damage will not be undertaken until the snow and sleet have melted.

BLACK BEAUTY A Famous Story made into a Master Picture. All the elements that go into a combination to make life invigorating, enjoyable and entertaining have been interwoven into this simple story of life in 1870. The rainy day in which the bridge across the river was swept away and "BLACK BEAUTY" saved his master's life; the rescue of the horses from the burning stable; the hunt; the race between horse and locomotive are some of the big spectacular scenes in this film that cost AN ENORMOUS AMOUNT TO PRODUCE. It is as sweet and clean a story as ever was filmed. For years the book has been read and re-read by children and adults and ranks in popularity with the first half dozen classics of all time. THIS STORY CAN BE ENJOYED IN PICTURE FORM BY GRANDPARENTS AND INFANTS ALIKE. THIS MAKES IT ONE OF THE GREATEST "FAMILY PICTURES" EVER PRESENTED TO THE PUBLIC. The Film is Greater than the Book. The one film you cannot afford to miss. It will be remembered as the masterpiece of 1921. also BROWNIE, the Wonder Dog and Baby Jean Perry in "Brownie's Little Venus" A swift moving comedy with the cleverest animals in the world. "THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST." EDITH KNIGHT HILL TO ADDRESS WOMEN OVERLAND DRIVEN IN OVER SNOW Motorists the first of the week's hard work of digging out stranded cars and having them towed to the city behind tractors. Scores of automobiles, however, because of the intervening slides and drifts, will have to remain on the Highway until crews have cleared the road. The most remarkable recovery reported so far was made by W. E. Sullivan and Sumner D. Cameron, owners of the Overland Co., one of whose Overland runabouts was stuck in a snow drift on the Highway just west of the Columbia Gorge hotel. The men declined summoning a tractor to pull them in. Mr. Sullivan took the wheel Monday afternoon and headed towards town. Two men, one on each side of the road, armed with shovels, preceded the staunch little car. Every time an insurmountable bit of drift was encountered they wielded their shovels and slowly but surely the machine made its way the two miles to town. The distance was negotiated in 90 minutes.
