WHITE SALMON

Those in a position to know say there is more wood being cut at the present time in the section than in many years ago. A crew of cutters is engaged on the stretch of road opened up above Husum last season and they will cut 100 ricks for the county. Another crew is working on the Larsen hill, and their contract calls for 100 cords of 16-inch stove wood. In nearly every wood lot cutters are busy and the wood harvest promises to be a heavy one. Mrs. T. J. Shaw was the recipient of a pleasant surprise Sunday evening, January 15, when a number of her intimate friends and members of her family called at her home in the nature of a surprise, and reminded her that the date was the 29th anniversary of her birth. The evening was spent in pleasant conversation, and with refreshments and reminiscences of the early pioneer life of the honor guest, made an evening gathering long to be remembered. Mrs. Shaw is one of the remaining few who braved the hard experiences of early pioneer life and assisted in carving a home in the wilderness of western Klickitat county when the nearest neighbor was miles away and roads to market unknown.

K. P. BAND SHOW SCORES BIG HIT

If it had been dull the 1,000 and more Hood River men and women and children who were at the Kialto theatre last Friday and Saturday nights to see the talent and beauty of the city in "The Land of Happiness" might have complained at the length of the show. But it was interesting from rising curtain until the chorus participated in the finale. Considering the limited time of rehearsals the amateur show was remarkably good. It was a riot of action, some songs and much nonsense, which is a good thing for the rest of men now and then, and the stage settings and costumes could not be bettered by the best trained professional players, whose backers would be liberal in expenditures. The applause was generous and the laughter on an occasion or two was uproarious. The show was produced for the Knights of Pythias band, who will utilize their portion of the proceeds in the purchase of new uniforms, by the Stewart-Hillam Co. Art Stewart, R. W. Hillam and Jack Alden, who drilled the players, took leading parts, but their appearance was far less interesting than that of local boys and girls. Paul and Fred Reed, end men in the minstrel show of the first act, gave the show more laugh kicks than all of the others put together. These brothers also were chief participants in the last act, wherein the musical comedy sketch embodying ludicrous incidents of the South Sea Isles was presented. The songs of Misses Dorothy Rand, Betty Staten and Alberta Carson were appealing. The grace and beauty of Misses Leona Van Allen and Dorothy Garrabrant in "The Spring Dance" won applause and encores. No number, however, presented a picture of greater sweetness than that of tiny little Misses Henrietta Brazeau and Verlene Nickelsen in "Dance of the Marionettes." In the "Jungle Land" part of the program R. W. Hillam took the part of Chief Kookoo, king of a cannibal island. His make-up was the most fantastic ever seen in Hood River. He was an animated totem pole, whose facial contortions were nightmarish. Other participants in the show, already mentioned were: Tom Lethean, C. W. McCormack, Mayhew Carson and Alfred P. Neal, who won applause in a solo. Miss Irene Fewel executed one of the solos of the solo dances of the first act, giving "The Incense Dance." During the intermission Walter Wells pleased the audience with a violin solo. He was accompanied by Mr. Meade. The cast of characters in "Jungle Land" included: Me Likumblood, secretary to king, Fred Reed; Guardo, who protects the chief, C. W. McCormack; Me Katch-umskall, chief executioner, Frank Morse; Mrs. Moneybags, with ambitions for a title, Gertrude Horne; Peggy Moneybags, her daughter, Miss Dorothy Rand. Mickey, One Round Flynn, the tough wicket, Paul Reed; Jack Wertherly, in quest of Peggy, Art Stewart; Princess Geegee Feegee Prettyface, Miss Betty Staten; The Six Little Wives—Leona Van Allen, Dorothy Garrabrant, Jana Carson, Gladys Bright, Geraldine Chenewick, Eleanor Derby. The K. of P. Band orchestra, C. D. Nickelsen, director, was: Miss Opal Walker, piano; Walter Wells, violin; Geo. Zolls, clarinet; Ed Poyer, clarinet; Harry Conway, cornet; Harold Metcalf, cornet; A. L. Page, French horn; L. F. Brazeau, trombone; Milton Forbes, trap drums. Ladies of the chorus were: Alice Carson, Geraldine Chenewick, Cheryl Smith, Helen Jones, Jane Carson, Lucille Davis, Myrna Rogers, Irene Fewel, Bernice McKowen, Emily McKowen, Eleanor Derby, Lucille Ferguson, Geneva Nickelsen, Dorothy Rand, Dorothy Garrabrant, Bernice Campbell, Gladys Bright, Leona Van Allen, Mildred Rogers, Henrietta Brazeau, Alberta Carson, Verlene Nickelsen. Gentlemen of the chorus: O. M. Rogers, Paul Reed, Alfred R. Neal, G. Russell Volstorff, G. A. Edward Volstorff, Fred C. Reed, Mayhew Carson, Lloyd Loving, Wayne Mendenhall, Carl Carson, Glenn Mendenhall, Carl Orians, Floyd Dickson, H. F. Morse, C. W. McCormack, Tom Lethean, Ed Eric, Albert Caldwell, Kenneth Fisher, C. C. Cuddeford, Jack Alden.

FISH, FURS AND FEATHERS

An appeal from Sheriff Johnson to owners of dogs to pay their state license fees resulted in a run on the office. County Clerk Shoemaker, Sheriff Johnson cited that the supreme court has declared constitutional the legislative act establishing the dog license law. Dog owners who fail to comply with the law, Mr. Johnson states, will lose their dogs and have to pay additional costs and fees of $10. "The notice evidently did the work," said Mr. Shoemaker. "I have written licenses totaling $50 and exhausted my stock of collars, provided for under the law, since Mr. Johnson made his announcement."

STANDARD OIL TO TELL OF BLOSSOMS

Hood River will receive some favorable publicity from the Standard Oil Bulletin, published monthly by the Standard Oil Company of California. In response to a call for an article from headquarters, District Manager Peffer has forwarded a story and photographs to be used in the March number of the publication. It will be called the "Blossom Time" issue. The letter received by Mr. Peffer from J. E. Balsey, Portland manager of the company, follows: "It has been decided to take 'blossom time' as the subject for the March issue of the Standard Oil Bulletin. Photographs and data are required covering the story from the angle of the fruit districts. Information is especially wanted regarding the trips of city dwellers who make a pilgrimage into the fruit district at blossom—providing they do. It is planned to deal with this subject from two angles—first, in its relation to the services the company renders the fruit growers, and second, because of its bearing on motor touring, as blossom season practically inaugurates spring touring in many states."
