HIGH TAXES

The commission that has been studying Oregon taxes has placed the responsibility for the state's tax burdens. It is the people themselves, members of the commission state, who cause high taxes.

We raise mighty protests against the extravagance of congress and state legislatures, and yet every set of citizens with a hobby does not hesitate to hasten to the tax budget board or submit tax-paying provisions at elections.

HIGHWAY SURPLUS

Award of contracts on the last two remaining units of the valley trunk of the Mount Hood Loop Highway at figure far below estimates available last summer, when a bond issue of $350,000 was voted by the county in participating with the state on a 50-50 basis in constructing the road, indicates that the county will have a surplus of more than $100,000.

The contract on the Booth Hill section, five miles now being graded, was awarded for $56,000. The Booth Hill-Hood River unit, chiefly heavy rock construction, will cost $114,000, an award having been made last week.

A HEALTHY SIGN

The following, taken from a recent report of the Hood River Business Men's Association, carried a note of cheer:

From this week's record you will note that not a single real estate mortgage was executed in Hood River county, while seven mortgages were satisfied.

Hood River has been treated to some moving pictures shows of great merit the past few weeks. "Over the Hill," with its story of mother love, was appealing from every standpoint. Comedy and pathos were intermingled. The spectator was not merely entertained by the flashing in front of him of pictures with a shallow sentiment.

Steinmetz is the modern Zeas. This wizard of electricity, conducting research, not for destructive purposes but in order to evolve some system for arresting the lightning bolts that leap during summer storms from the skies, has created apparatus with which he can sit at his desk, where, by the mere pressing of buttons, as harmless as those of your home light switch, he can send crashing miniature thunder bolts.

George Shima, Japanese potato king, and his American associate, George L. Burt, have announced a victory on the part of central Oregon American Legion bodies. The potato men will dispose of land on which plans called for Japanese colonization. This is well, for the Nipponese colonies would eventually have resulted in embarrassing friction.

Citizens should commend and support by their attendance the recently inaugurated debating contests between teams of Oregon high schools. Another feature of school life that is deserving of heartiest cooperation of all is the annual county oratorical contest.

The brief talk at the recent Commercial club meeting by Rev. Sykes contained a thought worthy of some elaboration. Why, said Mr. Sykes, should residents of a community overlook the meritorious qualities of their home workers and allow outsiders to first behold their value and be first to offer promotion?

March is like an individual torn by indecision over choice of two diametrically opposed courses. The month, part winter and part spring, doesn't seem to be able to remain with certainty a medium of Boreas' frenzy, and yet she can't definitely decide on hurrying on with balmy breezes to lift the rock violets' heads from leaf mould of sunny highway nooks.

Those operators of motion picture shows at Seaside and Bend are wise. They have realized the necessity of regularizing their wares. Going to the picture show is developed largely by habit. The weather of the past winter has tended to destroy this habit.

A news dispatch tells of a Semitic poker player in New York City who drew a pot royal flush. He died as he started to open the pot. It makes us think of that classic of mining days: Little Willie held four aces. But the sharper held his pistol. At the little bunch of Whiskers on his chin.

Honors are even with Marshall Hart and Sheriff Johnson. Both nabbed the shiners and got the shine Sunday.

Surely spring is at hand. The druggists are advertising sassafras bark.

Lent began yesterday. Maybe the weather will be good.

Hurrah! The Highway is open again!

Spring is here—we hope.

MOONSHINE GETS THREE IN TOILS

Merton Dakin, was fined $50 and sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday by Justice of the Peace Onthank on a charge of possessing moonshine liquor. City Marshal Hart's department found a keg in Mr. Dakin's home. The fine was paid and the jail sentence suspended.

LOUISE LOVELY GIVES PORTLAND SERMON

The unusual spectacle of a beautiful actress preaching an inspiring little sermon from the pulpit of a leading church was witnessed by an interested crowd of churchgoers who filled every available seat in First Congregational church Sunday night when Miss Louise Lovely, motion picture star, played the role of a minister, says the Oregonian.

Mr. Perigo's Uncle Passes

J. W. Perigo has just received a letter from a cousin, Mrs. M. C. Donaldson, of Orling, Wash., announcing the tragic death there of his only uncle, C. L. Youngblood, aged 96. Mr. Youngblood, whose eyesight was poor and who was almost deaf, was struck by a freight car, being killed instantly, according to Mrs. Donaldson's letter. Funeral services were held at Seattle.

Masonic Dance Tonight

The fifth of a series of winter dances will be given tonight by the Masonic Lodge at the Columbia George hotel. The social affairs have been among the most pleasant here this winter, and members of families of Masons from all parts of the mid-Columbia have been present. A dinner will be served the guests by Miss Howl Thiele. Card tables will be provided those not dancing.

Grand Jury Chosen

The grand jury selected at the session of circuit court, now convened, for the ensuing three months, consists of the following citizens: Frank A. Cram, foreman; C. H. Clymer, C. E. Fuller, R. A. Collins, A. W. Isbell, C. H. Sprout and Frank E. Matt.

PINE GROVE BOND ISSUE IS DEFEATED

The Pine Grove school patrons Friday defeated a proposed $35,000 building bond issue by a vote of 69 to 45. Heavy land owners, who declared that the old building would suffice by remodeling, killed the issue. It is said the election was spirited, feeling running high between the factions. Numerous votes were challenged.

UPPER VALLEY SPUDS READY TO MOVE

J. F. Thompson, Upper Valley rancher here Monday for the first time since the snowstorm of November, says that potato growers of the district, will soon be able to get at pits and to place on the market tubers stored last fall. He estimates an approximate 50 cars of potatoes remaining in the district. Dealers are now offering from $1.25 to $1.40 per bag. Those whose tubers are free from disease will sell for considerably higher prices, the demands for seed product being keen.

LEGION POST HAS BULLETIN BOARD

The American Legion Post will erect a bulletin board at the Commercial club rooms, where data on the operation of the Bonus law will be kept posted. The Post Monday adopted a resolution commending National Commander McNider for declining to accept appointment to the United States Senate, stating that he would not use his position in the Legion as a political stepping stone.

City Council News

The city council has adopted an ordinance for a sewer district for a new residence section on the west Heights. The council has ruled that permits for irrigation by patrons of the city water system will be issued this year for the season only. A charge of $4 will be made for the full summer season. The minimum charge for fractional parts of the season will be $2.

WEDDINGS

Hood River folk were surprised Tuesday to learn of the wedding, in Portland Saturday, of C. C. Crew, and Miss Ellen Dolliver. Numerous friends congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Crew, as they passed their honeymoon at the First National Bank, where Mr. Crew is teller and his bride stenographer. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Theresa Dolliver of Imperial, Sask.

Storm Damages Flume

The winter's snowstorms have caused heavy damage to a new flume constructed from the upper reaches of the Little White Salmon river to Hood, Wash., last summer by the Drano Flume & Lumber Co. The amount of the damage has not been estimated. Long stretches of the heavily constructed trestles, made sufficiently strong to carry logs, have been demolished. The wreckage can be seen by motorists touring over the Columbia River Highway.

Prize Cow Has Daughter

Born, to Goldie's Nebahem Beauty, celebrated world's record and gold medal Jersey cow of the herd of Watt & Acres, at Valhalla, a vigorous young daughter, from a St. Maw's sire.

THE WEATHER

Hood River last week emerged from winter as suddenly as it was plunged into a 100-day period of unprecedented frigid weather November 18 last fall. After a week of clear cold days and low temperatures, the wind changed to the west and Apple Valley residents awoke Friday to find a lighter shower prevailing. Robins were chattering in trees and sparrows twittered a welcome to the breezes, balmy in comparison with the weather that has been prevailing.

Judge Wilson always brings a chinook wind, when he comes down from the Dalles for sessions of court. Last Thursday his visit was accompanied by a change in the weather. Those who have been watching the coincidences of his winter-time visits, say they expect his session of court begun Monday to inaugurate real spring here.

DEE MILL CUTTING REPAIR LUMBER

The mill of the Oregon Lumber Co. began operations Monday, turning out lumber to be used in repairing a logging road bridge and trestle across the east fork of Hood river, which was washed out last November by floods following the heavy sleet and snow storm. A small tract of timber near Dee will be logged for the bridge work.

Inspection of the system of the Dee Power & Irrigation Co., which waters orchard tracts of Dee Flat, shows a heavy damage from the storm. More than 1,000 feet of flume have been washed out or demolished by slides. A. H. Chambers, N. G. Geo. W. Thomson, Secretary.
