Visitors to the office of the Transfer & Livery Co. the past week have noted the absence of the office clock. They miss the kindly faced timepiece, one of the most noted of Hood River. The clock was brought from London by Mr. Loftis. It was formerly in an office of one of the famed hay docks of the metropolis. It looked upon the activities attending shipment of thousands of bales of hay to South Africa during the Boer war. The clock is out being mended.

Interest in the coming season of grand opera in Portland this week, when the Chicago Grand Opera Company will appear at the extensive repertoire at the Public Auditorium, is expressed by residents of all fruit sections. Scores of folk will motor down over the Columbia River Highway. No theatrical attraction has ever created such local interest. Teachers from various schools will be present. Local folk, in numerous instances, are planning opera parties.

Three soloists are traveling with the orchestra, Lora Tesner, cellist, Alberta Potter, violinist, and Kay Graham, drum soloist. Miss Tesner traveled all of last summer with Thurrow Lieurene's Little Symphony orchestra, and will join this organization again after the completion of the university school of music.

U. OF O. SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA COMING

An event which will be anticipated by Hood River music lovers is the concert to be presented in the Rialto theatre Friday evening, March 31, by the University of Oregon Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Rex Underwood. This is the first appearance of the university musicians in Hood River in the first tour the orchestra has made of eastern Oregon, and much enthusiasm has been aroused by the announcement that the Symphony will appear here.

Composed of 25 picked musicians from all over the state, the orchestra has a personnel that can hardly be excelled in quality. Its success in previous appearances has been unquestioned and the concert to be presented here will be one of finished excellence and quality. The program will be composed of mixed selections, varying from heavy orchestral music such as the Overture from "William Tell," by Rossini, to light, fanciful numbers such as the "March of the Leaden Soldiers," which was the biggest hit of the Barre Ensemble that toured the coast last winter.

Three soloists are traveling with the orchestra, Lora Tesner, cellist, Alberta Potter, violinist, and Kay Graham, drum soloist. Miss Tesner traveled all of last summer with Thurrow Lieurene's Little Symphony orchestra, and will join this organization again after the completion of the university school of music.

DERBY ENGAGED ON WATER ADJUDICATION

Judge Derby returned Monday from Bend, where he is engaged in launching formalities to precede the adjudication of water rights of the Deschutes river. Judge Derby is attorney representing various irrigation interests of the big hinterland.

Deschutes county, according to a report prepared at Salem, will be the center of irrigation activities in Oregon during the year 1922. Six irrigation districts, two Carey act projects and one private project, all desiring to obtain water from the Deschutes river, are showing marked activity. Some of these desire allotments of water, others ask authority to sell bonds and others to engage in actual construction work. The total area involved is approximately 230,000 acres, of which 70,000 acres are now irrigated.

The Jefferson conservancy district, the largest of these projects, comprises about 100,000 acres and has voted bonds in the amount of $5,000,000 for its construction work. The Tumalo district has authorized the issuance of $500,000 in bonds and is negotiating with the Walker Basin Irrigation Company for the purchase of Crescent Lake for a storage basin. This district proposes to complete the reclamation of 16,000 acres, of which 8,000 are now irrigated.

The North Canal Company has taken over the Central Oregon Irrigation Company's project and proposes to reclaim about 20,000 acres under the Carey act.

The Powell Butte Irrigation District and West Unit Irrigation District are seeking Federal aid in water from the Deschutes, as is also the Arnold ditch, while the Lone Pine Irrigation District is endeavoring to get a water supply through the canal of the Central Oregon Irrigation District.

The Walker Basin Carey act project contemplates the cancellation of its east unit and the completion of its 10,000 acres of west unit. In addition to projects that are dependent on the Deschutes river for a water supply, there are several others in the Deschutes country. The Suttles Lake project of some 15,000 acres in Jefferson county, lying west of the Deschutes river, proposes to store water in Suttles Lake and divert the stored water together with the direct flow of Lake creek and First creek. This project is awaiting a favorable opportunity for financing.

MR. WOODRUFF MAKES STATEMENT

The following is a message received by The Glacier Monday by Dwight L. Woodruff, former New York City sales manager of the Apple Growers Association, who is now manager of a large cooperative concern at Wenatchee: Wenatchee, Wash., March 19, 1922. Editor Glacier: In your issue of March 16 you refer to Mr. Stone's statement which would indicate I was discharged by the Apple Growers Association. This, however, is not true in any particular. I voluntarily resigned my position. Have had no reason to regret my action; have not asked to be reinstated nor for commendation; neither do I expect to. Please be fair enough to me to publish this in full. Dwight L. Woodruff.

FIREMEN TO PRESENT "WAY DOWN EAST"

"Way Down East," declared as one of the best shows ever scheduled for Hood River, will be presented at the Rialto Sunday, Monday and Tuesday by the Fire Department. The proceeds will be utilized next July in entertaining a trainload of New England fire underwriters, en route to a San Francisco exposition. Firemen have been successful in selling out tickets fairly well.
