WHO WOULDN'T OWN AN AVOCADO TREE?

(By A. D. Moe.)

While in California, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Miller, of Loma, we were indebted to them for many interesting trips to the surrounding country, and one of these was to Whittier, a neighboring town. It was in this neighborhood that three oil wells blew up, leaving huge craters where the derricks and machinery once stood. These explosions are caused by the drillers striking a gas pocket, which blows out through the well with such force that it carries everything with it, demolishing everything in its path and ruining the well. When the gas can be controlled, or where it comes through the pipe, without blowing it up, it becomes a "gas-cr." These wells often catch fire and make a spectacular blaze that lights up the country for miles.

Whittier lies on the coast route from Los Angeles to San Diego, and is 14 miles from the former city, being located on the Whittier road. Like many of the neighboring cities, it is a residence place of beautiful homes, artistic gardens, shady streets and fine business blocks. The many varied industries in and around the city add to its commercial prosperity, the walnut groves alone contributing $2,000,000 annually. The oil wells in this district have a daily production of over 90,000 barrels, while the citrus fruit shipments in this district amount to over 3,000 cars annually.

Whittier was founded in 1887 by members of the Society of Friends (or Quakers) and adopted its name from the Quaker poet, John Greenleaf Whittier. This society built the first church edifice in the city, and among the present 27 churches it is still the largest, and has the distinction of being the largest Quaker church in the world with 1,200 members. We visited this building and found it a commodious and imposing structure, finely furnished, with roomy class rooms, banquet hall and well-appointed kitchen.

We were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and the Misses Seward, who formerly came of from Green Lake county, Wis., the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Millard, whose my grandfather settled on the shores of Green Lake in the '50s. The brother and two sisters, all unmarried, are living happily together in this peaceful Quaker town, and received us with the old-fashioned plain hospitality that took us back to the days of our youth.

Among the interesting industries, of California new to us was the cultivation of the avocado, or alligator pear, now receiving considerable attention from horticulturists. Whittier is the first home of the avocado in California. The parent tree, brought from Mexico, is growing here. Of an excellent variety this tree was used to bud the young seedlings that were planted after it was found that the fruit could be grown successfully in that climate. In one year over $3,000 worth of fruit and buds were old from this parent tree. The owner insured it in Lloyd's for $20,000, and was required to build a high fence around it for protection.

Cyrus Way, a neighbor of the Swards, has been experimenting with avocados and other fruits, and is called the Burbank of Whittier. A visit to his home revealed many interesting specimens of the avocado. He has succeeded in propagating a number of varieties, so that he has ripe fruit on the trees every month in the year. From one of his trees we picked two specimens and brought them home. The avocado is considered a great delicacy and sells in the California markets for 35 to 75 cents each, and some of the restaurants in Los Angeles serve them regularly for $1.50 each. They are used largely as a salad dressing, giving it an oily, nutty flavor. The product of a tree in full bearing sells for $200 to $300. The tree is very sensitive to frost, and many trees were killed this winter in California, yet Mr. Way's location in Whittier seems to be about as near frostless as any section in that state, and no damage was done his trees. He and the Swards have planted some of the trees in the parking between the sidewalk and the street. Asked if they were not afraid the fruit would be stolen, Mr. Way remarked:

"If I planted shade trees instead of avocados, no one, not even myself, would get any fruit."

The avocado is being planted in several sections of the state where danger of frost is small, the large profits being attractive to growers. One nursery near Whittier makes a specialty of them. They are grown extensively in Mexico and the Hawaiian Islands, but are yet quite new in California and, on account of the limited output are still very high in price, but those who have acquired a taste for them buy them readily when on the market. As the districts where they can be successfully grown are limited, growers do not fear an over-production which will cause a glutted market and unprofitable prices.

Hood River Boys Are Making Good

Carroll Huxley, whose father, H. M. Huxley, was formerly a local fruit man, according to word received by his aunt, Mrs. E. H. Hartwig, stands second highest in his grades among the 2,500 students of the Los Angeles Polytechnic high school. Young Huxley, who attended local schools until he was 12 years old, and his first cousin, Leslie McGuire, are both making records as students in the south. Carroll plays the violin, piano and organ. His father was leader of the high school orchestra for a time. He has composed a number of piano pieces. Young Mr. McGuire bids fair to make a name for himself as a vocalist. He has been praised by Prof. F. X. Arens, well known vocal teacher.

"The twelve boys making the highest grades at the Polytechnic school," says Mrs. Hartwig, "were recently called on the stage and presented with scholarships. It was a proud moment for them. The school is attended by many millionaires' sons. Leslie, in addition to his singing, plays wonderfully well on the saxophone."

The boys are grandsons of Mrs. Annette Enticah, who now resides at Atascadero, Calif.

A Farmer Cured of Rheumatism

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and told him to use it freely," says C. F. Rayner, Patton Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment; I want it in the house all the time for it cured me."

IT BUILT UP HER STRENGTH AFTER THE FLU

Again Like Old Time Self
Seattle Woman Says Tania Is Just The Thing For Those Who Suffer As She Did.

"I believe the 'flu' saps the vitality of everybody who has it. I know it did mine, and I never got my strength back until I began taking Tania," said Mrs. F. Read, 1125 North 83rd St., Seattle, Wash.

"I wasn't only weak and run down, but I also suffered a great deal from heartburn and no matter how little I ate, I was miserable for hours afterwards."

"Since taking Tania I eat anything I want, my digestion is splendid and I feel like my old self again. I think it is only my duty to recommend Tania to those who suffer like I did."

Tania is sold in Hood River by the Kresse Drug Co.—Adv.

Preventative Medicine

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

Lost Man Sought Here

Mrs. Ida M. Morton, of Boston, has written local authorities seeking her father, Samuel W. Whitmore, who, she says, was last heard of in Hood River. No one has been found who knows anything about the missing man.

The Road to Happiness

You must keep well if you wish to be happy. When constipated take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. They cause a gentle movement of the bowels.
