WELCOME, T. P. AGENTS

Traveling Passenger Agents of the nation's great railway systems, we welcome you to the Hood River Valley today. We are modest folk out here and haven't much to say about our climate, our products and our scenery. Indeed, we would rather let our visitors pass comments of praise.

We do want you to remember the Hood River Valley after you have returned to your posts of duty, and next year when you are routing tourists, recall the appeal of the shimmering snow fields and glaciers of Mount Hood, the row on row of apple trees, the air, filled with spice of the apples and balsam laden. Remember these things and that we people of Hood River are not selfish. We like to have visitors. We enjoy showing our valley to the world.

Above all, we ask you to divert some of those Americans who would travel to Europe to spend vacation dollars. We are assuming that the Northwest has sold itself to you on this trip. Let your eloquence sell it to those Americans who seem to prefer Europe. Tell them about all of the wonders to be found in Oregon, Alaska, Washington and British Columbia. They'll thank you when they arrive out here.

OAK GROVE SHOULD BE PROUD

Five of the seven Hood River county school children who will go to Salem next week as guests of the state, the free trip being given as a reward for efforts in producing excellent displays and demonstrations, are from Oak Grove. They are: Viena Hukari, Marie Samuelsen and Irma Annala, of the canning team; Ernest Annala, for club work; and Fred Miller, for stock judging. The Oak Grove school children received an aggregate of $18.25 in cash prizes at the school fair. Those Oak Grove parents are even prouder than the children.

The school fair was gratifyingly successful. Oak Grove deserves praise for the energy and enterprise of her coming citizens, but just as much praise should go to sister districts. The work of every school was worthy of high praise.

It is a wise man who knows when to quit talking. Walter M. Pierce presents some convincing facts and figures to his audience when he makes his political speeches. Mr. Pierce has a wonderful flow of language, but his talks would probably be more effective, could he close the spigot at the proper moment. We make this comment after observing Mr. Pierce at Pine Grove Monday night. Mr. Pierce grew bigger than the Democratic party, under whose banner he is waging his campaign, before he finished his speech. Indeed, he repudiated party and placed the principles of Walter M. Pierce above organization of any kind. He nominated himself as "Free Lance" Walter. We wonder what Judge Tom Crawford and some of those other real Democrats of Oregon think of such remarks of Walter. It was Hamlet's wife or mother or some close relative, wasn't it, who talked too much? We are willing to bet a pretty penny that Judge Crawford thinks Mr. Pierce is a bit like Hamlet's mother.

Mr. Vinton digressed somewhat the other night in his Pine Grove speech to congratulate the nation on remaining out of the League of Nations. If we had effected this great national organization, with America at its helm, Mr. Vinton intimated that today America's soldiers would be called to fight the Mohammedans. It is not improbable that America, if the Near East were really getting going, will be called on to aid in subduing it. The League of Nations, as it was proposed by William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes, would have reduced to the minimum the inception of such contingencies as we now behold down around Constantinople.

Just when the world ought to be going back to work, Turkey kindles the flames of war again. Before the days of the close commercial relationships that characterize this age one faraway half of the world could zap in war unto death and not affect the other half. Not so now; such a war as is brewing in the Near East soon showers its sparks on neighbors, and e'er we comprehend it international hall is loosed like the crown fire of a heavy forest.

We have a feeling that those "Rough Writers" had a wholesome respect for Frank Branch Riley after the Mazama campfire at Lancaster's camp the other night.

Here on the Oregon side of the mid-Columbia we read with interest of the development of the roads and highways in Skamania and Klickitat counties. Because of our peculiar topography, the exploitation of Mount Adams and the lake districts of Skamania county must necessarily be the work of Oregon rather than Washington.

It's all over now, and no harm was done, but the fire of Tuesday night, set for ridding the city of the old rubbish on Railroad avenue, might have been serious if fire had originated at that time in some other part of the city. Those ordering the fire meant well, but it was a risky task.

The rescuers were too late down at the Argonaut mine. Death beat them into the earth's depths, and hope fled while 47 heroes lost in their fight with poisonous gas. The tragedy has become the nation's, and grief was expressed in every home for those who survived the brave miners.

The "Rough Writers," missed seeing Mount Hood from the orchards of the Hood River Valley. It is rare that the U. P. system ever falls down. But in this instance they let slide an opportunity. The Hood River Valley trip would have formed one of the climactic hours of the notables on their Northwestern jaunt.

Some Hood River boy or girl has a good opportunity of winning the American Legion essay prize, on the subject, "How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation," by giving the facts and aspirations connected with the Mount Hood Climber.

The Hood River American Legion Mount Hood Climber is due to become the national mountain climbing classic of America.

What is Walter M. Pierce trying to do when he repudiates all parties, trying to steal Charles Hall's thunder? Some of those Bosc pears, if they keep on growing, will exceed the state's big cucumbers e'er long.

The season's first bad colds and the buzz of the wood saw are prophetic of the coming of winter.

The Pippin's cheek is beginning to blush.

ODD FELLOW CONVENTION APPROACHES

The local Odd Fellows Lodge is making elaborate preparations for the annual district convention of the Odd Fellows from Hood River, Wasco, Sherman and Morrow counties here October 2. Preparations are being made to entertain 400 out of town members of the fraternal organization.

The Odd Fellows have secured the Pythian hall for the evening, and meetings will be held at both places. A banquet and parade will be features of the convention.

Better Sidewalk Bids Expected

The city council, which has called for new bids on construction of a large number of concrete sidewalks, expects better results than obtain when bids on the same work were opened recently. But a single contractor had sought the work. The dearth of bids, it was said, came from a cement famine.

The council meeting, postponed from Monday, when no quorum was present will be held tonight.

B. & S. Get Maupin School

The Baldwin & Swope Construction Co., has just received the award for constructing a new $20,000 concrete high school building at Maupin. The structure, which will have two classrooms, a gymnasium and assembly hall, will be of the cottage type. It will be ready for occupancy by January 1.

Clipped Here and There

* Swearing in the presence of children is a reprehensible habit which reacts as a boomerang to the man who does it. A child respects its parents and others for what it finds them to be. It judges them from their acts as it sees and hears them. When another teaches a child that swearing is wrong, what must the child think of the father who swears in the presence of his own? —Dufur Dispatch.

Joe Wilson and Will Langille, of Hood River, among the first to go to the Klondike in the Alaska gold rush, were heard from. They had reached January, and sent back for a team and a wagon with which they expected to make expeditions during the winter by trucking. —The Dalles Chronicle of September 7, 1897.
