Captures First Place and Class Cup

Thirteen other makes of cars, including lighter four-cylinder cars, yielded to the Oakland Six's phenomenal record of 65.17 miles—36.92 actual miles per gallon! Never before in an official contest has a motor car traveled 360 miles—up steep mountain grades and over all kinds of roads—on only 9.75 gallons of gasoline.

Do you wonder that Oakland can definitely prove the superior quality of its car on the basis of "known mileage"? Buy consistent economy—buy proved performance—buy known mileage! You can get all of these things only in the Oakland—the car built by a division of General Motors to be the finest light-stx.

NEW BEE INSPECTOR LAW IS EFFECTIVE

The county court is now engaged in looking over a field, which, however, is without applicants, for the appointment of a bee inspector under a legislative law providing for county bee inspectors became effective. The time limit for registration of bee colonies was placed at 30 days after the date on which the law became effective.

Hood River county has no commercial apiaries, but many orchardists endeavor to keep a few hives of bees, not for the honey but that the insects may promote the pollenization of fruit blossoms. Under the law individual owners of colonies of bees, or corporations owning them must at once report them to the county clerk. Failure to comply with the regulations may lead to a fine of $10 to $100. County Judge Hasbrouck says he knows of at least two bee trees in the valley. He wonders if it will be necessary for the timber companies owning the land to be subject to the new law.

License fees are $1 for each colony of bees of which location of more than five, with or without broods. It is unlawful in this connection to have hives to which there is not free access to all parts.

Fees derived from the sale of licenses and part of the fines assessed against violators of the law are to go into a bee fund from which the salaries or fees of the bee inspector and other incidental costs of operation of the law are to be paid.

Mr. Castner Taken for Governor

Mrs. Chas. H. Castner, retiring Grand Matron of the Oregon Eastern Star, who has just returned from Portland, tells a good story on her husband, who on several occasions was taken for Governor last week.

Mr. Castner accompanied Mrs. Castner to Portland for the meeting of the Eastern Star grand lodge. Governor Pierce was one of the speakers at the meeting. While the address of Mr. Castner would never take him for the governor, a resemblance was noted by a number of strangers. Last Friday after the governor's address, Mr. Castner, as he walked through the lobby of the Imperial Hotel, was congratulated by several women and one man on the excellence of the governor's talk.

The Home of the Soul

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely satisfied until when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

GENERAL LIGGETT CHARMED BY VALLEY

General Hunter Liggett, who is now retired in San Francisco, where he is one of the most enthusiastic members of the American Legion Post, quietly gave the Hood River Valley the once over Wednesday and Thursday of last week and slipped back to Portland before residents realized that so distinguished a citizen soldier was being charmed by their scenic mountains, hills and expanses of river. General and Mrs. Liggett came here as guests of General and Mrs. Geo. A. Wilts, Wednesday afternoon they were driven by Major Van Horn to Mt. Hood Lodge, returning to the Columbia Gorge Hotel, where Capt. Geo. H. Wilbur, commander of the Department of Oregon, American Legion, joined the visitors and Major Van Horn for dinner.

Thursday, while other members of the party enjoyed a late sleep in the cool mid-Columbia atmosphere, General Liggett was up early, drinking in the views of surrounding gorge and forest lands and pastoral scenes of orchard district.

"You people here in Oregon ought to tell the rest of the world what you have," he declared. "I didn't know until this visit to Portland that you had such a place as the Columbia Gorge Hotel. Your valley is a wonderful. Its setting amidst the foothills and surrounding peaks is superb. You would have thousands and thousands of visitors if they knew what awaited them. I never really made a Columbia River Highway trip until yesterday when we came on up here and toured up through your valley. On two former occasions, however, I journeyed out from Portland as far as Multnomah Falls."

General Liggett, who was in command of the first army in France, is general chairman of the coming national American Legion convention to be held in San Francisco. He said his journey to Portland was taken just to see General White and to secure a little rest from the work of preparing for the great convention. General Liggett is a real he-American and a loyal Legion worker. He declared that every ex-service man should affiliate himself with the organization and engage in a public expression of national topics.

"Our country is being ruled too much now a days," said General Liggett, "by noise-making minorities while the good citizenry sits supinely by and lets them get away with their nonsensical and their hobbies. It is time for all of us to bear the burden of a little work and allow our frank expressions to be felt on public problems. The American Legion can, if ex-service men but give time and devotion to the task of thinking and leading in the right direction, become a great factor in American public life."

General Liggett, when informed of Pacific University at Forest Grove in establishing a chair of American History and Patriotism, declared the hope that the movement would prove contagious. He congratulated the Hood River American Legion Post on establishing the Mount Hood Club. He predicted that the legionnaires would realize their ambition in making the event a national recreational feature of Oregon out of door life.

General Liggett last Wednesday night dropped in on Company C, 186th Regiment, Oregon National Guard, engaged in drill and inspected the youths whom he complimented on being citizen soldiers.

While here General Liggett inquired about the home location of the late Col. Tucker, who he said was one of his best friends in his earlier days of soldiering.

Peterson Home Burglarized

While the family slept the home of K. D. Peterson was burglarized Saturday night, the loot including two gold watches, two $5 bills and silver, taken from purses of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson and a daughter, Miss Livona. The burglars took a chicken and other food prepared for Sunday dinner. They were evidently frightened before completing the job, having left bacca and other larder supplies wrapped in a package and a bundle of clothing. Mr. Peterson's hat was gone, and a dilapidated one left in its place.

Flower Pickers to be Punished

Damage of motor tourists to the rhododendron groves in the Lost Lake country has led the United States forestry service to enforce drastic rules against plucking the flowers. District forest supervisor Walters has placarded the region with signs. He declares that all visitors to the region found picking the shrubbery will be arrested.

FARMER SMITH HERE ON BERRY PROBLEM

"Farmer" C. L. Smith, agriculturist of the Union Pacific lines, here Saturday to confer with ranchers on measures of controlling the strawberry root weevil, declared that the pest, which has become a menace to the big berry acreage of mid-Columbia orchard sections, could be successfully combatted if growers would put into effect certain methods of fighting it. Mr. Smith, who will return later to go into further details in cooperation with the Hood River Experiment Station, stated that arsenate of lead spray should be applied to young berry tracts.

Chickens, he declared, are effective in keeping down the weevils. The poultry should be run in berry fields except when the fruit is ripening. Where old tracts show the prevalence of weevil, Mr. Smith said, the vines should be cut, allowed to dry and then burned.

Yakima Fruit Prospects Good

The fruit prospects of the Yakima Valley are excellent for this season, according to F. L. Peck, warehouse superintendent of the Apple Growers Association, who returned last week from a motor tour of the districts with A. F. S. Steele, general manager of the Association. Mr. Peck says that the yield of this year, from present indications, will be as large as, or larger than last year.

Washington growers, who last year sustained heavy losses from cooling moth injury, will be able to keep the pest well under control this year, it was stated by Mr. Peck. The continued cold weather has been ideal for controlling the moth and it has had an effect in giving the fruit a fine physical condition.

The Yakima Valley, it was said, will be in better condition for handling its fruit tonnage this year than any former season, as growers and shipping concerns are all busy remodeling warehouses and adding new cold storage plants.

Weber's Normas Are Fine

R. H. Weber, who owns orchards here and who is known as the Wasco cherry king, last week brought some of his Normas cherries here. The variety, used as a pollinator in Mr. Weber's big cherry tract, is soft for shipping, but they are an excellent dessert cherry, and local friends of the cherry king were made happy as a result of his courteous thoughtfulness.
