THANKSGIVING

It is perhaps desirable and maybe even necessary that Bank Publicity should for most of the year, have to do with saving, but there is a time for all things, and we are approaching the season when we give wider range to unselfishness and think more of what we can do for others than what we can save for ourselves.

Spurgeon says, "It is not what we have, but what we enjoy that makes us happy," and in that spirit we approach the holiday season thankful that the greatest source of happiness lies in making others happy."

WHY?

Last Sunday I went back 6 miles in the Mosier hills and pulled out a two and a half ton truck, loaded with household goods that had rolled over the bank and landed upside down. I was gone from the shop just six hours and had one man with me.

I have the best wrecking car and equipment this side of Portland. When in trouble call

BRIDGE CREW SHOWS SPEED

EFFICIENT EQUIPMENT ASSEMBLED

Gilpin Construction Company Making a Gratifying Headway on Columbia Columbia Interstate Span

Surprisingly rapid progress is being made on the Hood River-White Salmon Columbia river bridge here. A year ago residents of the mid-Columbia region of Oregon and Washington did not dream that they were near the time when an interstate span would bring them closer together. Today the construction work on four piers has been completed and preliminary work has been started on three others. In another week the Gilpin Construction Co., which has the contract for the $450,000 job, will have started pouring concrete in caissons on the two piers nearest the Oregon shore. If the weather conditions of the coming winter are favorable it is anticipated that the caisson work will be completed considerably before October 1 of next year, the time set for opening the new span to traffic.

The bridge company now has engaged a crew of 24 skilled men, according to P. C. Fletcher, who is in charge of the company's office. The payroll is $1,800 per week. Equipment now in use on the job includes: Five large barges, three derricks, one mile driver, one steam hammer, three launchers. One of the barges is being equipped with apparatus for dredging sand and gravel from a harbor at the mouth of Hood river. This material, it is declared, is excellent. It is located less than a quarter of a mile from the works. Specifications call for 7,000 yards of sand and gravel.

The Gilpin Construction Co. has established a record for the size of the equipment brought here for the job. A huge scow arrived last week with a 102-horse driving a concrete mixer and furnishing steam for various equipment about the works. The huge mixer that has been set up on the barge is the largest that has ever been used on a mid-Columbia contract. It is even larger than anything ever used by the federal government in the construction of the Dalles-Celilo canal. A 55-foot elevator has been erected on the barge, which will be towed beside piers when concrete is being poured. The efficiency and size of the equipment will make the task of pouring the concrete an easy one, as seen as the caissons and piles are put in shape for the work. Work on the piers will be conducted in pairs. The deck of the bridge will be about 90 feet above the present stage of the river, which lacks about a foot of the lowest known stage. The long continuation of the bridge will be about 1,000 feet long.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL NEXT WEEK

S. J. Moore, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, has announced that Ernest C. Smith has been appointed to head the seventh annual roll call, which will be waged here December 3-10.

"We expect to entirely clean up the roll call campaign in the week set," said Mr. Moore. "The Red Cross has been one of the most popular organizations in Hood River, and it is anticipated that the work of soliciting contributions will be nothing more than an assembling of membership funds."

Membership dues are as follows: Annual, $1; contributing, $5; supporting, $25; life, $50, and patron, $100. All but 50 cents of each of the first classes of membership remains in the county in which it is subscribed.

Others of the executive committee are: Mrs. A. G. Lewis, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, Rev. R. A. Hutchinson, Rev. B. Byars, S. J. Moore and Harold Hershner.

District committeemen were appointed as follows: Harold Hershner, city business district; Mrs. A. S. Ketr, city residential district; Rev. R. A. Hutchinson, Parkdale; Mrs. W. J. Fife, Mt. Hood; N. E. Nelson, Dec; Lahr Jensen, Dec; Mrs. S. C. Walters, Middle Valley; Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, Odell; A. W. Peters, Pine Grove; David Pyles, East Barrett; A. C. Wing, West Barrett; Arvo Hukari, Oak Grove; W. T. Price, Frankton; Mrs. Percy L. Manser, Avalon Way and Belmont road; Mrs. Fred Vogel, Wyeth and Viento, and A. W. Meyers, Cascade Locks.

WOMEN'S CLUB NEWS

Miss May Davidson and Mrs. Susie Lynn were in The Dalles last Tuesday to attend a luncheon reunion of members of the Business Women's club who made the Alaska trip together. Miss Davidson and Mrs. Lynn drove on to Dufur over the new The Dalles-California Highway.

Members of the Woman's Club entertained their husbands at their regular meeting, which was held in the evening at Library hall with Mrs. H. G. Cooper, chairman of the music committee, in charge. The men were welcomed by the president, Mrs. W. H. McClain, who gave a short resume of the work of the club since its organization in 1907. Supt. Cannon responded in a happy manner, quoting from the different poets, their opinions of women. The Men's Mandolin Club gave several selections to the enjoyment of all, and Mrs. L. L. Murphy by her readings, given in her inimitable way, pleased everyone. Rev. W. N. Byars delighted with two solos. Mr. Byars has a pleasing personality as well as a splendid voice. The program was followed by a social hour, delicious refreshments being served by the social committee. The hall had been made beautiful for the occasion by the decorating committee, huge bouquets of chrysanthemums of pastel shades having been placed about the room.

December 5 the child welfare committee, with Mrs. J. Edgington chairman, will have charge of the program for the Woman's Club. The children from Coe primary will sing and Dr. Estelle Warner will address the club. A luncheon will be held at the Hotel

Oregon for Dr. Warner and any club member desiring to join the committee at lunch will please telephone Mrs. Edgington for reservations before Tuesday morning.

Next Monday night the second meeting of the dramatic group of the American Association of University Women will be held at Library hall, with Mrs. Joe Hackett chairman.

TOURIST HOSTELRY STARTS IMPROVING

A crew of men has begun extensive landscape gardening on the grounds of the Columbia Gorge hotel. Immediately in front of the big hotel will be constructed a large rustic stone fountain, which will be approximately 20 feet across. Water will trickle from its sides in miniature cascades. A shower of spray will arise from its center. The stones will be moss covered. The overflow from the fountain will form a small stream which will cross a miniature golf course on the triangular lawn in front of the hotel. The small hole course will be complete in every detail. Bankers will be constructed and the holes will be arranged with as much care as those of a large course. George Otten is in charge of the landscape gardening.

During the winter months a signpost from staircase will be constructed east of the falls of Phelps creek. Wau-Guin falls, as the cascades were known to the Indians, down to the O.W.R. & N. track. The distance is over 100 feet.

TEACHERS' BANQUET AT GORGE HOTEL

The teachers of Hood River county who assembled Tuesday morning for their annual institute at the high school, attended a banquet that night at the Columbia Gorge hotel. Every school in the county was represented on the banquet program by address of faculty member or musician number by students. Prof. Cannon, president of the county teachers' association, was in charge of arranging for the banquet. County Supt. Gilpin was toastmaster.

J. B. GOSS KILLED BY FALL FROM CAR

J. B. Goss, aged 45, brakeman on the Mount Hood R. R. Co., was killed Friday night when the car on which he was riding was derailed and he was pitched beneath the moving train. The body was not mangled and apparently he sustained a broken neck. The heavy rainstorm caused a large boulder to roll down the Hood River cañon, outside about 2 1/2 miles south of the city. The trucks of the car, which the body was on, were derailed. It is not known whether Goss fell or jumped from the car. Coroner Stoen was called and the body was brought to the Anderson mortuary.

It was the first time in the history of the short rail line that a member of a train crew suffered fatally. Three years ago Goss lost two toes in an accident. He is survived by his wife, who was caretaker at the home of H. Gross. Mr. Goss owned an Upper Valley ranch place.

Funeral services were held at the Anderson parlor Monday, Rev. Boddy officiating.

Heavy Wind Friday Night

Accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, a terrific gale swept up the Columbia gorge Friday night. Trees were blown across telephone lines and the local company reported 250 subscribers without service. Crews were dispatched at daylight to make repairs. A branch service line of the Pacific Power & Light Co. was put out of commission by a felled tree. The wind blew out the plate glass in doors of Bennett Brothers' store and tore off the top of a gasoline filling tank.

A heavy volume of water poured into the Hood river gorge. The stream was at a record low stage, however, and no damage resulted. Mrs. W. J. Fife, Wind reaching the proportions of a gale alarmed residents here Sunday night when houses were shaken and branches blown from trees. Some damage was caused to telephone lines. The front doors of the Hood River Machine Works were blown down across the top of an automobile, crushing it.

Miss Taylor Suffers Stroke

Miss Kate Taylor, aged 50 and native of New York, was stricken with apoplexy early Sunday evening while watching a picture show. Her condition was noticed by people who sat immediately behind her. A physician was summoned and the stricken woman rushed to the Cottage hospital, where she rallied several hours later.

Miss Taylor, who has been housekeeper at the home of Joe B. Thomson for the past year, came out from New York city three years ago. She was formerly with the family of Rev. Thomas Jenkins, Portland Episcopal minister. A niece, Mrs. George Hendricks, a resident of Washougal, Wash., hurried here to be with Miss Taylor. Yesterday Miss Taylor showed a great improvement.

F. G. Hutchinson Fatally Stricken

F. G. Hutchinson, native of Canada, and resident of the West Side orchard district for the past 13 years, died at Mrs. Alma Howe's Cottage Farm Tuesday afternoon a few hours after he was stricken with apoplexy. Mr. Hutchinson is survived by his wife, a sister of Dr. R. L. Paddock, former eastern Oregon Episcopal bishop, and a son, Robert, student of the University of Washington for the funeral, which will be held from St. Mark's Episcopal church, have not been completed.

S. E. Bartness will conduct the funeral.

Ray Slavens, of Hood River, has been elected chaplain of the student grange, an organization of O. A. C. students majoring in marketing and marketing. Plans are being made to bring prominent grangers to address the marketing students on topics which the national grange is sponsoring.

POULTRY SHOW TO BE ANNUAL

FIRST EXHIBITS WIN MUCH PRAISE

E. F. Batten Wins Sweepstakes—Sunset's Birds Declared the Best Display—Many Attend the Show

So successful was the first annual show of the Hood River County Poultry Association Friday and Saturday that C. D. Nickelsen, officer of the organization, announced that it would be made an annual affair. C. H. Browster, who came to act as judge, declared that the Hood River poultry fanciers had made a remarkable showing when it was considered that the show was arranged on less than two weeks' notice. Mr. Nickelsen declared that the exhibits of next year would be considerably more elaborate. Edw. Thornton, however, declared that he had been given credit by the men for the success of this year's show. Mr. Thornton, however, declared that he would have been unable to have carried the affair to conclusion but for the cooperation of the general public and of the merchants who furnished the premium list.

The sweepstakes prize was won by E. F. Batten, the dean of Hood River poultrymen, who for the past decade has taken awards at Northwest poultry shows and who won a silver cup, donated by W. F. Laraway on a Rhode Island Red cockerel. Bert Senter was declared to have the best display of fowls at the show, his Mammoth White Rocks capturing all of the awards in all classes except second cockerel and second and third on pen won by H. W. Whitteley, of Dec.

Other awards were won as follows: White Leghorns—Cock: Mrs. C. E. Copley, first; C. D. Nickelsen, second. Hen: Mrs. C. E. Copley, first, with Lady MacBeth, second and third. Cockerel: C. D. Nickelsen, first; Mrs. C. E. Copley, second, and E. C. Mooney, third. Pullet: Edw. Thornton, first; Mrs. C. E. Copley, second, and B. C. Mooney, third. Old pen, Mrs. C. E. Copley, first; Young pen: C. D. Nickelsen, first; Edw. Thornton, second; W. H. Goodenough, third.

Pen—E. F. Batten, first; W. R. Gibson, second, and Lewis Trapnest Farm, third. Cock: E. F. Batten, first and second. Cockerel: E. F. Batten, first and second, and W. R. Gibson, third. Hen: E. F. Batten, first. Pullet: E. F. Batten, first, second and third.

White Pekin Ducks—Don Metzgan, only exhibitor; awards in all classes. Mammoth Bronze Turkeys—C. A. Seegar, first on old tom; Don Metzgan, first on young tom and young hen.

Japanese Silkies and Bantams—First hen and first rooster, both apiece, Eugene Senter.

Belgian Buttercups—All classes won by C. D. Nickelsen.

Black Jersey Blacks—Mrs. F. W. Berry, first and third cockerel, first hen, first and third pullet; W. H. Goodenough, second cockerel and second hen.

Black Minorcas—First cockerel: D. F. Taylor.

White Minorcas—Mrs. Fred Carnes, first cockerel, first hen and second hen. New Zealand rabbits—Ed Phelps, first.

Jenn, pedigreed Scotch Collie of E. L. Thomas, with her six handsome puppies, attracted more attention than any other exhibit at the show. She won a first award.

Continual bad weather during the fair did not prevent a large attendance. The show was held at the warehouse of the Hood River Fruit Co.

ROBBERS GET $900 AT MOSIER BANK

Immediately after G. B. Kellogg, cashier of the Mosier Valley Bank, at the neighboring Wasco county apple town, had returned from lunch Tuesday two unmasked men entered the bank, one of the men covering the cashier with a revolver while the other tied his hands behind him. The men took a quantity of silver from the vault and ransacked money drawers in the front of the bank, securing a total loss of over $900. They then tied Mr. Kellogg's feet and threw him in the vault, whirling the combination. In their haste the robbers tied Mr. Kellogg insecurely and in about 15 minutes he had worked the combination on his arms, leaping out and pointing on the vault door when James Cherry, Mosier orchardist, entered the bank. The latter called Mrs. Kellogg from her home only a few blocks away, and she came immediately, working the combination and releasing her husband.

Although the bank is immediately across the street from the postoffice and the Mosier Hotel, no one had observed the robbery and the men left unseen. Mr. Kellogg reported that one of the men, about 30 years old, wore a blue shirt and overalls. The other, who seemed about 20, wore a gray sweater and khaki riding trousers. W. Clark, employed at the O.W.R. & N. station, reported seeing an Oldsmobile parked beside the road near the city. This car was seen crossing Hood river about 1:30, and officers believe it bore the robbers.

A peculiar coincidence, J. G. Ruggles had, just after hearing of the Mosier robbery, the receipt of a letter from friends in Cottonwood, Ida., who reported a holdup there of an entirely similar nature about a week ago. While the Idaho bank was robbed by a single man, he was supposed to have headed west.

Mr. Kellogg said that the older robber of Tuesday seemed perfectly at ease, while the younger was extremely nervous.

It is the custom of the Mosier bank to close during the noon hour. The town is very inactive during this hour and for some time afterward. It is believed that the robbers had carefully prearranged their plans. The bank was fully protected by burglary insurance.

Robert Rand, pioneer hotel man of this city, who later established Wau-Guin-Guin, is very ill at his home just west of the city. Mr. Rand celebrated his 88th birthday last August.
