COMMITTEE OF 5 ORGANIZED

MEETING HELD IN CHEHALIS, WASH.

C. K. Benton, Oregon member, tells of Plans of Apple Growers for Cooperation—Yakima Meet Soon

The committee of five northwestern apple growers, appointed by N. B. Hoffman, president of the Washington State Chamber of Commerce, who met last week at Chehalis, Wash., to organize, have established temporary headquarters at Yakima, according to C. K. Benton, Oregon member of the committee. Officers of the committee were named as follows: F. H. Moses, of Wenatchee, chairman; J. W. Langston, of Walla Walla, secretary, and E. L. Schwartz, of Yakima, treasurer. The other member of the committee is J. M. Gillette, of Malaga.

Mr. Benton says that no definite plans have been made by the committee but that it adopted a resolution asking the California Fruitgrowers' Exchange as the best model for the apple growers to follow.

"We selected Yakima because it is centrally located," said Mr. Benton, "and we will meet there Thursday (today). We expect to spend most of the coming month with our coats off, hanging into this thing. It is likely that any California cooperative plan will have to be modified to meet northwestern conditions among apple growers. We are going to proceed slowly and cautiously, hoping that we will be able to give the growers something tangible as soon as possible. We do not want to go at this matter so hastily, however, as to have to back track anything."

Mr. Benton stated that the work of the committee, which would select an executive secretary as soon as one was available, would be financed by banks, clearing houses and commercial clubs and chambers of commerce.

Truman Butler was called to the Chehalis meeting in an advisory capacity.

SESSIONS OF INSTITUTE APPRECIATED

Those who participated in the monthly Annual Community Institute of the Pine Grove district, which closed Sunday, declare it was the best midwinter event ever held by the members of the East Side section. Despite inclement weather, large crowds were present at all sessions. The banquet dinner was a feature that has grown to be popular each year.

The people seemed to appreciate the program this year," said H. W. Smith, who was active in preparations and arrangements for the institute. Chairmen of the program were: J. H. Mohr, Mrs. A. J. Miller, H. L. Shoemaker and C. T. Roberts. Out of town speakers gave addresses as follows: "An Agricultural Program for Oregon," Paul V. Marie, of the Oregon Agricultural College; "Fundamentals of a Sound Tax Policy," and "Government Ownership of Highways," Dr. Jas. H. Gilbert, of the University of Oregon; "Work and Outlook of the W. C. T. U. and the Children's Fund," Mrs. Mary Mallett, president of the state W. C. T. U., and Dr. Chas. A. Edwards, of Portland, who delivered the annual institute sermon Sunday morning.

Other numbers on the program were: Songs, Miss Helen Brock's piano; recitation, Everett Clynane; solo, Dorothy Brock; songs by grade pupils of Pine Grove school; songs by high school boys; songs, boys of Miss Wagner's room; piano solo, Mrs. Walter Wells; community singing; recitation, Lenore Lage, and recitation, Maurice Yannier.

ARNOLD, JOHNSON LEASE, WILL BUILD

J. C. Johnson and Floyd Arnold, now tenants of antiquated frame structures, the former with a shoe store, and the latter with his meat market, announced Monday that they had each leased from the Otten estate a half of the 44-foot frontage and will set jointly in the construction of a fireproof, one-story business structure. The property adjoins the location where excavation is now under way for a $70,000 stone building for the Butler Banking Co.

CITIZENSHIP ESSAY

Dr. V. R. Abraham has been appointed to take charge of the American Legion good citizenship essay contest for Hood River county schools.
